Ambushers Escape After Opening Fire From Parked Autos

PARIS (AP) — Machine gun bursts fired by assassins from ambush in a quiet Paris suburb shot out the rear window and two tires of President Charles de Gaulle's speeding car Wednesday night but he and his party escaped unharmed.

Two vehicles and gunmen at the roadside figured in the assassination attempt against the 71-year-old president, police said.

De Gaulle was showered with splintered glass when one of the estimated 120 to 150 bullets fired at his car smashed the rear window. Another bullet drilled a hole within inches of where the president usually sits, the Interior Ministry reported.

In all, six bullets were reported to have hit the presidential car.

Grenades Found At Scene

The Interior Ministry said in a statement to newsmen that splinter grenades and incendiary grenades were found unexploded at the scene of the attack.

The ministry reported bursts of gunfire came from two cars parked on opposite sides of the road, catching De Gaulle's car in a crossfire, and witnesses reported there were several gunmen on foot firing from behind the parked cars.

Other cars, a member of De Gaulle's escort, a passerby and a nearby shop were hit by bullets without serious injury or damage.

The attack came despite recently tightened security measures involving the use of planes and helicopters to keep the 71-year-old president—ever disdainful of attempts on his life—from reach of lurking enemies.

Third Brush With Death

Elysee Palace, the presidential residence in the heart of Paris, issued a communique late Wednesday night saying:

"Several bursts of gunfire shattered the rear window (of De Gaulle's car) and shot out two tires."

It was De Gaulle's third known close brush with assassins in less than a year. It came as he was speeding to his country home from a cabinet meeting devoted to measures against a French crime wave blamed on French gunmen forced out of independent Algeria.

"We can only assume the attack was made by the European Secret Army (OAS)," a Paris police headquarters officer said.

Explosions Kill Four Workmen

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Four workmen were killed 50 feet underground Wednesday by a series of fiery explosions which rocked a storm sewer excavation in South Philadelphia.

The dead were identified as James C. Hennigan, 36, Robert Wilson, 27, William Gregory, 34, and James C. Riddick, all of Philadelphia.

The last of the four bodies was taken from the shaft by firemen nearly seven hours after the first explosion rocked the excavation area adjacent to a huge petroleum refinery storage field.

The men were employed by the Driscoll Construction Corp. which is building the storm sewer for the city.

Rescue operations were hampered by dense smoke and lethal fumes which city disaster coordinator Samuel S. Baxter said probably came from gasoline which had soaked the area underground, possibly from the nearby refineries.

Italian Building Hard Hit By Quake

This building, its upper portions caved in by the series of earthquakes in southern Italy, becomes a point of wonder for inhabitants of Montecalvo Irpino, a small town near Naples. It was in this area around Naples that the heaviest damage was caused by the temblors.

Will Overtake Russia By 1970, Kennedy Says

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy, stressing repeatedly that Russia is ahead in creating big rockets necessary for far-flung space travel, predicted Wednesday that by 1970 the United States will overtake its Soviet rival.

As if to squelch some subordinate officials who have tended to downgrade the exploits of the cosmonaut twins, Kennedy used the word "behind" seven times in referring to the U.S. position.

"Anybody who attempts to suggest we are not behind misleads the American people," he said in a news conference carried by television and radio.

"We started late," he said, but a tremendous effort is now under way. This year's space budget, he said, is greater "than the combined space budgets of the previous eight years."

The President also:

1. Announced that two U.S. nuclear submarines have made a "historic rendezvous" under the north polar icecap.

Berlin Rights Not Affected

2. Served notice that the Soviets' latest move in Berlin cannot "affect our rights." The Soviets abolished Wednesday their commandant's office in Berlin—a step which many officials viewed as part of the long Kremlin effort to turn East Berlin over to the Communist East German regime and press the Western garrisons out of Berlin.

3. Disclosed that Fidel Castro's Cuba has recently received large quantities of additional supplies from Communist-bloc countries, plus more technicians.

4. Brushed aside a charge by George M. Humphrey, Republican former secretary of the treasury, that a Senate investigation of stockpiling sales by Humphrey companies is "a stab in the back" aimed at former President Dwight D. Eisenhower. Kennedy said "Congress ought to do its job," that there are "extremely large profits" involved in stockpiling, and it is important for the people to know who makes the money.

A reporter told Kennedy there have been rumors that Soviet Premier Khrushchev will come to the United Nations session in New York this fall, and asked whether it might be useful for the two men to meet again.

"I don't know whether he is coming," Kennedy replied. "We have received no information about it. Of course, if he did come, he would be—I would hope I would have a talk with him. I hope to see whatever heads of government that come in the call for the U.N. session."

Emphasis On Five Bills

Kennedy opened the meeting with newsmen by announcing the exploits of the atomic submarines.

He also volunteered general comments on the legislative program as he has before Congress, and emphasized five bills he said are important and still pending:

1. The farm bill passed by the Senate, which he said holds out hope of ending chaos in farm product controls. It requires House action.

2. The drug safety bill.

3. A constitutional amendment to outlaw the poll tax. He said a two-thirds vote in the House Monday is essential because American citizens should not have to pay to vote.

4. The reciprocal trade bill — He urged the Senate to pass it without restrictive amendments. It has been approved by the House.

5. The United Nations bond bill, which he said is an issue "not Democratic or Republican but American." He said he is confident it will be approved by all thoughtful members of the House.

Senator Questions Humphrey Veracity

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Clair Engle, D-Calif., has accused former Secretary of the Treasury George M. Humphrey of deliberate misrepresentations in his testimony at a Senate stockpile hearing.

Engle, one of the Senate Armed Services subcommittee members tangled with Humphrey at last week's hearing into a $98-million nickel stockpile deal. He said in a Senate speech Wednesday that the former Cabinet officer tried to divert attention from this central issue: "Were unconscionable profits reaped from contracts, the terms of which were adverse to the national interest?"

Humphrey, whose testimony was cut off abruptly when Chairman Stuart Symington, D-Mo., recessed the hearing indefinitely, declined to comment on Engle's speech. Humphrey was Treasury secretary in the Dwight D. Eisenhower administration.

Citing numerous passages in Humphrey's testimony and official records to backstop his argument, Engle declared the 72-year-old Cleveland industrialist's testimony was "enveloped in vagueness, uncertainty and contradiction" whenever figures were involved.

The senator said that when the hearings resume these four points must be cleared up:

1. Humphrey's testimony that profits of his M. A. Hanna Co. were only $7.5 million after taxes while Hanna tax returns showed profits of more than $10 million.

2. Sworn testimony by a government auditor, which Humphrey and other Hanna officials disputed that "certain records subpoenaed by the subcommittee were destroyed or not produced."

3. Evidence that "Hanna misrepresented their operating costs, thereby billing the government for over $1 million" which "Hanna should have paid from their own pockets."

4. Auditor's estimates that Hanna acquired for $1.7 million a government-built smelter plant near his Riddle, Ore., mine which cost $25 million, and Humphrey's testimony that this was "not worth anything" without Hanna ore and had been paid for in full with nickel for the stockpile.

Cop Killer Is Denied Clemency By Kerner

CHICAGO (UPI)—Illinois Gov. Otto Kerner Wednesday refused to spare "cop killer" James Dukes from the electric chair Friday. A few hours later, a judge turned down Dukes' attorney's plea for a writ of habeas corpus and a stay of execution.

The attorney, Jason Bellows, in desperate, last-ditch attempts, said immediately he would ask the U.S. Supreme Court to review the case, and, at the same time, ask a federal district judge in Chicago for a writ of habeas corpus.

Acting Chief Justice Abraham Bussell of the Cook County Criminal Court rejected Bellows' petition less than 30 hours before Dukes is scheduled to die after spending six years in death row.

A few hours earlier, Kerner, in a terse, 12-line statement, said he did not feel Dukes was an "appropriate case" for the exercise of executive clemency.

State Dept. Discloses U.S. Flier Freed By Indonesia

WASHINGTON (UPI) — American flier Alan Lawrence Pope was released July 2 from an Indonesian prison where he had been serving a life sentence and was whisked secretly back to the United States, the State Department disclosed Wednesday night.

Department spokesman Joseph Reap said Pope, 33, of Homestead, Fla., had spent a quiet vacation with his family and done some traveling around the country after being flown home in a U.S. military plane.

The department said his present whereabouts was not known.

The soldier of fortune was captured in 1958 when the bomber he was flying for a group of rebels against the Indonesian government was shot down. He escaped the death penalty at his Jakarta trial and was sentenced in 1960 to life in prison.

The United States has appealed repeatedly to the Sukarno government to release him.

Reap said Pope had been set free by Indonesia as part of a general amnesty which also brought the release of other non-American prisoners. Reap said the United States gave nothing in return for Pope's freedom.

Reap disclosed the release after the story began to leak out.

He said Pope requested that his release be kept secret so he could get some rest and spend some time with his family.

Senate Passes Modified Farm Bill, 47 To 37

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate again passed a farm bill Wednesday after writing in a softened version of President Kennedy's plan to reduce huge grain surpluses piled up under government price supports over the years.

The action, after only two days of debate, stepped up the Senate's pace toward adjournment. It opened the way for consideration of other administration "must" legislation—a drug bill and tax proposal are next in line.

The 47-37 vote by which the Senate passed the farm bill was surprisingly close in view of the nearly 2-1 margins by which Democrats fought off efforts to revise it. The measure was supported by 43 Democrats and 4 Republicans and opposed by 28 Republicans and 9 Democrats.

The action sent the bill back to the House, which in June scrapped an earlier bill containing the stiff controls Kennedy requested. The modified plan was tied to a bill the House passed last month which did little more than provide for continuing existing voluntary wheat and feed grain programs for another year.

The differences between what the House and Senate voted will be worked out by a conference committee of the two chambers. A battle could develop there, but Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., the assistant Senate Majority leader, said House Democratic leaders expect the key Senate provisions to be accepted.

The principal amendment voted by the Senate could sharply reduce or wipe out price supports starting with 1964 crop corn, sorghum grains, barley and other livestock feed grains. It would permit the Secretary of Agriculture to fix price supports on these anywhere between zero and 90 per cent of parity after next year, provided it would not increase the government-held surpluses.

Johnson Leaves For Midwest Tour

After a ceremonial send-off by President Kennedy, Johnson and his wife, Lady Bird, took off aboard a presidential jet for a tour of Lebanon, Cyprus, Iran, Greece and Turkey. They were due to arrive at Beirut, Lebanon, Thursday.

A-Subs Rendezvous Beneath North Pole

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy disclosed Wednesday a historic rendezvous between two U. S. atomic submarines under the North Pole.

The demonstration could carry great significance in any future war in the arctic no-man's land lying between North America and Russia.

The President, announcing the rendezvous at his news conference, said it was an "exceptional tactical feat."

His reference appeared to be to ship-against-ship operations engaged in by the two submarines in an anti-submarine warfare exercise carried out in connection with the rendezvous.

The submarines were the Skate, which left her New London, Conn., home port on July 7 and the Seadragon, which sailed from Pearl Harbor on July 12. They met under the Pole on July 31.

The two are en route back now, with the Skate due in New London about Aug. 28 and the Seadragon due to arrive at the Seattle World's Fair on the same date. Both ships are 261 feet long and displace 2,600 tons.

Both submarines are veterans of previous polar trips. The Skate was the first submarine to surface at the North Pole—on March 17, 1959. The Seadragon, in transferring from the Atlantic to the Pacific fleet in August 1960, traveled by way of the North Pole.

Aboard the Skate is Dr. Waldo K. Lyon, polar research scientist of the Navy who was awarded the President's distinguished federal civilian service medal by Kennedy last month. Because Lyon was then en route to the now disclosed rendezvous, the medal was given to his wife by Kennedy. At the time, the White House and Navy declined to say where Lyon was, or to indicate precisely the reason for the award.

Following the rendezvous and anti-submarine warfare maneuver, the two ships surfaced through the ice at the Pole. Ceremonial parties, including flag-bearing colors or guards, were landed on the ice. Crew members visited each other and took a walk "around the world" on the ice at the spot marking the top of the earth.

Judge Orders End To Space Center Strike

HUNTSVILLE, Ala. (UPI) — A federal judge Wednesday ordered electricians back to their jobs at the Redstone Arsenal missile agencies and said the work stoppage was "approaching national suicide."

The strike was hampering work on a test stand for America's Saturn moon rocket.

Federal Judge C. W. Allgood, sitting in Birmingham, handed down the ruling after an hour-long hearing on a request by the National Labor Relations Board for a permanent injunction against picketing by members of Local 558 of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers (AFL-CIO).

Earlier in the day Gordon M. Freeman, president of the electricians international union, dispatched a telegram from his Washington office ordering local labor leaders to get their men back to work pending review of the situation by a presidential committee.

Later in the day President Kennedy said at his news conference that he thought the strike was "a great mistake" on the part of the workers and was also "a great loss to the country."

More Buildings Tumble In Italian Quakes; 15 Dead

NAPLES, Italy (AP) — Slight earthquakes tumbled a few damaged buildings Wednesday in the wake of a series of temblors that caused about 15 deaths, injured at least 60 persons and wrought heavy damage across a belt of southern Italy.

But people of the affected region, though stunned and frightened by the violent disturbances Tuesday night, groped their way back to normal.

From the major port on the Tyrrhenian Sea to the Adriatic coast 150 miles away, Italians by the hundreds of thousands streamed back to jobs and homes they had fled in panic to stay outdoors through the night.

Vacationing Jacqueline Kennedy and her daughter Caroline went swimming as usual.

Though their cliffside villa at Ravello is only 45 miles southwest of the apparent epicenter of the worst quake, only slight tremors were felt in that region.

Mrs. Kennedy was visiting in the garden of another villa across town at the time. The jolt there was also slight.

The American First Lady visited the town square shortly afterward to shop. The square was thronged by many of the 2,500 villagers discussing limited effects of the quake — window rattling and felling of a few pictures from walls.

The major blow was a subterranean shudder that shook towns and villages for five seconds, cracking walls and windows, collapsing buildings and bridges and blacking out whole sections of the Italian peninsula because of downed power lines. Dozens of homes were destroyed.

American Soldier's Defection Indicated

SEOUL (UPI)—A U.S. military spokesman said Wednesday an American soldier may have defected to Communist North Korea.

The spokesman identified the soldier as Pfc. James J. Dresnok of Allentown, Va. He said he had been missing from his unit near the demilitarized zone since Aug. 15, but there was no confirmation that he actually had defected.

A Tass news agency report from Moscow said Dresnok defected to North Korea because of "political motives."

U.S. Affirms Rights In New Red Squeeze

State Dept. Asserts Russia Must Carry Out Its Obligations

BERLIN (AP) — The Soviet Union took one more step Wednesday toward its announced objective of forcing the Western Allies out of Berlin.

Gen. Ivan Ykubovsky, Soviet commandant for all East Germany, summoned officers of the three Western powers to his headquarters and handed them an announcement that the Soviet Command in Berlin is being abolished.

The announcement said the commandant's duties were being transferred to Soviet headquarters in East Germany. These duties involve matters relating to the movement and supplies of the Western garrisons in and out of West Berlin.

U. S. Cites Soviet Obligations

In Washington, the State Department declared the United States would continue "to hold the Soviet Union responsible for carrying out its obligations in Berlin" and the Western commandants would continue to exercise their rights. The United States consulted its allies on the Soviet decision.

The full significance of the Soviet move was not immediately apparent. The Soviet representative remained at the important Berlin Air Safety Center, Russian guards were still standing sentry at the huge Russian monument built in the British sector at the end of the war.

The Communist East German government enthusiastically hailed the Soviet action as a "contribution to eliminating the remains of the Second World War."

Allied Commands Stay

The Communists said the Western Allies had been maintaining the fiction of a four-power kommandatura in Berlin as a cover for a North Atlantic Treaty Organization base in Berlin.

It seemed to be implicit in the Communist move that removal of the Russian kommandatura from East Berlin automatically took away the basis for retention of other Allied commands here.

This is not the case, however. All three Western powers have pledged to maintain West Berlin as a free and independent city.

The kommandatura, along with other Allied control machinery, was to operate during the period of occupation following German surrender with a subsequent agreement to be negotiated for the following period. There has been no such agreement.

The Soviet action came as Berliners were reacting indignantly to the fatal shooting by East German guards of an 18-year old East German boy, who sought freedom over the Communist-built wall through Berlin.

Anger over the killing prompted West Berliners to stone Russian army vehicles in West Berlin. So the Russians started changing the guard at their war memorial by means of armored personnel carriers.

The Russians were permitted to use the armored carriers on the understanding they would not be armed. Maj. Gen. Albert Watson II, American commandant, ordered that these vehicles be accompanied at all times by U.S. escorts in the interests of "safety and good order of traffic."

The three small armored personnel carriers rolled up to Checkpoint Charlie at 1 p.m. Be

Soblen Before British Court

LONDON (UPI) — Convicted Soviet spy Dr. Robert A. Soblen went before Britain's high court Wednesday in another attempt to prevent his deportation to the United States where he faces life imprisonment. The court sat for three hours before adjourning until Thursday.

The opening session was devoted to presentation of defense counsel arguments challenging the right of the government to order Soblen returned to the United States. Communist Czechoslovakia has granted him a visa.

Four times during the lengthy hearing, the 61-year-old Lithuanian - born psychiatrist, complaining of "extreme pain," staggered dramatically out of the courtroom.

The bail-jumping fugitive from American justice says he is dying from cancer of the blood and requires periodic medication.

It seemed to be implicit in the Communist move that removal of the Russian kommandatura from East Berlin automatically took away the basis for retention of other Allied commands here.

All three Western powers have pledged to maintain West Berlin as a free and independent city.

The kommandatura, along with other Allied control machinery, was to operate during the period of occupation following German surrender with a subsequent agreement to be negotiated for the following period. There has been no such agreement.

The Soviet action came as Berliners still were reacting indignantly to the fatal shooting by East German guards of an 18-year-old East German boy, who sought freedom over the Communist-built wall through Berlin.

Anger over the killing prompted West Berliners to stone Russian army vehicles in West Berlin. So the Russians started changing the guard at their war monument by means of armored personnel carriers.

The Russians were permitted to use the armored carriers on the understanding they would not be armed. Maj. Gen. Albert Watson II, American commandant, ordered that these vehicles be accompanied at all times by U.S. escorts in the interests of "safety and good order of traffic."

The three small armored personnel carriers rolled up to Checkpoint Charlie at 1 p.m. Be-

Soblen Before British Court

LONDON (UPI) — Convicted Soviet spy Dr. Robert A. Soblen went before Britain's high court Wednesday in another attempt to prevent his deportation to the United States where he faces life imprisonment. The court sat for more than five hours before adjourning until Thursday.

The opening session was devoted to presentation of defense counsel arguments challenging the right of the government to order Soblen returned to the United States. Communist Czechoslovakia has granted him a visa.

Four times during the lengthy hearing, the 61-year-old Lithuanian - born psychiatrist, complaining of "extreme pain," staggered dramatically out of the courtroom.

The bail-jumping fugitive from American justice says he suffers from cancer of the blood and requires periodic medication.

Senator Questions Humphrey Veracity

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Clair Engle, D-Calif., has accused former Secretary of the Treasury George M. Humphrey of deliberate misrepresentations in his testimony at a Senate stockpile hearing.

Engle, one of the Senate Armed Services subcommittee members tangled with Humphrey at last week's hearing into a $98-million nickel stockpile deal. He said in a Senate speech Wednesday that the former Cabinet officer tried to divert attention from this central issue: "Were unconscionable profits reaped from contracts, the terms of which were adverse to the national interest?"

Humphrey, whose testimony was cut off abruptly when Chairman Stuart Symington, D-Mo., recessed the hearing indefinitely, declined to comment on Engle's speech. Humphrey was Treasury secretary in the Dwight D. Eisenhower administration.

Citing numerous passages in Humphrey's testimony and official records to backstop his argument, Engle declared the 72-year-old Cleveland industrialist's testimony was "enveloped in vagueness, uncertainty and contradiction" whenever figures were involved.

The senator said that these four points must be cleared up:

1. Humphrey's testimony that profits of his M. A. Hanna Co. were only $7.5 million after taxes while Hanna tax returns showed profits of more than $10 million.

2. Sworn testimony by a government auditor, which Humphrey and other Hanna officials disputed that "certain records subpoenaed by the subcommittee were destroyed or not produced."

3. Evidence that "Hanna misrepresented their operating costs, thereby billing the government for over $1 million" which "Hanna should have paid from their own pockets."

4. Auditor's estimates that Hanna acquired for $1.7 million a government-built smelter plant near its Riddle, Ore., mine which cost $25 million, and Humphrey's testimony that this was "not worth anything" without Hanna ore and had been paid for in full with nickel for the stockpile.

Cop Killer Is Denied Clemency By Kerner

CHICAGO (UPI)—Illinois Gov. Otto Kerner Wednesday refused to spare "cop killer" James Dukes from the electric chair Friday. A few hours later, a judge turned down Dukes' attorney's plea for a writ of habeas corpus and a stay of execution.

The attorney, Jason Bellows, in desperate, last-ditch attempts, said immediately he would ask the U.S. Supreme Court to review the case, and, at the same time, ask a federal district judge in Chicago for a writ of habeas corpus.

Acting Chief Justice Abraham Bussell of the Cook County Criminal Court rejected Bellows' petitions less than 30 hours before Dukes is scheduled to die after spending six years in death row.

A few hours earlier, Kerner, in a terse, 12-line statement, said he did not feel Dukes was an "appropriate case" for the exercise of executive clemency.

Senate Passes Modified Farm Bill, 47 To 37

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate again passed a farm bill Wednesday after writing in a softened version of President Kennedy's plan to reduce huge grain surpluses piled up under government price supports over the years.

The action, after only two days of debate, stepped up the Senate's pace toward adjournment. It opened the way for consideration of other administration "must" legislation—a drug bill and tax proposal are next in line.

The 47-37 vote by which the Senate passed the farm bill was surprisingly close in view of the nearly 2-1 margins by which Democrats fought off efforts to revise it. The measure was supported by 43 Democrats and 4 Republicans and opposed by 28 Republicans and 9 Democrats.

The action sent the bill back to the House, which in June scrapped an earlier bill containing the stiff controls Kennedy requested. The modified plan was tied to a bill the House passed last month which did little more than provide for continuing existing voluntary wheat and feed grain programs for another year.

The differences between what the House and Senate voted will be worked out by a conference committee of the two chambers. A battle could develop there, but Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., the assistant Senate Majority leader, said House Democratic leaders expect the key Senate provisions to be accepted.

The principal amendment voted by the Senate could sharply reduce or wipe out price supports starting with 1964 crop corn, sorghum grains, barley and other livestock feed grains. It would permit the Secretary of Agriculture to fix price supports on these anywhere between zero and 90 per cent of parity after next year, provided it would not increase the government-held surpluses.

State Dept. Discloses U.S. Flier Freed By Indonesia

WASHINGTON (UPI) — American flier Alan Lawrence Pope was released July 2 from an Indonesian prison where he had been serving a life sentence and was whisked secretly back to the United States, the State Department disclosed Wednesday night.

Department spokesman Joseph Reap said Pope, 33, of Homestead, Fla., had spent a quiet vacation with his family and done some traveling around the country after being flown home in a U.S. military plane.

The department said his present whereabouts was not known.

The soldier of fortune was captured in 1958 when the bomber he was flying for a group of rebels against the Indonesian government was shot down. He escaped the death penalty at his Jakarta trial and was sentenced in 1960 to life in prison.

The United States has appealed repeatedly to the Sukarno government to release him.

Reap said Pope had been set free by Indonesia as part of a general amnesty which also brought the release of other non-American prisoners. Reap said the United States gave nothing in return for Pope's freedom.

Reap disclosed the release after the story began to leak out.

He said Pope requested that his release be kept secret so he could get some rest and spend some time with his family.

Johnson Leaves For Midwest Tour

After a ceremonial send-off by President Kennedy, Johnson and his wife, Lady Bird, took off aboard a presidential jet for a tour of Lebanon, Cyprus, Iran, Greece and Turkey. They were due to arrive at Beirut, Lebanon, Thursday.

American Soldier's Defection Indicated

SEOUL (UPI)—A U.S. military spokesman said Wednesday an American soldier may have defected to Communist North Korea.

The spokesman identified the soldier as Pfc. James J. Dresnok of Allentown, Va. He said he has been missing from his unit near the demilitarized zone since Aug. 15, but there was no confirmation that he actually had defected.

A Tass news agency report from Moscow said Dresnok defected to North Korea because of "political motives."

More Buildings Tumble In Italian Quakes; 15 Dead

NAPLES, Italy (AP) — Slight earthquakes tumbled a few damaged buildings Wednesday in the wake of a series of temblors that caused about 15 deaths, injured at least 60 persons and wrought heavy damage across a belt of southern Italy.

But people of the affected region, though stunned and frightened by the violent disturbances Tuesday night, groped their way back to normal.

From this major port on the Tyrrhenian Sea to the Adriatic coast 150 miles away, Italians by the hundreds of thousands streamed back to jobs and homes they had fled in panic to stay outdoors through the night.

Vacationing Jacqueline Kennedy and her daughter Caroline went swimming as usual.

Though their cliffside villa at Ravello is only 45 miles southwest of the apparent epicenter of the worst quake, only slight tremors were felt in that region.

Mrs. Kennedy was visiting in the garden of another villa across town at the time. The jolt there also was slight.

The American First Lady visited the town square shortly afterward to shop. The square was thronged by many of the 2,500 villagers discussing limited effects of the quake — window rattling and felling of a few pictures from walls.

The major blow was a subterranean shudder that shook towns and villages for five seconds, cracking walls and windows, collapsing building and bridges and blacking out whole sections of the Italian peninsula because of downed power lines. Dozens of homes were destroyed.

College Student Fatally Beats Professor Father

HUNTSVILLE, Tex. (AP)—A college student who admired his professor father so much he wanted to be a teacher, too, wordlessly bludgeoned his parent to death Wednesday.

The victim held out his hand to his son and said, "Give me your hand. I love you," as he perished.

Harold L. Russell, 19, an "A" student, told the story in the sheriff's office after his father Dr. Harris L. Russell, 54, was pronounced dead on arrival at Huntsville Memorial Hospital.

The son was charged with murder.

The father and son lived together in their home at Country Campus, a part of Sam Houston State College here where the father taught and the son was a summer student.

The youth's mother and father divorced. She remarried again.

Young Russell was unable to give any motive for the slaying. He was studying during regular school sessions at the University of Texas, where he had completed his freshman year.

"I wanted to teach like my father," he said. He was studying history.

His father taught foreign languages, getting his doctorate at the University of Chicago, where young Russell was born.

Recently the father bought his son a car as a reward for his good grades.

Here is the story the boy told Sheriff Floyd Farris and County Atty. John W. Phillips:

Young Russell arose about 7 a.m. and prepared to go to classes.

He walked into the living room where his father was sipping coffee.

A 12-inch iron bar, part of a weight lifting set, was on the floor. He said for no reason he can explain he picked up the bar and hit his father on the head.

His father said, "Oh, hell!"

The youth hit him repeatedly again. Then he took his father and helped him into a bedroom and into bed.

The father, wracked by pain, tried to talk. Young Russell leaned over his father, the father stuck out his hand and said, "Give me your hand. I love you."

cessful campaign for Algerian independence.

The Interior Ministry said that gunmen fired three bursts at the official presidential sedan carrying De Gaulle, his wife and son-in-law to an airport outside Paris.

Bullets ripped two tires of De Gaulle's car but there were no injuries. The tires were safety type that do not go flat immediately. The party changed to another car that took them to a military airport.

De Gaulle and his party later flew as scheduled to his country home at Columbet-les-Deux-Eglises in Eastern France, where he has been spending most of the summer.

He arrived there safely later in the evening.

Police said two vehicles believed used in the ambush were found later parked in the nearby suburb of Clamart. One was a sedan of the same model as the De Gaulle Citroen and the other was a small Renault panel truck.

Submachine guns and hand grenades were found inside both vehicles, officers said. Spent shell casings littered the floor of the vehicles.

TROUVILLE, France (AP)—French singer Edith Piaf, who was reported seriously ill in eastern France a week ago, Wednesday sang at the Trouville Casino, apparently fully recovered.

Town Fathers Change Minds, To Receive Ike

DUBLIN, Ireland (AP)—Dwight D. Eisenhower visits the county of President John F. Kennedy's forebears Thursday, a journey that kicked up an uproar.

The former standard bearer of the Republican party will be making no Kennedy pilgrimage, however, when he visits County Wexford.

On the contrary, he doesn't even plan to go near the birthplace of Patrick Kennedy, great-grandfather of the Democrat who succeeded Eisenhower in the White House.

The announced purpose of Eisenhower's visit is to lay a wreath on the memorial to Commodore John Barry, known locally as the father of the American Navy.

About two months ago, the Wexford City Corporation received word that Eisenhower wanted to pay homage to Barry.

The corporation decided that it could not receive him. It said the day chosen was inconvenient, that the members of the town's brass band would be at work and that it would be hard to give such a distinguished visitor a proper welcome.

When this story leaked out, a community scream of protest went up.

Some citizens even suggested that the corporation was demonstrating bias for Eisenhower's successor in the White House.

The corporation met again, reversed itself, and an official invitation was sent to Eisenhower through the U.S. Embassy in Dublin.

Rail Merger Seen Regaining Business

WASHINGTON (AP) — The big losers of business in a merger of the Pennsylvania and New York Central railroads would be other modes of transportation, rather than other railroads, James W. Symes said Wednesday.

Symes, board chairman of the Pennsylvania, told two Interstate Commerce Commission examiners the merger "will increase our share of the total transportation pie."

The question was raised by a railroad union lawyer cross-examing Symes on the third day of the examiners' hearings on the proposal to merge the Pennsylvania and New York Central into the nation's biggest rail system.

Young Vandals Are Put To Work

ROCKVILLE, Md. (AP) — Six Wheaton boys, under instructions from the Montgomery County Juvenile Court, report to Belt Junior High School Wednesday "prepared to do a full day's work."

Judge Alfred Noys set this out as part of the penalty he ordered for the youths' share of vandalism at the school.

The boys, all 13 or 14 years old and pupils at the school, also were ordered to make restitution to the Board of Education for damage they caused in June when they set off explosive blasts in outside doorways of the building.

Robert C. Zimmerman, assistant principal, said the boys were arrested by police after they put powder from firecrackers into pipes or metal tubes and then braced them against the school doors. He said the blasts left large dents and powder burns on the doors.

Zimmerman said some will get scrub brushes and wipe off markings inflicted earlier by other vandals. Others will get gardening and general cleanup chores.

Russians Explode Another A-Device

UPPSALA, Sweden (UPI) —The Soviet Union detonated a nuclear bomb Wednesday with the explosive power of 9 million tons of TNT, Swedish scientiest reported.

It was the fifth explosion detected by monitoring instruments since the Soviets began the current series of nuclear tests in the Arctic. Moscow has made no official announcements on the testing.

Woman Sought In Case Of Two Buried Bodies

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The mystery woman in the case of the bodies in the basement eluded a posse of police and FBI agents Wednesday after abandoning her two small grandsons on an Oakland street.

She is Mrs. Iva Kroeger, 44, who vanished just before police dug up two bodies under her San Francisco home. Her husband Ralph, 61, was held on a murder charge but told police, "I don't know a damn thing about it."

One of the bodies was identified as that of Jay Arneson, 70, an invalid retired Army major who had been strangled with a belt and stuffed head first into a hole four feet deep.

The other was that of a woman, still not positively identified but believed to be that of his former wife, Mildred, 58. The Kroegers and Arnesons were associated in a Santa Rosa, Calif., motel deal.

During last December and January the Kroegers took over the motel and the Arnesons disappeared.

Coroner Henry Turkel said the woman's body, which had been buried in a trunk a few feet from that of Arneson, had three small bone fractures in the neck, indicating strangulation.

It was believed the woman in the trunk, possibly Mrs. Arneson, was the first victim to reach a basement grave. She disappeared in mid-December. Santa Rosa police said Mrs. Kroeger forged $570 worth of travelers checks that had been purchased by Mrs. Arneson on Dec. 14.

Animal Welfare Society Considering Jr. Group

Plans October 13 Sale

The probability of starting a junior group was discussed at the meeting of the Allegany County Animal Welfare Society, which was conducted by Mrs. Edward Finan Tuesday evening at the Antique Shop, North Centre Street. It will be for children from 7 to 12 years of age. Susan Hardy was accepted as a member.

Plans also were discussed for an antique auction and rummage sale which will be held October 13 with Merwin Hast as auctioneer. Proceeds are to be used for prizes the society awards and to promote its educational training program. George M. Young was named location chairman and Mrs. W. Earle Cobey chairman of posters and advertising. Louis Young and Mrs. Finan are co-chairmen for the sale and will take care of picking up contributions. Anyone having antiques of any kind, unappreciated wedding gifts, objects of art, electrical appliances or rummage of any kind is asked to call PA 2-1439 or PA 2-6357.

Reporting on lost dogs picked up, Mr. Hast said he found a German shepherd and Boxer type female. The society decided that in case of especially nice animals picked up, it would try to find the owners.

The Be Kind To Animals award for July was given to Richard Page. A report on the city recreation pet show was given by Mrs. Finan. The next meeting will be September 18 at the Antique Shop, 439 North Centre Street.

Ladies Aid To Hold Supper

The Ladies Aid of Trinity Lutheran Church will hold a covered dish supper Sunday at the home of Mrs. William Eyler, Warrior Mountain, beginning at 5:30. It is for members and their families.

Each family is to bring a covered dish and place settings. Cold beverages will be furnished by the society, and coffee by the hostess.

For directions, Mrs. Cleo Knippenberg or Mrs. Margaret Hutson are to be called.

Century 21 Flower Show Chairmen Are Announced

Chairmen have been announced for the forthcoming flower show to be sponsored by the Garden Club of Cumberland. "Century 21, A Salute to the World's Fair" is the theme of the show, and Mrs. Rudolph Steinberger is general chairman.

The other chairmen are Mrs. Bernard E. Sitter, schedule; Mrs. Robert L. Horstman, staging; Mrs. R. W. Phillips Jr., entrance display; Mrs. Coit Speicher, flower arrangement; Miss Elfrieda Neumann and Mrs. Bernard Fleigle, horticulture; Mrs. Edward Shaffer, junior division; Harry Miller and Arnett Widener, classification; Mrs. Robert L. Ebert, passing; Mrs. Robert Hunter Jr., registration; Mrs. Charles Hoelzel and Mrs. William Bergman, publicity; Mrs. William Frailey, judges and awards; Mrs. George Henderson, hospitality; Dr. Rudolph Steinberger and Dr. J. Donald Gibson, dismantling.

The dates for the show are September 10 and 11. It is to be held at Emmanuel Episcopal parish hall on Washington Street. The public is invited to visit the show between the hours of 2:30 and 9:30 p.m. on Monday and 11 a.m. and 8 p.m. on Tuesday. Amateurs are encouraged to enter exhibits in the show whether they are club members or not. Schedules are available at local florists. A list of the various classes was published in this paper August 16.

Anyone desiring further information about the show can contact Mrs. Steinberger or Mrs. J. Donald Gibson, Garden Club president.

Social Chart

Maccabee Lodge Tent 18 will hold its annual picnic Sunday at Minke's pool. Cars will leave the lodge, 24 Bedford Street, at 11 a. m.

A training meeting for home furnishing chairmen will be held at 10 a. m. today at the extension office.

Past Matrons and Past Patrons Association, OES, will hold a dinner at 6 tonight at St. George's Episcopal church, Mt. Savage.

Clan Elects

George Zembower was elected president of the Zembower clan at the reunion Sunday at Rainsburg Park, Pa. Serving with him are Thomas Zembower, vice president; Mrs. Donna Martin, secretary, and Mrs. Edith Brown, treasurer.

A prize for being the oldest man present was awarded to Torsee Zembower, 86; the oldest woman, Mrs. Hulda Simmons, 96; the youngest, Kathy Walker, three and one half months; and Floyd Zembower, Philadelphia, coming the greatest distance.

OES Picnic Is Today

McKinley Chapter 12, Order of Eastern Star will entertain members, their families and friends at a picnic today. It will be at the Ali Ghan picnic grounds, with dinner at 6 p.m.

Entertainment of swimming and games will precede the dinner. Members are asked to bring their own place settings. Mrs. Dorothy Ringler is chairman of arrangements.

Our Flag of Cumberland Council 100, D of A, will hold a games party at 1:30 today at the IOOF hall, Virginia Avenue.

Iota Epsilon Extends Invitation To Celebration

An invitation to attend Iota Epsilon Chapter's Founders Day celebration was extended to Oakland and Keyser chapters. The celebration will be in the form of a dinner October 18 at Central YMCA.

Mrs. Mary White, president of Iota Epsilon, Tau Phi Lambda of the Supreme Forest Woodmen Circle, extended the invitation at a pool party given by Mu Lambda Chapter Monday evening at the home of Miss Patricia Winters, Oakland. Mrs. Leona Wilt, president of Mu Lambda, extended a welcome and brief remarks were given by Mrs. White and Mrs. Carol Sue Landis, president of the Keyser chapter.

Following swimming, a wiener roast was held and a buffet style picnic was served. The hostess chapter sang several selections, after which there was group singing. Mrs. Joann Craize and Mrs. Anna Lee Snyder won the cake walk and Miss Marjory Crist, a special award.

Mrs. Catherine Dailey, West Virginia-Maryland state manager, was a special guest. Attending from here were Mrs. White, Mrs. Juanita Lease, Mrs. Craize, Mrs. Jean Shafferman, Mrs. Snyder, Mrs. Betty Dean, Mrs. Neva Grazania, Miss Crist, Miss Joan Lear, Mrs. Margaret Hartman, Mrs. Patricia Hunter and Mrs. Betty Ann Poland.

Iota Epsilon will hold a formal business meeting September 6 at the Girl Scout house. At that time plans will be completed for the rush party, and a committee named for the Founders Day celebration.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Develop Your Interest Through Letter-Writing

Before the advent of the telephone, automobile, planes, and trains — when even a relatively small number of miles constituted a vast distance—it was a great and celebrated occasion when friends met face to face. But friends in those days were cherished throughout a lifetime. The relationship was nourished through letters. Then people strove to reveal their thoughts and to relate the events of their lives through the written word. Almost any bundle of old letters from that period will shed valuable light on the social and historical aspects of the time and on the personality and character of the writer.

Of course, letter writing is not entirely a lost art. The biographer of any famous person of this era depends to a great extent on the letters that person wrote to family and friends. Many of our most famous people today are prolific and expert letter writers. I know one woman who makes a hobby of letter writing and writes at least one a day.

Suppose, just for a moment, that you pause to think of the kind of biography your letters would make. Would you be proud of it? Would it reveal you as a thinking, well-rounded person, in touch with the world and times? Would it contain your attitudes and reactions, your dreams and aspirations? Would the delightful and charming facets of your personality be represented because you had taken the time and trouble to see to it that they shone out in every letter you had written?

Anyone worth writing to deserves a full coverage of the news about you and your life. Include as many colorful and interesting details as you can.

Characterize your letters by graciousness of thought and expression. Every letter you write should demonstrate subtly your concern about the other's interest. As an example, your correspondent, let's say, collects ironstone. Don't just ask her how her collection is progressing. Keep your eyes peeled for pieces available in your area and tell her about them.

And remember that recipes for fun, food, or how to keep a husband happy can be exchanged in letters as well as in conversation!

5-Foot-6 Admiral Runs Biggest U.S. Unified Military Command

By CHARLES BERNARD

HONOLULU (UPI) — One of the U.S. Navy's smallest but most respected admirals runs the nation's biggest unified military command reaching from the American west coast to India.

He is four-star admiral Harry Donald Felt, 60, a Kansas-born 5-foot-six-inch welterweight who can stand next to a six-footer and make the taller man seem smaller.

Felt will be one of the featured speakers at the national conference of United Press International editors and publishers in San Francisco Oct. 1-2.

He commands not only every sailor, marine and ship in the Pacific, but every soldier, tank, military plane and rocket. His manpower adds up to 430,000 men spread across almost half the earth's surface.

His close friends call him Don. Those who realize the scope of his job call him "Mr. Pacific."

He is known as a traveling admiral who spends about as much time roaming his multi-million square mile command as he does running the show from headquarters atop a hill overlooking Pearl Harbor in Hawaii.

Within the space of a few days he may be in Australia for a meeting of military advisers to the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization (SEATO), or off to Laos or Viet Nam.

Next he might be aboard a 7th Fleet aircraft carrier or back in Washington to confer with President Kennedy and Defense Department officials.

Felt's job is vital in U.S. global strategy. He must help protect and extend the freedom of 300 million Asians still outside the iron and bamboo curtains. At the same time he must safeguard approaches to the United States from surprise attack.

The peppery little admiral brings 42 years of varied military experience to the top spot in the Pacific. He started with a Naval Academy appointment in 1919, moved on after graduation to battleships and destroyers, then he switched to naval aviation and he won his wings in 1929.

On Pearl Harbor day Felt was a lieutenant commander and skipper of Dive Bombing Squadron 2 aboard the USS Lexington. Later he commanded Carrier Group 3 aboard the USS Saratoga and took part in attacks on Guadalcanal and occupation of the island.

On Guadalcanal he won the Distinguished Flying Cross and a few weeks later the Navy Cross, the nation's second highest decoration, for braving intense anti-aircraft fire and enemy fighter planes to press an attack which sank or damaged a Japanese carrier, damaged a heavy cruiser and sank a destroyer.

Ann Landers . . .

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My family and I are involved in a friendly argument. We agreed to let you settle it. I claim on Army records and such where it says "nearest of kin" the wife should be listed, if he is married.

My husband says a wife is not nearest of kin. According to him it is a man's mother. To support his argument he claims a man is no kin to his wife at all, except through marriage.

We are waiting for your answer to settle it.

—LITTLE ROCK

DEAR ROCK: Let the Bible settle it. According to the Scripture a man and his wife shall be "as one." You can't get any closer than that, can you? So—nearest of kin, for a married man, is his wife.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: You recently sympathized with physicans who are nabbed in church, or at parties, by people who want free medical advice. Now will you give the same break to the poor maligned police officer?

Whenever my husband and I stop at the local pub for a relaxing drink even though he is in civilian clothes the word gets around that he is John Law and then the complaints begin. They usually start like this: "Some lousy copper gave me a ticket last week for no reason at all. He said I was going 55 in a 40 mile zone . . . etc. . . . etc. . . ."

Yesterday some half-loaded stranger sat down at our table and said "I'd like to ask you a question. How come the bulls never see the Cadillacs parked in the bus stops or near fire hydrants? They always nail some poor goof who is driving a '52 Chevie."

It's a good thing my husband is a man of restraint or some of these people would wind up with a healthy paste in the mouth.

This is not just our problem, Ann, but the problem of every man on the force. A word from you could do a lot of good. Please print this letter.

—JOHN LAW'S WIFE

DEAR MRS. LAW: Here's your letter and I hope it helps, but don't expect miracles. The public is inclined to forget that law enforcement officers are individuals. They tend to transfer gripes against one to another without rhyme or reason. More than in any other line of work, the first-rate police officer must carry the burden for his so first-rate colleagues. Let's be grateful that the vast majority of officers are honest, hardworking citizens.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I met a very nice fellow in the home of a friend. He was in uniform and just about to be shipped overseas. We had four dates and hit it off well together. He asked if I'd write to him and I agreed. He made it plain he didn't want to get serious and I said neither did I. (I am 19. He is 21.)

For the first couple of months I heard from him every two weeks. Then the letters began to come more often. I tried to keep my letters casual even though his were becoming fairly mushy. Then he sent me a pair of green satin lounging pajamas with a note saying, "I'd love to see you in these."

His next letter said I was the kind of a girl he'd like to marry "in a few years."

I decided to send all his letters back and ask him not to write anymore.

Three weeks have passed and now I am sorry I was so hasty. I want to hear from him again. What shall I do?

—REGRETTING

DEAR REGRETTING: Distance and separation sometimes intensify feelings. In my opinion you were much too tough on the fellow.

Now write and apologize for acting in haste. Say you'd like to resume the correspondence but you wish he'd skip the love and

Show To Be Held Friday

"Stars in Crepe" a collection of fashions made famous on the screen in former years, will feature the showing of fashions in Celanese fabrics Friday for women attending the Maryland-Delaware-District of Columbia Elks convention. They include duplicate gowns of Clara Bow, Loretta Young, Marlene Dietrich, Greta Garbo, Rosalind Russell, Janet Gaynor, Carole Lombard, Norma Sheerer, Joan Crawford, Barbara Stanwyck and Claudette Colbert. There also will be six costumes by McCall's.

Miss Jean Meeks will be commentator for the show at 2 p.m. in the Cotillion room. Models will be Jean Mertens, Iris Gillum, Pauline Stotler, Joan Geatz, Shirley Sterne, Charlene Helmstetter, Billie Ziler, Jean Shields, Dorothy Taylor, Patricia Kauffman, and Peggy Jo Mackert.

Immediately preceding the show, guests will be entertained at a "coffee." A buffet luncheon will be served at the Fort Cumberland Hotel, Saturday noon.

Attending Convention

Mrs. Elizabeth Nave, 913 Bedford Street, left last evening for San Francisco, where she will represent the Tri-State Chapter at the national convention of the Navy Mothers Club.

Following the convention, a group will fly to Hawaii for eight days, then attend the World's Fair before returning home. Mrs. Nave will be gone five weeks.

League Forming

Anyone interested in joining the Memorial Hospital Mixed Bowling League may call Edward Nolan, HO 3-2050. Play will begin September 9 at the Bowler.

Animal Welfare Society Considering Jr. Group

Plans October 13 Sale

The probability of starting a junior group was discussed at the meeting of the Allegany County Animal Welfare Society, which was conducted by Mrs. Edward Finan Tuesday evening at the Antique Shop, North Centre Street. It will be for children from 7 to 12 years of age. Susan Hardy was accepted as a member.

Plans also were discussed for an antique auction and rummage sale which will be held October 13 with Merwin Hast as auctioneer. Proceeds are to be used for prizes the society awards and to promote its educational training program. George M. Young was named location chairman and Mrs. W. Earle Cobey chairman of posters and advertising. Louis Young and Mrs. Finan are co-chairmen for the sale and will take care of picking up contributions. Anyone having antiques of any kind, unappreciated wedding gifts, objects of art, electrical appliances or rummage of any kind is asked to call PA 2-1439 or PA 2-6357.

Reporting on lost dogs picked up, Mr. Hast said he found a German shepherd and Boxer type female. The society decided that in case of especially nice animals picked up, it would try to find the owners.

The Be Kind To Animals award for July was given to Richard Page. A report on the city recreation pet show was given by Mrs. Finan. The next meeting will be September 18 at the Antique Shop, 439 North Centre Street.

Iota Epsilon Extends Invitation To Celebration

An invitation to attend Iota Epsilon Chapter's Founders Day celebration was extended to Oakland and Keyser chapters. The celebration will be in the form of a dinner October 18 at Central YMCA.

Mrs. Mary White, president of Iota Epsilon, Tau Phi Lambda of the Supreme Forest Woodmen Circle, extended the invitation at a pool party given by Mu Lambda Chapter Monday evening at the home of Miss Patricia Winters, Oakland. Mrs. Leona Wilt, president of Mu Lambda, extended a welcome and brief remarks were given by Mrs. White and Mrs. Carol Sue Landis, president of the Keyser chapter.

Following swimming, a wiener roast was held and a buffet style picnic was served. The hostess chapter sang several selections, after which there was group singing. Mrs. Joann Craize and Mrs. Anna Lee Snyder won the cake walk and Miss Marjory Crist, a special award.

Mrs. Catherine Dailey, West Virginia-Maryland state manager, was a special guest. Attending from here were Mrs. White, Mrs. Juanita Lease, Mrs. Craize, Mrs. Jean Shafferman, Mrs. Snyder, Mrs. Betty Dean, Mrs. Neva Grazania, Miss Crist, Miss Joan Lear, Mrs. Margaret Hartman, Mrs. Patricia Hunter and Mrs. Betty Ann Poland.

Iota Epsilon will hold a formal business meeting September 6 at the Girl Scout house. At that time plans will be completed for the rush party, and a committee named for the Founders Day celebration.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Develop Your Interest Through Letter-Writing

Before the advent of the telephone, automobile, planes, and trains — when even a relatively small number of miles constituted a vast distance—it was a great and celebrated occasion when friends met face to face. But friends in those days were cherished throughout a lifetime. The relationship was nourished through letters. Then people strove to reveal their thoughts and to relate the events of their lives through the written word. Almost any bundle of old letters from that period will shed valuable light on the social and historical aspects of the time and on the personality and character of the writer.

Of course, letter writing is not entirely a lost art. The biographer of any famous person of this era depends to a great extent on the letters that person wrote to family and friends. Many of our most famous people today are prolific and expert letter writers. I know one woman who makes a hobby of letter writing and writes at least one a day.

Suppose, just for a moment, that you pause to think of the kind of biography your letters would make. Would you be proud of it? Would it reveal you as a thinking, well-rounded person, in touch with the world and times? Would it contain your attitudes and reactions, your dreams and aspirations? Would the delightful and charming facets of your personality be represented because you had taken the time and trouble to see to it that they shone out in every letter you had written?

Anyone worth writing to deserves a full coverage of the news about you and your life. Include as many colorful and interesting details as you can.

Characterize your letters by graciousness of thought and expression. Every letter you write should demonstrate subtly your concern about the other's interest. As an example, your correspondent, let's say, collects ironstone. Don't just ask her how her collection is progressing. Keep your eyes peeled for pieces available in your area and tell her about them.

And remember that recipes for fun, food, or how to keep a husband happy can be exchanged in letters as well as in conversation!

O'Donnell Gets Baltimore State's Attorney Post

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Baltimore City Supreme Bench picked William J. O'Donnell Wednesday to succeed the late Saul A. Harris as Baltimore state's attorney.

The 46-year-old lawyer, an assistant state's attorney in the late 1940s, will serve out Harris' unexpired term, which runs to the end of the year. Harris, 71, died Aug. 11.

A four-year replacement will be named in the November general election, when voters choose between the Democratic and Republican nominees.

Ten members of the city's Democratic committee selected Francis J. Valle as the Democratic nominee last week but the action, which stirred a storm of controversy, has been challenged in the courts.

Immediately after O'Donnell was chosen by 13 of the 15 city judges, Gov. Tawes issued a statement saying the choice was extremely gratifying to him. Apparently confident the Valle selection would be thrown out by the courts, the governor said:

"It is my hope that the members of the Democratic State Central Committee of Baltimore City will give serious consideration to Mr. William J. O'Donnell as the Democratic candidate for state's attorney in the forthcoming election."

Valle, who finished second to Harris in the race for the Democratic nomination last May, had the endorsement of James H. (Jack) Pollack, northwest Baltimore political leader.

The governor had a violent falling out with Pollack during the May primary and has opposed the nomination of Valle by the 10 committee members.

Meanwhile, a group of Democrats in the city's 5th District announced Wednesday they were bolting the Pollack organization.

City Councilman Sol Liss and Del. Marvin Mandel, who met with Gov. Tawes in Annapolis Tuesday night, are the leaders of the group. Others in the group are Donald S. Hurwitz, reading clerk of the Maryland Senate, and Del. Richard Rombro.

"None of us have any ambition to become bosses," said a statement from Liss and Mandel, "and we, therefore, intend to use democratic procedures in the group itself, as to selection of candidates, determination of support for various tickets, and the development of policies in public affairs."

Naval Academy Museum Grows

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — The Naval Academy Museum will open a new room Friday which will nearly double the size of the popular tourist attraction.

The extra space was made available when the U.S. Naval Institute, which shares the second floor of the building with the U.S. Naval Academy Athletic Association, constructed a two-story addition.

Both are non-profit organizations. Their financing of the cost of the building standing just inside the main gate make it the only such structure on the academy grounds not paid for with government funds.

Capt. Wade DeWeese, museum director, said the new addition will house displays not associated with any particular war. Part of the academy's famed collection of ship models will be in the new room.

State's Traffic Toll Now 346

By The Associated Press

Three more persons have died on Maryland's highways, increasing the traffic toll for the year to 346 — 86 more than for Aug. 23 of 1961.

The most recent victims are Robert Debaugh, 6, Towson; Mrs. Lillian England, 62, and J. Andrew Jacobs, 35, both of Baltimore.

The Debaugh boy was struck by a truck as he rode his bicycle out of a neighbor's driveway. Mrs. England died Wednesday of injuries received Sunday in a collision near Centreville. Jacobs died after a collision with an ambulance in north Baltimore.

Negroes Enter Pool, Ignore White Crowd

BALTIMORE (AP) — A crowd of more than 200 white persons, some ofthem shouting, ringed a swimming pool in South Baltimore Wednesday after 26 Negroes from a nearby recreation center entered the pool.

Almost two dozen policemen stood by at the Riverside Park pool but there was no violence.

The Negro youths from the Sharp Street Recreation Center entered the pool after changing in the bathhouse. As soon as they did, about a dozen white children in the pool got out.

Ann Landers . . .

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My family and I are involved in a friendly argument. We agreed to let you settle it. I claim on Army records and such where it says "nearest of kin" the wife should be listed, if he is married.

My husband says a wife is not nearest of kin. According to him it is a man's mother. To support his argument he claims a man is no kin to his wife at all, except through marriage.

We are waiting for your answer to settle it.

—LITTLE ROCK

DEAR ROCK: Let the Bible settle it. According to the Scripture a man and his wife shall be "as one." You can't get any closer than that, can you? So—nearest of kin, for a married man, is his wife.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: You recently sympathized with physicans who are nabbed in church, or at parties, by people who want free medical advice. Now will you give the same break to the poor maligned police officer?

Whenever my husband and I stop at the local pub for a relaxing drink even though he is in civilian clothes the word gets around that he is John Law and then the complaints begin. They usually start like this: "Some lousy copper gave me a ticket last week for no reason at all. He said I was going 55 in a 40 mile zone . . . etc. . . . etc. . . ."

Yesterday some half-loaded stranger sat down at our table and said "I'd like to ask you a question. How come the bulls never see the Cadillacs parked in the bus stops or near fire hydrants? They always nail some poor goof who is driving a '52 Chevie."

It's a good thing my husband is a man of restraint or some of these people would wind up with a healthy paste in the mouth.

This is not just our problem, Ann, but the problem of every man on the force. A word from you could do a lot of good. Please print this letter.

—JOHN LAW'S WIFE

DEAR MRS. LAW: Here's your letter and I hope it helps, but don't expect miracles. The public is inclined to forget that law enforcement officers are individuals. They tend to transfer gripes against one to another without rhyme or reason. More than in any other line of work, the first-rate police officer must carry the burden for his so first-rate colleagues. Let's be grateful that the vast majority of officers are honest, hardworking citizens.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I met a very nice fellow in the home of a friend. He was in uniform and just about to be shipped overseas. We had four dates and hit it off well together. He asked if I'd write to him and I agreed. He made it plain he didn't want to get serious and I said neither did I. (I am 19. He is 21.)

For the first couple of months I heard from him every two weeks. Then the letters began to come more often. I tried to keep my letters casual even though his were becoming fairly mushy. Then he sent me a pair of green satin lounging pajamas with a note saying, "I'd love to see you in these."

His next letter said I was the kind of a girl he'd like to marry "in a few years."

I decided to send all his letters back and ask him not to write anymore.

Three weeks have passed and now I am sorry I was so hasty. I want to hear from him again. What shall I do?

—REGRETTING

DEAR REGRETTING: Distance and separation sometimes intensify feelings. In my opinion you were much too tough on the fellow.

Now write and apologize for acting in haste. Say you'd like to resume the correspondence but you wish he'd skip the love and

Show To Be Held Friday

"Stars in Crepe" a collection of fashions made famous on the screen in former years, will feature the showing of fashions in Celanese fabrics Friday for women attending the Maryland-Delaware-District of Columbia Elks convention. They include duplicate gowns of Clara Bow, Loretta Young, Marlene Dietrich, Greta Garbo, Rosalind Russell, Janet Gaynor, Carole Lombard, Norma Sheerer, Joan Crawford, Barbara Stanwyck and Claudette Colbert. There also will be six costumes by McCall's.

Miss Jean Meeks will be commentator for the show at 2 p.m. in the Cotillion room. Models will be Jean Mertens, Iris Gillum, Pauline Stotler, Joan Geatz, Shirley Sterne, Charlene Helmstetter, Billie Ziler, Jean Shields, Dorothy Taylor, Patricia Kauffman, and Peggy Jo Mackert.

Immediately preceding the show, guests will be entertained at a "coffee." A buffet luncheon will be served at the Fort Cumberland Hotel, Saturday noon.

Attending Convention

Mrs. Elizabeth Nave, 913 Bedford Street, left last evening for San Francisco, where she will represent the Tri-State Chapter at the national convention of the Navy Mothers Club.

Following the convention, a group will fly to Hawaii for eight days, then attend the World's Fair before returning home. Mrs. Nave will be gone five weeks.

Tawes Greets Freed Cubans

ANNAPOLIS (AP(—Gov. Tawes welcomed five liberated prisoners from the Cuban invasion to Maryland Wednesday and praised them for their efforts to raise money to free others.

He referred to them as "courageous men who so gallantly risked your lives to restore freedom to your homeland."

"The people of Maryland, along with Americans everywhere, have a long tradition of supporting and encouraging the cause of freedom throughout the world," he said.

"The efforts that are being made to free war prisoners in Cuba is inspiring to me, as I know it is to Americans everywhere . . . I wish you continued success in your struggle for freedom."

The prisoners were allowed to return to this country for medical treatment and to raise fines for themselves and others.

O'Donnell Gets Baltimore State's Attorney Post

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Baltimore City Supreme Bench picked William J. O'Donnell Wednesday to succeed the late Saul A. Harris as Baltimore state's attorney.

The 46-year-old lawyer, an assistant state's attorney in the late 1940s, will serve out Harris' unexpired term, which runs to the end of the year. Harris, 71, died Aug. 11.

A four-year replacement will be named in the November general election, when voters choose between the Democratic and Republican nominees.

Ten members of the city's Democratic committee selected Francis J. Valle as the Democratic nominee last week but the action, which stirred a storm of controversy, has been challenged in the courts.

Immediately after O'Donnell was chosen by 13 of the 15 city judges, Gov. Tawes issued a statement saying the choice was extremely gratifying to him. Apparently confident the Valle selection would be thrown out by the courts, the governor said:

"It is my hope that the members of the Democratic State Central Committee of Baltimore City will give serious consideration to Mr. William J. O'Donnell as the Democratic candidate for state's attorney in the forthcoming election."

Valle, who finished second to Harris in the race for the Democratic nomination last May, had the endorsement of James H. (Jack) Pollack, northwest Baltimore political leader.

The governor had a violent falling out with Pollack during the May primary and has opposed the nomination of Valle by the 10 committee members.

Meanwhile, a group of Democrats in the city's 5th District announced Wednesday they were bolting the Pollack organization.

City Councilman Sol Liss and Del. Marvin Mandel, who met with Gov. Tawes in Annapolis Tuesday night, are the leaders of the group. Others in the group are Donald S. Hurwitz, reading clerk of the Maryland Senate, and Del. Richard Rombro.

"None of us have any ambition to become bosses," said a statement from Liss and Mandel, "and we, therefore, intend to use democratic procedures in the group itself, as to selection of candidates, determination of support for various tickets, and the development of policies in public affairs."

Naval Academy Museum Grows

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — The Naval Academy Museum will open a new room Friday which will nearly double the size of the popular tourist attraction.

The extra space was made available when the U.S. Naval Institute, which shares the second floor of the building with the U.S. Naval Academy Athletic Association, constructed a two-story addition.

Both are non-profit organizations. Their financing of the cost of the building standing just inside the main gate make it the only such structure on the academy grounds not paid for with government funds.

Capt. Wade DeWeese, museum director, said the new addition will house displays not associated with any particular war. Part of the academy's famed collection of ship models will be in the new room.

State's Traffic Toll Now 346

By The Associated Press

Three more persons have died on Maryland's highways, increasing the traffic toll for the year to 346 — 86 more than for Aug. 23 of 1961.

The most recent victims are Robert Debaugh, 6, Towson; Mrs. Lillian England, 62, and J. Andrew Jacobs, 35, both of Baltimore.

The Debaugh boy was struck by a truck as he rode his bicycle out of a neighbor's driveway. Mrs. England died Wednesday of injuries received Sunday in a collision near Centreville. Jacobs died after a collision with an ambulance in north Baltimore.

Negroes Enter Pool, Ignore White Crowd

BALTIMORE (AP) — A crowd of more than 200 white persons, some ofthem shouting, ringed a swimming pool in South Baltimore Wednesday after 26 Negroes from a nearby recreation center entered the pool.

Almost two dozen policemen stood by at the Riverside Park pool but there was no violence.

The Negro youths from the Sharp Street Recreation Center entered the pool after changing in the bathhouse. As soon as they did, about a dozen white children in the pool got out.

NEW YORK (AP) — The Russians' triumph in achieving simultaneous orbit of two manned satellites has given the U.S. stock market new leadership.

Aerospace issues have rocketed to the front on the theory that Soviet successes will inspire the United States to a greater effort in space.

Already there is evidence that the American program is going to be pushed harder. The Defense Department Monday selected Martin-Marietta Co. as the prime contractor for the Titan III space vehicle launcher. The entire program is expected to cost up to $500 million,

L.O Hooper, investment analyst for the brokerage house, W.E. Hutton & Co., comments that there is no question about there being a vogue in aerospace shares.

But he says it is always difficult to know just how far a vogue will go, that most of the companies interested in space are not easy to evaluate, and that it isn't possible to do much more than guess about the size of a program and its duration.

"In theory at least," he adds, "the big companies should be safer speculations than the many smaller ones.

"These vogues often have a way of going farther than conservative people expect—and they usually overdo it before they subside."

The investment advisory service, Spear & Staff, Inc., observes in its science and electronics investment letter that if anyone ever doubted that the age of science is here to stay, one look at the really spectacular space achievement by the Russians should be the final convincer.

It says the well-situated companies directly involved in this new age of technology are virtually sure to realize substantial growth.

CHICAGO (UPI) — American Hospital Supply Co. said Tuesday it has bought for an undisclosed amount of cash the plant and inventory of Amasco Laboratories of Milledgeville, Ga. Amasco, a subsidiary of American Sterilizer Co. of Erie, Pa., makes intravenous solutions and accessory products.

FREELAND, Pa. (UPI)—Major Industries announced the purchase of the air ventillating division of Progress Manufacturing Co. of Philadelphia.

PHOENIX ,Ariz. (UPI) — Garrett Corp. said Tuesday it has obtained a contract to amount ultimately to $2 million for cartridge pneumatic starters for the Air Force's KC-135 aerial tanker.

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—Electric Storage Battery Co. said Tuesday it will concentrate headquarters activities of its overseas operations in an international division in Philadelphia Aug. 31.

Three subsidiary management staffs will be moved from New York and the foreign division of Ray-O-Vac Corp. from Madison, Wis.

NEW YORK (UPI)—Babcock & Wilcox Co. said Tuesday it has received a $12 million contract to supply a universal pressure boiler for the new 525,000-kilowatt Sioux plant of Union Electric Co., 25 miles north of St. Louis.

The young kangaroos, animals which grow to seven feet in height and may weigh 300 pounds, are less than an inch long at birth.

Denver Plant Will Develop Titan III

BALTIMORE (AP)—Naming of the Martin-Marietta Co. as prime contractor for the Titan III rocket project will mean "no large amount" of additional work for the firm's plant at nearby Middle River.

A spokesman for the company said Tuesday that Titan I and Titan II have been essentially projects for its Denver plant, and the same will be true of Titan III.

The Defense Department announcement in Washington that Martin-Marietta would be prime contractor on the project said more than $200 million has been appropriated for the work.

The first U.S. woman cabinet member was Frances Perkins, secretary of Labor during the administration of Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Woman To Woman

By PATRICIA McCORMACK

NEW YORK (UPI) — Plebes at West Point have something in common with Miss America contestants.

Both face tremendous regimentation, discipline and have to live by the rules.

Samples of rules that 55 of the world's prettiest, most talented young women must follow when they report for the Miss America Pagent in Atlantic City, N. J.:

—Don't enter a room where drinks are being served.

—Don't leave your hotel room without your official hostess.

—Ask your father to see the offical hostess and request her presence if he wants to talk to you.

—Your bathing suit must have straps.

There's such a military air about the pageant that one former Miss America refers to the pageant as "Miss Slaughter's Finishing School."

Lenora S. Slaughter, executive director of the Miss America Pageant, doesn't take offense.

"It's rather high praise," she said in an interview. "In effect, we cage the contestants with rules. We have to do it to keep the pageant from getting out of hand."

Miss Slaughter, associated with the pageant since 1935, spent the first seven years organizing the citizens of Atlantic City into committees and leaders who could successfully plan and stage a national pageant that would be as close to perfection as possible.

Miss Slaughter, 52, travels more than 50,000 miles a year meeting with pageant directors and pageant committees nationwide. Leading up to the pageant that opens Sept. 3 in Atlantic City was a batch of pageants — local and state.

"The exact count is 3,500," the executive director said.

Basic content of the pageant program will be the same as in previous years — 55 young women representing the 50 states, the District of Columbia, New York City, Chicago, Puerto Rico and Canada.

Contestants will be seen in evening gown and swimsuit competitions; 10 semi-finalists will present their talent acts; and five of the group, as finalists, will engage in a question-and-answer session to further display their personalities.

EXPLOSION SCATTERS RESCUE WORKERS— A blast from a tunnel near a Philadelphia refinery sends firemen and rescue workers scurrying for safety yesterday. The blast, fourth in a series in the storm sewer excavation in which four men were killed, erupted as the firemen were at one of the entrances. The blast sends one fireman's hat, top center, flying high in the air. (AP Photofax)

U.S. Vessel Delivers 1,000 Army Tents To Algeria

ALGIERS (UPI)—A U.S. 6th fleet vessel delivered 1,000 Army tents to Algeria Tuesday to help ease a housing shortage and a Soviet freighter arrived with a shipment of food.

The tents, each capable of housing 12 persons, arrived at the eastern Algerian port of Bone. The tents were to be transported to the market town of Souk Ahras where 1,200 homeless refugees arrived recently from Tunisia.

The Soviet freighter docked at Algiers with a second cargo of 3,500 tons of wheat, 1,500 tons of sugar and 750,000 cans of condensed milk.

U.S. Consul in Constantine Edward M. Schaefer said the United States previously sent 30,000 pounds of medical supplies and equipment, two teams of doctors and a team of nurses to Algeria.

While the Soviet-American gestures contained elements of a propaganda race, they also appeared to be sparking an international effort to help the new Algerian republic over its birth pains.

Woman To Woman

By PATRICIA McCORMACK

NEW YORK (UPI) — Plebes at West Point have something in common with Miss America contestants.

Both face tremendous regimentation, discipline and have to live by the rules.

Samples of rules that 55 of the world's prettiest, most talented young women must follow when they report for the Miss America Pagent in Atlantic City, N. J.:

—Don't enter a room where drinks are being served.

—Don't leave your hotel room without your official hostess.

—Ask your father to see the offical hostess and request her presence if he wants to talk to you.

—Your bathing suit must have straps.

There's such a military air about the pageant that one former Miss America refers to the pageant as "Miss Slaughter's Finishing School."

Lenora S. Slaughter, executive director of the Miss America Pageant, doesn't take offense.

"It's rather high praise," she said in an interview. "In effect, we cage the contestants with rules. We have to do it to keep the pageant from getting out of hand."

Miss Slaughter, associated with the pageant since 1935, spent the first seven years organizing the citizens of Atlantic City into committees and leaders who could successfully plan and stage a national pageant that would be as close to perfection as possible.

Miss Slaughter, 52, travels more than 50,000 miles a year meeting with pageant directors and pageant committees nationwide. Leading up to the pageant that opens Sept. 3 in Atlantic City was a batch of pageants — local and state.

"The exact count is 3,500," the executive director said.

Basic content of the pageant program will be the same as in previous years — 55 young women representing the 50 states, the District of Columbia, New York City, Chicago, Puerto Rico and Canada.

Contestants will be seen in evening gown and swimsuit competitions; 10 semi-finalists will present their talent acts; and five of the group, as finalists, will engage in a question-and-answer session to further display their personalities.

EXPLOSION SCATTERS RESCUE WORKERS— A blast from a tunnel near a Philadelphia refinery sends firemen and rescue workers scurrying for safety yesterday. The blast, fourth in a series in the storm sewer excavation in which four men were killed, erupted as the firemen were at one of the entrances. The blast sends one fireman's hat, top center, flying high in the air. (AP Photofax)

U.S. Vessel Delivers 1,000 Army Tents To Algeria

ALGIERS (UPI)—A U.S. 6th fleet vessel delivered 1,000 Army tents to Algeria Tuesday to help ease a housing shortage and a Soviet freighter arrived with a shipment of food.

The tents, each capable of housing 12 persons, arrived at the eastern Algerian port of Bone. The tents were to be transported to the market town of Souk Ahras where 1,200 homeless refugees arrived recently from Tunisia.

The Soviet freighter docked at Algiers with a second cargo of 3,500 tons of wheat, 1,500 tons of sugar and 750,000 cans of condensed milk.

U.S. Consul in Constantine Edward M. Schaefer said the United States previously sent 30,000 pounds of medical supplies and equipment, two teams of doctors and a team of nurses to Algeria.

While the Soviet-American gestures contained elements of a propaganda race, they also appeared to be sparking an international effort to help the new Algerian republic over its birth pains.

Child In Michigan Is Fifth Generation

FROSTBURG — Gail Yvonne Patton, who was born July 12, in Hurley Hospital, Flint, Mich., makes the fifth living generation of her family.

Her great-great grandmother, Mrs. Peter Broadwater lives at 31 Virginia Avenue, Cumberland; the great-grandfather, Manley Broadwater, resides in Tucson, Arizona; the grandmother, Mrs. Fred C. Thomas, RFD 2, Frostburg. Gail lives with her parents Mr. and Mrs. Michael Patton, in Flint. Mrs. Patton is the former Eileen Thomas.

Eckhart Club To Meet

ECKHART — Eckhart Square Circle Sportsmen's Club will hold a special meeting Friday at 8 p.m. at the club house. Charles Gillis, president, will preside and urged that all members attend.

Will Repeat Show

ROMNEY — Due to the success of the "Romney Revue of '62" staged during this town's Bicentennial Celebration, the show will be repeated Friday, Saturday and next Sunday on the outdoor pavilion on the athletic field of the West Virginia School For The Deaf and Blind. Curtain time will be 9 p.m.

Card Party Friday

PIEDMONT — Kelly-Mansfield Post 52, American Legion will present the fourth of a series of eight public card parties Friday at 8 p.m. at the Legion Home. Bridge, 500 and setback will be played.

British military authorities in the Boer War instituted concentration camps in 1901, with the object of disheartening fighting troops by collecting non-combatants.

Elks Convention Opens Today

Some state officials were expected to arrive last night but a rush of out-of-town delegations are expected early today for the opening of the annual convention of the Maryland-Delaware-District of Columbia Elks Association at the home of Cumberland Lodge 63.

Joseph E. Mackert, exalted ruler of Lodge 63, said the lodge is prepared to entertain 1,000 registered delegates, members and guests during the meeting which ends Sunday.

Registration desks for visitors open today at 11 a.m.

The schedule includes: 2 p.m., entertainment in Gay Nineties Gaslight Lounge with Ann Moore, organist; 3:30 p.m., reception of state officers at City Hall, welcome by Mayor Earl D. Chaney; 4 p.m., shrimp feed Cotillion room, music by Peck Mills; 5 p.m., Gay Nineties room entertainment; 6 p.m., general get-together Golden Antler Room; 7 p.m., Gay Nineties entertainment, Ann Moore, sing-a-long music; 8 p.m., first association session, ball room, greetings by Mayor Chaney; 9:30 p. m., dance, Glenn Long Orchestra, Harrisburg, Pa.; midnight, floor show, Dusty Shaver and his Hill William Cousins.

Tomorrow's business session is set for 10 a.m. and at noon ladies will be entertained in the Cotillion Room. A golf tourney is scheduled at 1 p.m. at Cumberland Country Club.

Grand Exalted Ruler Lee A. Donaldson is scheduled to arrive at the Elks Lodge on South Centre Street at 1:30 p.m. tomorrow. He will be met at Nave's Crossroads by a local motorcade, later joined by the Mt. Savage High School Band, which will parade over principal downtown streets. Donaldson will be greeted by Elks officials, Mayor Chaney and John J. Rowan, a past exalted rule, and president of the Allegany County Board of Commissioners.

At 2 p. m., the Ladies Convention Committee, headed by Mrs. Peggy Mackert, will be hostess as a style show "Star In Crepe" is presented by Celanese Fibers Company in the Cotillion Room. Narrator is Miss Jean Meeks of Celanese and music will be by Peck Mills.

At 4 p. m., the publicity committee meets and at 4:30 p. m. the Elks' Gay Nineties quartet will entertain.

At 5:30 p. m., a cocktail hour is scheduled at Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club preceding a dinner honoring GER Donaldson who will be principal speaker.

At 8:30 p. m., memorial services with music by the Centre Street Methodist Church choir, will be held at Central Methodist Church.

At 10 p. m., Russ Romero's Orchestra will play for dancing in the Cotillion Room and the Aristocrats for dancing in the ball room.

A floor show featuring the Louise Vella Dancers of Canonsburg, Pa., will be staged at 11:15 p. m.

Local Lodge Hosts State Officers

Officers of the Maryland Grand Council of the Order of the Sons of Italy in America visited William Paca Lodge 1680 here over the weekend.

A reception was held for the officials at the Fort Cumberland Hotel and a dinner was given in their honor.

Samuel A. Culotta, Baltimore grand venerable of Maryland and a national deputy, spoke briefly on the principles of the order. He cited the culture of Italians and their influence in America during the last century or more.

Vito Marino, a trial magistrate in Baltimore County, who is a trustee of the Supreme Order, also spoke on the work of the lodge.

Others attending the reception and dinner were Joseph Giordana, grand orator; Miss Audrey Klausmeyer, Guy Sardella, grand recording secretary; Francis M. Tarrsoco, grand treasurer and Mrs. Tarrasco; Tito Zappacosla, grand financial secretary; Marion J. Nasco, grand trustee; Raymond Lanciotti, grand trustee. They are all from Baltimore City.

Local members and friends of the lodge who attended were Peter J. Carpenti, venerable and Mrs. Carpenti; Armando Fanelli, trustee and Mrs. Fanelli; Patsy Idoni, past venerable and Mrs. Idoni; Joseph DiNicola, recording secretary and Mrs. DiNicola; Nick Monteleone, trustee and Mrs. Monteleone; Dominico Violante, financial secretary and Mrs. Violante; Mr. and Mrs. John Santusiano, Mr. and Mrs. Ferdnando Franchi; Mr. and Mrs. Michele Franze, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Derrico and son; Marco Cornachia, Joseph Monell, Mrs. Steve Freno, Mrs. Domenic Franze and Mr. and Mrs. Arnold DiPollo.

Frostburg Man's Trial Set September 11

The trial of Robert Ball, 22, Frostburg, on charges of rape, attempted rape, assault, carnal knowledge, will be held Tuesday, September 11, in Circuit Court before a jury with Chief Judge Morgan C. Harris and Associate Judge W. Earle Cobey presiding.

Ball was arrested several weeks ago in connection with an assault on an 87-year-old Frostburg woman. The members of the April grand jury were recalled by the court to hear the evidence in the case and they returned the indictment against Ball.

Ball will have John C. Sullivan and Thomas N. Berry as defense counsel while State's Attorney James S. Getty and Deputy State's Attorney Donald W. Mason will present the state's case.

Meanwhile, Ball remains in the county jail pending the trial.

Ordnance Plant At Morgantown Is Purchased

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Representatives of the federal government and the Morgantown, W. Va. Community Association Inc., have signed papers completing the purchase of the Morgantown Ordnance Works for $1,250,000.

Bernard L. Boutin, head of the General Services Administration (GSA), and Joseph H. Courtney, president of the Morgantown Community Association, represented both parties at the signing.

Witnessing the ceremony Monday in the GSA offices were Sens. Jennings Randolph and Robert C. Byrd and Rep. Harley O. Staggers.

Boutin said the effort of all three had "been most helpful in bringing this important sale to a successful conclusion."

A joint statement by all parties said "We are very happy with today's development. The legislative branch has worked closely with the President and the executive branch in bringing this to pass. Everyone has cooperated in this joint effort to provide meaningful employment."

"It's a step forward for greater industrial activity in the Morgantown area. The ceremony was the culmination of intensive efforts to place this property into the hands of local citizens so that it will be developed industrially, thereby strengthening the community and state's economic state."

The 806 acres of the ordnance work includes a chemical plant, a by-product coke oven plant, and transportation facilities. The works, declared surplus in 1958, originally was built by the Du-Pont Co. as part of the wartime munitions program.

Cakes Topple At Fair Exhibit

The Cumberland Fair's baking contest got some unexpected entries in the upside-down cake class Tuesday but none has a chance of winning a blue ribbon. In fact, the double-decked entries resulted from an accident.

A shelf in the exhibition hall containing chocolate cakes collapsed and fell topside down on the white cakes on the lower shelf.

Miss Mary P. Wise, Allegany County home demonstration agent, was icing up to her elbows in efforts to pull the cakes apart. Needless to say, what had been a beautiful display of baked delicacies was converted into somewhat of a mess in the matter of seconds.

Unfortunately, the chocolate cakes had not yet been judged, although the white ones had their ribbons attached.

Jungle Humanitarian Gets Stretcher Plane

SAINT-ETIENNE, France (AP) — A special stretcher-equipped plane ordered by Dr. Albert Schweitzer left Tuesday for the celebrated humanitarian's jungle headquarters in the African country of Gabon.

Pilot Maurice Vessiler said he expects to make a leisurely flight of about a dozen days to Schweitzer's hospital base at Lambarene—about 6,000 miles away.

The single-engine plane will be used by Schweitzer to airlift patients to his hospital compound in the rugged jungle.

Chicago Grains

CHICAGO (UPI) —Wheat futures rallied sharply late Wednesday on the Chicago Board of Trade following reports that Congress may extend the present support program for another year.

Other grain futures also turned higher with wheat. August soybeans leaped 3¾ to 6½ cents to expire at a new seasonal high of $2.56½ for the contract.

At the final bell, wheat was up 2¼ to 2¾; corn off ¼ to up ¼; oats up ⅛ to ⅜; rye up ⅞ to 1¼; soybeans off ⅛ to up 6½.

Interest centered mainly in the soybean pit and in the August deliveries, which went off the board at noon CDT. Shorts and commission houses bought August, and commercial interests took November. Local traders sold. Offerings were small.

Soybean meal declined under early liquidation, but prices soon rallied on short covering and commission buying.

Wheat prices turned upward on active buying by commission houses and a large exporter. Futures also rose at Kansas City and Minneapolis.

Early local and export buying firmed corn. Commission houses sold on the advance. Crop news remained favorable. Oats prices largely followed those of corn.

Rye advanced with wheat despite more active liquidation than in recent sessions.

Exporters sold 350,000 bushels of oats to West Germany for August shipment, according to trade sources. Pakistan took 1,285,000 bushels of wheat and Israel 400,000 bushels of corn.

Outside markets were mixed.

Market Moves Sharply Higher In Active Trading

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stocks moved sharply higher in active trading Wednesday pushing the Dow-Jones industrial average to its highest point since May 24, two trading days before the big plunge of May 28.

The D-J industrials were up 6.90 to 615.54 in the sharpest jump since it rose 12.47 on July 2. Standard & Poor's 500 stock index climbed 0.66 to 59.78, its highest peak since May 24.

A total of 1,258 issues crossed the tape of which 803 advanced and 246 declined. Of these 17 hit new 1962 highs and 4 new lows.

Stocks see-sawed through most of the morning session and didn't begin to gather momentum until IBM, one of the hardest hit issues in the May purge, broke through 400. It closed at 409 up 16¼.

Trading totaled 4,520,000 shares compared with 3,730,000 in the previous session.

Brokers noted also that the sharp advance followed a published report that the economic trend in July pointed upward for the first time since February. Included in the 30 indicators used by the census bureau to indicate general economic trends are: the average factory work week, Standard & Poor's stock market index, the prices of industrial materials and the value of new orders for machinery and equipment.

Not until 1785 were shoes made to fit right and left feet.

Elks Convention Opens Today

Some state officials were expected to arrive last night but a rush of out-of-town delegations are expected early today for the opening of the annual convention of the Maryland-Delaware-District of Columbia Elks Association at the home of Cumberland Lodge 63.

Joseph E. Mackert, exalted ruler of Lodge 63, said the lodge is prepared to entertain 1,000 registered delegates, members and guests during the meeting which ends Sunday.

Registration desks for visitors open today at 11 a.m.

The schedule includes: 2 p.m., entertainment in Gay Nineties Gaslight Lounge with Ann Moore, organist; 3:30 p.m., reception of state officers at City Hall, welcome by Mayor Earl D. Chaney; 4 p.m., shrimp feed Cotillion room, music by Peck Mills; 5 p.m., Gay Nineties room entertainment; 6 p.m., general get-together Golden Antler Room; 7 p.m., Gay Nineties entertainment, Ann Moore, sing-a-long music; 8 p.m., first association session, ball room, greetings by Mayor Chaney; 9:30 p. m., dance, Glenn Long Orchestra, Harrisburg, Pa.; midnight, floor show, Dusty Shaver and his Hill William Cousins.

Tomorrow's business session is set for 10 a.m. and at noon ladies will be entertained in the Cotillion Room. A golf tourney is scheduled at 1 p.m. at Cumberland Country Club.

Grand Exalted Ruler Lee A. Donaldson is scheduled to arrive at the Elks Lodge on South Centre Street at 1:30 p.m. tomorrow. He will be met at Nave's Crossroads by a local motorcade, later joined by the Mt. Savage High School Band, which will parade over principal downtown streets. Donaldson will be greeted by Elks officials, Mayor Chaney and John J. Rowan, a past exalted rule, and president of the Allegany County Board of Commissioners.

At 2 p. m., the Ladies Convention Committee, headed by Mrs. Peggy Mackert, will be hostess as a style show "Star In Crepe" is presented by Celanese Fibers Company in the Cotillion Room. Narrator is Miss Jean Meeks of Celanese and music will be by Peck Mills.

At 4 p. m., the publicity committee meets and at 4:30 p. m. the Elks' Gay Nineties quartet will entertain.

At 5:30 p. m., a cocktail hour is scheduled at Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club preceding a dinner honoring GER Donaldson who will be principal speaker.

At 8:30 p. m., memorial services with music by the Centre Street Methodist Church choir, will be held at Central Methodist Church.

At 10 p. m., Russ Romero's Orchestra will play for dancing in the Cotillion Room and the Aristocrats for dancing in the ball room.

Local Lodge Hosts State Officers

Officers of the Maryland Grand Council of the Order of the Sons of Italy in America visited William Paca Lodge 1680 here over the weekend.

A reception was held for the officials at the Fort Cumberland Hotel and a dinner was given in their honor.

Samuel A. Culotta, Baltimore grand venerable of Maryland and a national deputy, spoke briefly on the principles of the order. He cited the culture of Italians and their influence in America during the last century or more.

Vito Marino, a trial magistrate in Baltimore County, who is a trustee of the Supreme Order, also spoke on the work of the lodge.

Others attending the reception and dinner were Joseph Giordana, grand orator; Miss Audrey Klausmeyer, Guy Sardella, grand recording secretary; Francis M. Tarrsoco, grand treasurer and Mrs. Tarrasco; Tito Zappacosla, grand financial secretary; Marion J. Nasco, grand trustee; Raymond Lanciotti, grand trustee. They are all from Baltimore City.

Local members and friends of the lodge who attended were Peter J. Carpenti, venerable and Mrs. Carpenti; Armando Fanelli, trustee and Mrs. Fanelli; Patsy Idoni, past venerable and Mrs. Idoni; Joseph DiNicola, recording secretary and Mrs. DiNicola; Nick Monteleone, trustee and Mrs. Monteleone; Dominico Violante, financial secretary and Mrs. Violante; Mr. and Mrs. John Santusiano, Mr. and Mrs. Ferdnando Franchi; Mr. and Mrs. Michele Franze, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Derrico and son; Marco Cornachia, Joseph Monell, Mrs. Steve Freno, Mrs. Domenic Franze and Mr. and Mrs. Arnold DiPollo.

Cakes Topple At Fair Exhibit

The Cumberland Fair's baking contest got some unexpected entries in the upside-down cake class Tuesday but none has a chance of winning a blue ribbon. In fact, the double-decked entries resulted from an accident.

A shelf in the exhibition hall containing chocolate cakes collapsed and fell topside down on the white cakes on the lower shelf.

Miss Mary P. Wise, Allegany County home demonstration agent, was icing up to her elbows in efforts to pull the cakes apart. Needless to say, what had been a beautiful display of baked delicacies was converted into somewhat of a mess in the matter of seconds.

Unfortunately, the chocolate cakes had not yet been judged, although the white ones had their ribbons attached.

Jungle Humanitarian Gets Stretcher Plane

SAINT-ETIENNE, France (AP) — A special stretcher-equipped plane ordered by Dr. Albert Schweitzer left Tuesday for the celebrated humanitarian's jungle headquarters in the African country of Gabon.

Pilot Maurice Vessiler said he expects to make a leisurely flight of about a dozen days to Schweitzer's hospital base at Lambarene—about 6,000 miles away.

The single-engine plane will be used by Schweitzer to airlift patients to his hospital compound in the rugged jungle.

Frostburg Man's Trial Set September 11

The trial of Robert Ball, 22, Frostburg, on charges of rape, attempted rape, assault, carnal knowledge, will be held Tuesday, September 11, in Circuit Court before a jury with Chief Judge Morgan C. Harris and Associate Judge W. Earle Cobey presiding.

Ball was arrested several weeks ago in connection with an assault on an 87-year-old Frostburg woman. The members of the April grand jury were recalled by the court to hear the evidence in the case and they returned the indictment against Ball.

Ball will have John C. Sullivan and Thomas N. Berry as defense counsel while State's Attorney James S. Getty and Deputy State's Attorney Donald W. Mason will present the state's case.

Meanwhile, Ball remains in the county jail pending the trial.

Ordnance Plant At Morgantown Is Purchased

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Representatives of the federal government and the Morgantown, W. Va. Community Association Inc., have signed papers completing the purchase of the Morgantown Ordnance Works for $1,250,000.

Bernard L. Boutin, head of the General Services Administration (GSA), and Joseph H. Courtney, president of the Morgantown Community Association, represented both parties at the signing.

Witnessing the ceremony Monday in the GSA offices were Sens. Jennings Randolph and Robert C. Byrd and Rep. Harley O. Staggers.

Boutin said the effort of all three had "been most helpful in bringing this important sale to a successful conclusion."

A joint statement by all parties said "We are very happy with today's development. The legislative branch has worked closely with the President and the executive branch in bringing this to pass. Everyone has cooperated in this joint effort to provide meaningful employment."

"It's a step forward for greater industrial activity in the Morgantown area. The ceremony was the culmination of intensive efforts to place this property into the hands of local citizens so that it will be developed industrially, thereby strengthening the community and state's economic state."

The 806 acres of the ordnance work includes a chemical plant, a by-product coke oven plant, and transportation facilities. The works, declared surplus in 1958, originally was built by the Du-Pont Co. as part of the wartime munitions program.

Sofisticates At Fair

Appearing at the Cumberland Fair all this week in the Stars of Tomorrow Revue are the Sofisticates, a quintet of young entertainers from Cumberland. All students at Frostburg State Teachers College, the Sofisticates have given approximately 220 performances in the three years they have been organized. They recently returned from engagements in St. George and Hamilton, Bermuda, and appeared with Bruce Yarnell, star of the television show "Outlaw" when Yarnell was guest on another TV show. Left to right are James Cumiskey, Betsy Hosack, Kenneth Moreland, Julia Hendricks and John Clark. The Stars of Tomorrow Revue, all new from last year, is being presented nightly at the Fair, beginning at 8 o'clock. Admission to the grandstand is free.

Grimes Retires As ICC Employe

Charles A. Grimes, 108 Oak Street, known by his fellow workers as "Saucer," has retired after 49 years service with the B&O Railroad Company here.

Grimes started his railroad career September 13, 1913 as a machinist helper and then took four years apprentice training. In 1922 he was promoted to machinist and served in that capacity until 1934 when he became Interstate Commerce Commission inspector.

Grimes is married to the former Eleanor Freeland and they have a son, Kenneth (Sookie) Grimes, city, and a daughter, Mrs. Mary Katherine Stephens, Kansas City, Mo. He also has two step-children, Rita Mae and Curtis Kime; and two grandchildren, Linda Sue Stephens and Kenneth Grimes Jr.

Water-Sewage Study Unit Is Named

The City of Cumberland and Allegany County have taken another step toward a study of city-county water and sewage problems with approval of eight committee appointments and agreement on a ninth member to be named by the county from the Georges Creek area.

Mayor Earl D. Chaney met with the Board of Allegany County Commissioners Tuesday to discuss the study aimed at solving water and sewage problems of the area. The Mayor and Council had given Chaney authority to make necessary arrangements for instituting the committee.

Mayor Chaney reported that the county had approved the eight members but said it would like to appoint a ninth. Chaney said he was agreeable to this.

The eight members approved are as follows:

J. Lauton Hoffman, Frostburg; Horace P. Whitworth Jr., Westernport; A. Trago Brust, Cumberland; William A. Douglas, La-Vale; Charles C. Stutzman, Cumberland; J. Carson Dowell, Sunset View; F. Perry Smith and J. Leslie Helmer, Cumberland.

Chaney and John J. Rowan, president of the Board of Allegany County Commissioners, will serve as ex-officio members.

Chicago Grains

CHICAGO (UPI) —Wheat futures rallied sharply late Wednesday on the Chicago Board of Trade following reports that Congress may extend the present support program for another year.

Other grain futures also turned higher with wheat. August soybeans leaped 3¾ to 6½ cents to expire at a new seasonal high of $2.56½ for the contract.

At the final bell, wheat was up 2¼ to 2¾; corn off ¼ to up ¼; oats up ⅛ to ⅜; rye up ⅞ to 1¼; soybeans off ⅛ to up 6½.

Interest centered mainly in the soybean pit and in the August deliveries, which went off the board at noon CDT. Shorts and commission houses bought August, and commercial interests took November. Local traders sold. Offerings were small.

Soybean meal declined under early liquidation, but prices soon rallied on short covering and commission buying.

Wheat prices turned upward on active buying by commission houses and a large exporter. Futures also rose at Kansas City and Minneapolis.

Early local and export buying firmed corn. Commission houses sold on the advance. Crop news remained favorable. Oats prices largely followed those of corn.

Rye advanced with wheat despite more active liquidation than in recent sessions.

Exporters sold 350,000 bushels of oats to West Germany for August shipment, according to trade sources. Pakistan took 1,285,000 bushels of wheat and Israel 400,000 bushels of corn.

Outside markets were mixed.

Market Moves Sharply Higher In Active Trading

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stocks moved sharply higher in active trading Wednesday pushing the Dow-Jones industrial average to its highest point since May 24, two trading days before the big plunge of May 28.

The D-J industrials were up 6.90 to 615.54 in the sharpest jump since it rose 12.47 on July 2. Standard & Poor's 500 stock index climbed 0.66 to 59.78, its highest peak since May 24.

A total of 1,258 issues crossed the tape of which 803 advanced and 246 declined. Of these 17 hit new 1962 highs and 4 new lows.

Stocks see-sawed through most of the morning session and didn't begin to gather momentum until IBM, one of the hardest hit issues in the May purge, broke through 400. It closed at 409 up 16¼.

Trading totaled 4,520,000 shares compared with 3,730,000 in the previous session.

Brokers noted also that the sharp advance followed a published report that the economic trend in July pointed upward for the first time since February. Included in the 30 indicators used by the census bureau to indicate general economic trends are: the average factory work week, Standard & Poor's stock market index, the prices of industrial materials and the value of new orders for machinery and equipment.

Not until 1785 were shoes made to fit right and left feet.

A Self-Serving Labor Proposal

Proposals of the AFL-CIO for a 35-hour week represent self-interest thinly disguised as a benefit to the national economy. AFL-CIO President George Meany says the shorter week would provide work for the jobless. This is a fallacy. Most unemployed are idle because they lack the skills needed in a changing technology.

They include young school dropouts thrown untrained into a more specialized labor force, thousands of common laborers replaced by machines, and women who leave the work force for personal reasons but remain statistically unemployed.

Meany proposes that workers get the same pay for 35 hours that they now receive for 40 hours, with double pay for overtime. The history of organized labor shows no willingness to share bonus time and padded pay with the unemployed.

Consequently, the 35-hour week would increase production costs with no greater output per worker. Labor costs now reduce greatly the U. S. competitive position on imports and have priced some items almost out of the domestic market.

The trend toward still more automation will be speeded by increased wage demands. High costs created the necessity for automation originally. The 35-hour week proposal amounts to a move for higher pay with labor claiming credit for holding the line on hourly work rates. All other unions would follow the massive AFL-CIO.

Higher employment is not achieved by stratagems for higher pay. It comes from willingness to work instead of dependence upon a dole, and from earlier school counseling and a new image of vocational education.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

The State Department

"The New Bedford (Mass.) Standard-Times" has published an interesting series of articles on "What Wrong with the State Department?" by Everett S. Allen who spent 18 months of investigation and interviewing.

His orientation appears in the very first sentence of his first article:

"By accident or design, this is where the 'cold war' is being lost."

The articles are interesting and contain considerable material. Random House has just announced the publication, in the near future, of a book entitled "The Fourth Floor" by Earl E. T. Smith, former United States Ambassador to Cuba. Obviously, the title of this book can only mean that Ambassador Smith is discussing the deskmen of the State Department — the men who make policy as a result of day by day action. No President, no Secretary of State, in recent years, has been able to undo the work of these men.

Allen's series almost gives the impression that there is a hidden hand, a conspiracy, to undermine the United States. My experience with State Department activity goes back to 1917. I would say that from 1919 to 1930, as regards China, that experience was close. The men whose pictures appear in Allen's brochure were not in the Department then. Some of them may not have been born, or, at any rate, they were children at school.

But the story was the same as it is today, except that in those days we were worried about Japan and Germany; now it is Russia.

The trouble with the State Department is organic. In the first place, even in simpler days, decisions were made at the lower levels rather than by the responsible officials, the President and the Secretary of State. By the time a problem reaches the top for action, so much has developed, so many decisions have been made and steps taken, that the higher officials are caught with an accomplished fact which they cannot or will not repudiate. Cannot, is more correct — because the time element is a big factor.

Are the men on the Fourth or the Sixth Floors all Communists, Socialists, traitors, scoundrels? Most of them are younger men who have become expert in particular areas of the earth or on particular subjects. They know languages, history, local customs. They become so absorbed in their specialties that they often become spokesmen for the area rather than for the United States. All countries suffer from this mental transference and it is one reason why they keep shifting men around. In my day in China, this was so true that it was once said of a scholar, "He came to China to convert the Chinese but they got him first."

The situation is now complicated by tenure. Nobody can be fired unless he is a political appointee. The Foreign Service Law, the Civil Service Law, the Veterans Law protects men in their jobs, even if they do stupid but not criminal things. Unless a man can be retired for stupidity or uselessness, a government department becomes clogged with unnecessary persons. Experts do know it all, but that does not mean that they have the wisdom to handle a situation.

The solution, of course, is for the President or the Secretary of State or the National Security Council to lay down a strict policy, not when an emergency arises but long before, and everybody must conform to that in every particular or be fired. The fact of the Cuban situation is that neither President Eisenhower nor Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, knew anything about Cuba until after Castro was in absolute control. But the Fourth Floor knew as five ambassadors, Hill, Gardner, Smith, Braden and Pauley, have made clear beyond doubt.

This comes down to a matter of the organization of the transmission of material and the responsibility of the top men. This is probably true of most departments of the government. Dealing with more than 100 countries presents an almost impossible technical problem. Secretary of State Hull, for instance, dealt with tariffs and other economic problems and knew nothing of the negotiations which led to war and eventually to an alliance of the Western Powers. John Foster Dulles was interested in isolating Russia and paid little attention to anything else. Dean Rusk needs a good office manager.

The major problem today of the State Department is that decisions be made at the very summit, not by the experts.

Two Versions Of Democracy: U. S. And British

By Richard C. Wald

NEW YORK

As Giotto said when he looked at modern painting, it's all a matter of perspective.

Live in London for three years, as this reporter has done, and it begins to look as though Presidents and Prime Ministers are pretty much the same, except maybe for drooping eyelids and boyish grins. Constitutional niceties aside, a democracy is a democracy and it's all a question of who has the votes.

But it isn't.

Even in the first few days of a visit to the Great PX Out Yonder, the differences point up the fact that for all his apparent power, Harold Macmillan lives in a pretty fragile political situation and although his party has a bigger majority than John F. Kennedy's, he is far more likely to sink without trace in the next year.

To the returned non-resident (who gets $10 duty-free exemption for gifts, which is like offering peanut butter to a thirsty man), this seems at first a country of great big cars, all of them dirty, damaged, and rusting, huge stores where nothing costs less than $1 but everything is available, and a certain lack of finesse about grubbing for tips.

It is also a country where the natives are worried about what the President is doing to the press, where a pride of Kennedys seems to have cast a collective spell over the national imagination, and where, even so, the Chief Executive of the United States couldn't get a stick of chewing gum out of Congress without promising someone a postmastership in Idaho.

(Furthermore, to put a whole paragraph in parentheses, most Europeans were astounded at the Administration's inability to get the medicare program passed after a public relations campaign by the American Medical Association that seemed deliberately calculated to rank doctors with the Gadarene swine.)

Still, Kennedy is the President and a strong one. He may yet increase his majority in Congress. The country has yet to feel the full force of his personality. Not even in the darkest recesses of the National Republican Club is there a wild-eyed fanatic who believes he is going to disappear from the political scene.

In Britain, on the other hand, the situation is almost exactly reversed. People become worried about what the press is doing to Mr. Macmillan, while, in his very definition as Prime Minister, he can get any program he wants through the House of Commons. When he wanted a solid showing on the last censure vote, the party whips went so far as to order home a Conservative member who had just arrived in the United States. The hapless wanderer forked out $2,000 of his own money to vote the way the Prime Minister wanted, and greater devotion hath no politician.

And when there was a suspicion that his government wasn't looking young enough or energetic enough, Mr. Macmillan sat down at the head of the long table in his ornate and empty cabinet room, looked at a list of his ministers on a big, cream-colored sheet of paper, and in two days worked out the largest peacetime change in government ordered by any Prime Minister this century.

This is the outward show. However, three weeks ago, at the close of the Parliamentary session, a private meeting of influential Conservative backbenchers was almost exclusively occupied over after-dinner drinks with Mr. Macmillan's successor and with the delicious thrill of wondering just how long the old boy could keep it up.

For a British Prime Minister does not depend on the country to keep him in power. He survives at the will of the party.

No one has yet told the story of what happened when Anthony Eden resigned in the hectic days that followed the invasion of Suez. But a powerful and energetic group of backbenchers united then to freeze R. A. Butler out of what looked to be a sure succession and installed Harold Macmillan. Since, with consummate political skill, he has given the party internal stability, votes in the country at large, and a comfortable sense of world importance.

But just as in those West African tribes where democracy consists of the right to depose the leader when he gets feeble or unpopular enough, democracy inside the Tory party consists of a quiet coup against the Prime Minister.

Mr. Macmillan is not a young man and at the drop of a hat he will explain what a killing physical pace is required of a government minister. He is leading a party that is seriously disaffected, reflecting an electorate that doesn't know exactly what it wants but seems sure it doesn't want what the Conservatives are offering today.

The chances are that if the Common Market negotiations go sour (especially following a commitment to join), so will Mr. Macmillan. He could hand over to someone else in the cabinet and allow a junior to lead the party into an uncertain future. If the economic situation sours, ditto. If the government makes any major internal mistakes, ditto.

Until the day he goes, Mr. Macmillan remains all-powerful within his own house, despite the talk of a veto power now vested in his three leading cabinet members. He could well hang on to see how the next election turns out. But when he goes, it will be with little warning and with complete finality. And it could well be within a year.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

WATER — Some sections of the United States are in the midst of a serious drought and other areas, while not suffering as acutely, are being urged to conserve water. A study by the National Geographic Society on water consumption, therefore, is timely and revealing.

The biggest consumer of water, and the fastest growing demand, lie with industry — not with the city dweller or the suburban gardener. More than half of the water consumed in the U.S. goes for industrial cooling processes, and a few figures tell why.

It takes 65,000 gallons of water to produce a ton of finished steel, 20,000 gallons for a ton of rayon and 600,000 gallons for a ton of synthetic rubber. These figures and similar ones will mount as industry brings newer and more complex processes into being for most of them rely on water as an indespensible part of the production process.

In the cities, the use of automatic laundries and dry cleaners accounts for a huge increase in water consumption. This together with mounting population concentrations strains most city water systems, even in normal rainfall years.

And, of course, sheer waste takes a heavy toll. In New York City, during a severe drought a decade ago, engineers estimated that 200 million gallons a day was lost from dripping faucets and leaky pipes.

The ultimate answer lies in developing an economic method of desalting sea water. The government is spending millions on such research at present. However, until that time comes, the only answer is public education and the exercise of a greater degree of self restraint by thirsty industry.

Congressmen Discover Unique Way Of Financing Private Printing

By Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON — Among Congressmen who know how to squeeze the green ink out of a buck, payroll juggling has become a popular and profitable pastime.

Several have stretched their $22,500 annual salaries (plus another estimated $17,500 in fringe benefits) by putting relatives on the federal payroll.

At least 24 congressmen's wives are drawing generous government salaries, including Harlem Congressman Adam Clayton Powell's glamorous wife, Flores, who collected over $1,000 a month from the taxpayers while she waited out her pregnancy on a Puerto Rican beach.

But a few ingenious congressmen have come up with some refinements in payroll manipulations. The latest: They pay their private printing bills by putting the printer or one of his employes on government salary.

One who has discovered this unique method of financing his printing is Congressman Frank Osmers, New Jersey Republican, who ironically owns controlling interest in the Detroy-Bergen Printing Plant in Teterboro, N.J.

But rather than let his own shop do his printing, he finds it cheaper to give his business to Washington printer Tom Lankford, and to pay the bill by putting Lankford's office supervisor, Laura Sellner, on the federal payroll.

Taxpayers Are Stuck

Miss Sellner works full time for Lankford, but draws $301.51 a month from the taxpayers. Since this handy arrangement was made in 1960, she has collected $6,341.55 in government pay — all of it deducted from Congressman Osmers' account at the Lankford Print Shop.

Congressman William Cramer, Florida Republican, sends his printing to a commercial firm called Art Press. In 1958, he paid his bills by putting the owner's wife, Caroline Baron, on the government payroll for $1,174.24.

Then, in 1959, Cramer arranged for the owner himself, Carl Baron, to draw a government salary. To date, Baron has collected $2,972.40 from the taxpayers and applied it against Cramer's printing bills.

Hearing of this arrangement, Congressman E. Y. Berry, South Dakota Republican, cut himself in on the same deal. He likes to froth and fume about wasting the taxpayers' money, but he didn't mind soaking the taxpayers for his private printing. He quietly paid off Art Press by putting the owner's brother, Paul Baron, on the public payroll.

Congressman Victor Wickersham, Oklahoma Democrat, placed Jerolyn Kingery on the government payroll for $425 a month last October and November, $400 a month in December and January. Then he required her to turn over part of the money to printer Truman Ward to help pay Wickersham's printing bills.

Miss Kingery worked part time for Ward, but received a government paycheck as an employe of Wickersham's office. She kept part of the money, turned the rest over to Ward who credited it to Wickersham's account.

Another of Ward's employes, Glenna Cantrell, collected $745.73 from the taxpayers in 1959 to pay the printing bills of Congressman John Brademas, Indiana Democrat; received another $429.50 in government pay in 1960 to pay the printing bills of Congressman Frank Becker, New York Republican.

Yet this is only one way Congressmen have discovered to beat the cost of living.

'Til Death Us Part

Despite differences over an immediate tax cut and shorter work week, President Kennedy invited labor leaders to the White House the other day to ask their support in the coming congressional elections.

AFL-CIO Boss George Meany eyed Kennedy sternly.

"We disagree with you on many things, Mr. President," said Meany. "This is the American Way."

Then, chuckling, he added: "Of course, I also disagree with my wife quite frequently. Yet I have no intention of leaving her."

Mysterious Breakthrough

In one of the Pentagon's most secret rooms, Secretary of Defense Robert McNamara listened solemnly the other day to a briefing on research projects.

After a succession of briskly efficient aides had delivered their reports, an unimpressed subordinate broke in to announce an important breakthrough at Stanford.

"They've crossed a crocodile and an abalone," he reported dryly. "The result was a croc-o'-baloney."

Russian Beatniks

Dr. Homer A. Jack, who dared to denounce Soviet nuclear tests in front of a hostile Moscow multitude, wandered one day into the Moscow suburbs. He sought directions from two Russian youths who seemed to understand English.

They agreed to show him the way. For awhile, they walked in silence, then one broke the conversational ice.

"Do you dig Ginsberg?" he blurted.

Note — For the benefit of unenlightened readers who may not dig Ginsberg, he's a beatnik American poet whose most quoted work is called "Howl!" His full name is Allen Ginsberg.

Twilight Of Gypsies

By John Crosby

CARTAMA, Spain

The gypsy was burnt wrinkled mahogany from working with the animals and he looked quite a lot like Anthony Quinn—powerful, watchful, mistrustful. We sat in a tiny bar in this lovely, white-washed Andalusian village (not a whit different from a thousand other white-washed Spanish villages except that its Virgin is dollsize and there's a story goes with it) and he talked of gypsy life in 1962.

The gypsies, those wanderers over the face of Europe, who will (the legends say and they're mostly right) steal your eyeballs if you blink, are finding life in the automobile age hostile. Gypsies do a lot of things. They make baskets. They tell fortunes. They're still the world's best practitioners of the flamenco. Gypsies are the best tinkers in Spain. The man at the forge in any Spanish town is still most likely to be a gypsy. Gypsies fix the pots and mend the pipes.

But their real love was horses and mules. They know more about horses and mules than almost anyone else, including, of course, more ways to steal them. But the days of the horse and mule are as we all know, numbered. This is the day of the horse and tractor. Nowhere this side of the Iron Curtain is the tractor and the car coming in more slowly than in Spain. You can still drive a hundred miles in any direction in Spain on the back roads — which is to say any dirt road, which is 90 per cent of them—and never see a tractor and few cars.

Still, the gypsy said mournfully, the horse and mule are disappearing. In the old days, a gypsy could go to a fair (there's a fair somewhere in Spain practically every day of the year and some gypsies do nothnig but travel from fair to fair) and there he'd find maybe 300 horses and mules. Any 10-year-old gypsy girl could make off with seven or eight horses and mules out of a herd like that without attracting too much attention.

Today, as few as 30 horses and mules will show up at a fair and it would be a genius gypsy indeed who could steal one without arousing an instant hullabaloo. Gypsies, said my burnt gypsy, are reduced to earning an honest living. Actually, he didn't say it like that. He rather implied that gypsies have always been wrongfully accused of stealing everything that turns up missing, from Goyas to that missile that disappeared without a trace in the general direction of the moon some time ago.

There's not the slightest doubt that a few of the objects that vanished in Spain in the last month disappeared into the pockets of gypsies, but not, for heaven's sake, everything. Still, just about everything is what the gypsies get blamed for. The Spanish police have a time-tested method of extracting confessions out of gypsies which dates clear back to the Inquisition. They just beat the whey out of them. If you beat him hard enough, and long enough, a gypsy will confess to stealing Elizabeth Taylor away from Eddie Fisher. Or even the Stone of Scone out of Westminster Abbey.

Not long ago in a little Spanish town near here, a saloon got heisted for 5,000 pesetas. Sure enough, the cops landed on a gypsy, but instead of beating him up, they beat up his kid brother until the older gypsy, not liking this much, confessed to stealing the dough which he didn't steal. My burnt gypsy told me mournfully that two Black Marias wander around Spain just picking up gypsies who are forced to confess to thefts they didn't commit.

This has made the life of the vagrant gypsy so hard that more and more they are settling down, alas, in the towns where they mend the pots, make the baskets, and trade. It's a commonplace that any gypsy woman is worth ten of the men. The burnt gypsy's wife, for example, buys cloth in Malaga and sells it for a profit in the little towns near Cartama. The burnt gypsy claims he pads out his wife's income by working with the animals in the fields. However, the talk around Cartama is that mostly he sits on his behind and lets his wife work, which is fairly common practice among gypsies and should be (I'm laying myself wide open for the Go Jump In the Lake department of the Union of World Women) more widespread everywhere.

Since they are the scapegoats of Spain, an honest gypsy must be more honest, reverent, truthful, than almost anyone to avoid being blamed for everything that happens in the town in which he settles. Consequently good gypsies are as trusted and trustworthy as the Bank of England. More and more, they marry outside gypsy ranks, alas, diluting their fiercely free personalities.

Town life is good for gypsies but cities—at least the village gypsies say this—corrupt them. "The Malaga gypsies sell their wives to the sailors," a village gypsy told me scornfully. As for the gypsies of Granada, who live in picturesque caves feeding on hordes of tourists, his language got sulphurous. Nobody can be harder on a gypsy than another gypsy.

And, in spite of the deplorable inroads of the automobile age and the pressure toward respectability and those Black Marias driving or urging the gypsy to disappear into the mass of civilians, it'll be a thousand or so years before the gypsies lose their wild, fierce, fresh, exuberant individuality. Just watch one dancing the flamenco, turning her body into a scorching flame—boneless, muscled, savage, and disciplined. Or watch a gypsy woman telling fortunes, telling her superb lies, while probing your soul to see how stupid (or intelligent), how weak-willed (or strong) you are, how much she can take you for, how quickly, and with what method. Or listen to a couple of gypsies talking Calo, the gypsy language in Spain, used frequently as a thieves' language, so they can plan their confidence games right in front of their victim.

Neither the automobile nor the Spanish police will subdue them in our lifetime.

34 Easy Ways To Arouse Your Hay Fever

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Many people think of hay fever in terms of ragweed because the majority of victims are bothered by the pollen of this plant. But many persons are allergic to the pollen of trees and grasses. The difference lies in the timing. Ragweed usually pollinates at this time of the year in the midwest whereas other plants do their lovemaking in the spring and early summer.

The hay fever problem varies in different parts of the country because climate determines when our 34 major offending trees, grasses, and weeds undergo pollination. There is no area in the nation where all of them grow all the time. Grasses and trees grow in some regions, for example, but not ragweed.

This is important to know when the physician is asked by a sneezy person to find the cause of the hay fever. Texas heads the list with 27 culprits. In Florida and the Gulf states there are only 16 major pollens and the season ends in November.

This means a Florida physician need not test his hay fever patient for all 34 pollens; he can concentrate on the prevalent 16. The individual may even be sensitive to something that does not grow in that state but it is obvious there is no need for concern because it is not playing a role.

Furthermore, when sneezing continues into December, the allergen or a respiratory infection becomes more likely.

Most hay fever sufferers in this country can expect relief by September or October, when the pollination season is over. If there is a continuation of nasal congestion, sneezing, and red swollen eyelids—blame dust, the family cat or dog, or the common cold. A few months later, the cycle begins again with tree and grass pollen in the south, southwest, and southern California.

HUNGRY HUSBAND

Mrs. L. S. writes: My husband who weighed 190 pounds a few weeks ago, now weighs 170. He eats raw vegetables a lot and ransacks the refrigerator during the night. He has three meals a day besides but still feels weak. What should he do to regain this weight?

REPLY

We are so accustomed to thinking of weight loss in terms of diet we forget a person can lose weight because of a physical or an emotional disorder. Ask your husband to see his physician unless he knows why he dropped 20 pounds.

PENCIL MARK

R. K. writes: Our young grandson accidentally poked a lead pencil into his cheek several weeks ago. The black mark at the point of puncture remains. Can anything be done to eradicate it?

REPLY

Time will tell whether the pigment will remain in the skin as a tattoo. Removal is possible via surgery or a wire brush.

BORN WITH ASTHMA

M. B. writes: My 6 month old baby was born with bronchial asthma. I have seen older people suffer from this condition and am worried about what kind of life my child will lead. Is there any hope she will outgrow it?

REPLY

Time will tell but bronchial asthma at this age requires a thorough investigation of the breathing apparatus as well as allergy studies.

TOMORROW: New habits after a heart attack.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

There's a big ad agency on Madison Avenue whose quick-tempered boss fires about five employes a day. Anybody who lasts a full year is secretly awarded a medal by astounded colleagues. One of the v.p.'s of the agency was recalling the day he first worked there. "I didn't mind too much," he sighed, "that my name was printed on the door with chalk—but I did think the wet sponge hanging on the door-knob was rather disturbing."

"There," said a diner at Sardi's, "is an actor who is going places." "Have they given him featured billing?" asked a companion. "No, no," answered the diner impatiently. "I mean his wife is out of town."

It was Mark Twain who mused, "When anxious, uneasy, and bad thoughts come, I go to the sea, and the sea drowns them out with its great wise sounds, cleanses me with its noise and imposes a sooting rhythm upon everything in me that is bewildered and confused."

Returning by bus from a tour of Mt. Vernon, a stout lady turned to her daughter and enthused, "I hope you noticed, Ethel: every room in the house was furnished in Early American!"

The Department of Agriculture estimates that a garden of three-quarters of an acre can supply all the vegetables and small fruits, both summer and winter, for a family of five.

About 25,000 acres of chalk white soil around Jerez, Spain, where scarcely any other vegetation can grow, produce the grapes that become the world's total supply of true sherry.

Sofisticates At Fair

Appearing at the Cumberland Fair all this week in the Stars of Tomorrow Revue are the Sofisticates, a quintet of young entertainers from Cumberland. All students at Frostburg State Teachers College, the Sofisticates have given approximately 220 performances in the three years they have been organized. They recently returned from engagements in St. George and Hamilton, Bermuda, and appeared with Bruce Yarnell, star of the television show "Outlaw" when Yarnell was guest on another TV show. Left to right are James Cumiskey, Betsy Hosack, Kenneth Moreland, Julia Hendricks and John Clark. The Stars of Tomorrow Revue, all new from last year, is being presented nightly at the Fair, beginning at 8 o'clock. Admission to the grandstand is free.

Grimes Retires As ICC Employe

Charles A. Grimes, 108 Oak Street, known by his fellow workers as "Saucer," has retired after 49 years service with the B&O Railroad Company here.

Grimes started his railroad career September 13, 1913 as a machinist helper and then took four years apprentice training. In 1922 he was promoted to machinist and served in that capacity until 1934 when he became Interstate Commerce Commission inspector.

Grimes is married to the former Eleanor Freeland and they have a son, Kenneth (Sookie) Grimes, city, and a daughter, Mrs. Mary Katherine Stephens, Kansas City, Mo. He also has two step-children, Rita Mae and Curtis Kime; and two grandchildren, Linda Sue Stephens and Kenneth Grimes Jr.

Water-Sewage Study Unit Is Named

The City of Cumberland and Allegany County have taken another step toward a study of city-county water and sewage problems with approval of eight committee appointments and agreement on a ninth member to be named by the county from the Georges Creek area.

Mayor Earl D. Chaney met with the Board of Allegany County Commissioners Tuesday to discuss the study aimed at solving water and sewage problems of the area. The Mayor and Council had given Chaney authority to make necessary arrangements for instituting the committee.

Mayor Chaney reported that the county had approved the eight members but said it would like to appoint a ninth. Chaney said he was agreeable to this.

The eight members approved are as follows:

J. Lauton Hoffman, Frostburg; Horace P. Whitworth Jr., Westernport; A. Trago Brust, Cumberland; William A. Douglas, LaVale; Charles C. Stutzman, Cumberland; J. Carson Dowell, Sunset View; F. Perry Smith and J. Leslie Helmer, Cumberland.

Chaney and John J. Rowan, president of the Board of Allegany County Commissioners, will serve as ex-officio members.

Treat Guests To Frozen Delight

Experimenting in the kitchen always is fun. Tere is a recipe for a delicious blue cheese cherry freeze, which is ideal for summertime entertaining.

The unusual salad can be served at a luncheon or dinner party. Since it is made in the refrigerator, the gelatin can be made well ahead of time and kept firm until it is time to serve.

Younger cooks looking for a warm weather specialty will appreciate this frozen treat, which will impress "friendly hubby," relatives and guests.

BLUE CHEESE-CHERRY FREEZE

(12-14 Servings)

1 package black cherry gelatin
2 tablespoons lemon juice
2 cups canned sweet pie
2 cherries, drained
¾ cup crumbled American blue cheese (about 4 ounces)
½ cup cream
1 cup whipping cream
¼ cup confectioners' sugar
½ cup coarsely chopped walnuts

Make gelatin according to package directions. Pour into large baking pan or two 9-inch square cake pans which have been rinsed with cold water. Chill until firm. Add lemon juice to canned cherries and set aside. Blend blue cheese and ½ cup cream; then add cherries. Whip cream until stiff; add sugar and walnuts. Fold blue cheese mixture into whipped cream, blending well. Place paper baking cups in muffin tin and fill with the cheese mixture. Freeze firm. When ready to serve, cut jellied black cherry gelatin into 3-inch circles with cookie cutter and place on greens. Unmold blue cheese freeze on cherry gelatin circles and garnish tops with fancy cutouts of remaining gelatin.

Cranberry Waldorf Mold

1 pint (2 cups) Cranberry Juice Cocktail
1 package lemon-flavored gelatin
¼ teaspoon salt
1 cup chopped, cored apple (unpared)
½ cup chopped celery
¼ cup broken walnut meats

Heat 1 cup of the cranberry juice to boiling point. Remove from heat and stir in gelatin until dissolved. Add remaining cranberry juice and salt. Chill until partially set. Stir in apple, celery and nuts. Pour into 6 individual molds or 1 large mold. Chill until firm. Makes 6 servings.

Apple-Cheese Bake For A Summer Evening Supper

Appetites droop in hot weather, yet the need for substantial food remains. So the trick is to serve dishes that seem light but which actually deliver a satisfying quota of nourishment. This Apple-Cheese Bake is an example.

Placed on the table fresh and warm, it looks innocently light. Forked into, the texture is soft with just a bit of crispness here and there. Yet for all that seeming lightness, the wallop is there . . . nourishing cheese, milk and eggs, bacon and tangy canned apple sauce. Best of all, the Bake is so downright good tasting, the members of the family will enjoy it no matter how warm the weather. They'll relish the overall tang of apple, the nip of sharp cheese, the crispness of crumbled bacon combined with the mild flavors of bread, milk and eggs. And a refreshing drink to serve with it would be chilled apple juice.

Looking for a zesty, bright dish to tempt languid appetities on a warm evening or Sunday brunch? This could be the one. Best of all for the cook, it can be made ahead, popped in the oven and served from the baking dish 50 minutes later.

APPLE-CHEESE CAKE

½ pound bacon
8 slices firm white bread
2 cups canned apple sauce
2 cups grated Cheddar cheese
6 eggs
2 cups milk
1 teaspoon celery salt
½ teaspoon dry mustard
Dash pepper
Crisp bacon strips for garnish

Cook bacon until crisp; drain and crumble. Trim bread crusts. Place half the bread in bottom of baking dish, about 8¼x8¼x2". Cover with apple sauce, cheese and bacon. Top with remaining bread. Beat eggs with rotary beater; stir in milk, celery salt, mustard and pepper. Pour over ingredients in baking dish. Let stand in refrigerator for at least one hour. Bake in slow oven, 325 degrees, about 50 to 55 minutes or until top is puffy and golden. Serve immediately. If desired, garnish with crisp bacon strips. Makes 4 servings.

Ham Kabobs With Savory Rice

1 large green pepper, cut into 1-inch squares
16 to 20 one-inch cubes canned ham
1 can (14 oz.) pineapple chunks, drained
1 can (4 oz.) button mushrooms, drained
¼ cup orange marmalade
2 tablespoons French dressing
2 cups water
2 chicken bouillon cubes
1 tablespoon instant minced onion
1 tablespoon butter or margarine
2 cups packaged pre-cooked rice

Parboil green pepper squares in boiling salted water 4 minutes; drain. Arrange ham, pineapple, mushrooms and green pepper on skewers. Combine marmalade and French dressing. Brush kabobs with half of dressing mixture. Broil kabobs 3 inches from source of heat until lightly browned. Turn kabobs; brush with remaining dressing mixture. Broil until lightly browned. Meanwhile, combine water, bouillon cubes, onion and butter or margarine; heat to boiling. Stir in rice. Cover and remove from heat; let stand 5 minutes. Fluff with fork. Serve kabobs with savory rice.

Makes 4 servings.

A Self-Serving Labor Proposal

Proposals of the AFL-CIO for a 35-hour week represent self-interest thinly disguised as a benefit to the national economy. AFL-CIO President George Meany says the shorter week would provide work for the jobless. This is a fallacy. Most unemployed are idle because they lack the skills needed in a changing technology.

They include young school dropouts thrown untrained into a more specialized labor force, thousands of common laborers replaced by machines, and women who leave the work force for personal reasons but remain statistically unemployed.

Meany proposes that workers get the same pay for 35 hours that they now receive for 40 hours, with double pay for overtime. The history of organized labor shows no willingness to share bonus time and padded pay with the unemployed.

Consequently, the 35-hour week would increase production costs with no greater output per worker. Labor costs now reduce greatly the U. S. competitive position on imports and have priced some items almost out of the domestic market.

The trend toward still more automation will be speeded by increased wage demands. High costs created the necessity for automation originally. The 35-hour week proposal amounts to a move for higher pay with labor claiming credit for holding the line on hourly work rates. All other unions would follow the massive AFL-CIO.

Higher employment is not achieved by stratagems for higher pay. It comes from willingness to work instead of dependence upon a dole, and from earlier school counseling and a new image of vocational education.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

The State Department

"The New Bedford (Mass.) Standard-Times" has published an interesting series of articles on "What Wrong with the State Department?" by Everett S. Allen who spent 18 months of investigation and interviewing.

His orientation appears in the very first sentence of his first article:

"By accident or design, this is where the 'cold war' is being lost."

The articles are interesting and contain considerable material. Random House has just announced the publication, in the near future, of a book entitled "The Fourth Floor" by Earl E. T. Smith, former United States Ambassador to Cuba. Obviously, the title of this book can only mean that Ambassador Smith is discussing the deskmen of the State Department — the men who make policy as a result of day by day action. No President, no Secretary of State, in recent years, has been able to undo the work of these men.

Allen's series almost gives the impression that there is a hidden hand, a conspiracy, to undermine the United States. My experience with State Department activity goes back to 1917. I would say that from 1919 to 1930, as regards China, that experience was close. The men whose pictures appear in Allen's brochure were not in the Department then. Some of them may not have been born, or, at any rate, they were children at school.

But the story was the same as it is today, except that in those days we were worried about Japan and Germany; now it is Russia.

The trouble with the State Department is organic. In the first place, even in simpler days, decisions were made at the lower levels rather than by the responsible officials, the President and the Secretary of State. By the time a problem reaches the top for action, so much has developed, so many decisions have been made and steps taken, that the higher officials are caught with an accomplished fact which they cannot or will not repudiate. Cannot, is more correct — because the time element is a big factor.

Are the men on the Fourth or the Sixth Floors all Communists, Socialists, traitors, scoundrels? Most of them are younger men who have become expert in particular areas of the earth or on particular subjects. They know languages, history, local customs. They become so absorbed in their specialties that they often become spokesmen for the area rather than for the United States. All countries suffer from this mental transference and it is one reason why they keep shifting men around. In my day in China, this was so true that it was once said of a scholar, "He came to China to convert the Chinese but they got him first."

The situation is now complicated by tenure. Nobody can be fired unless he is a political appointee. The Foreign Service Law, the Civil Service Law, the Veterans Law protects men in their jobs, even if they do stupid but not criminal things. Unless a man can be retired for stupidity or uselessness, a government department becomes clogged with unnecessary persons. Experts do know it all, but that does not mean that they have the wisdom to handle a situation.

The solution, of course, is for the President or the Secretary of State or the National Security Council to lay down a strict policy, not when an emergency arises but long before, and everybody must conform to that in every particular or be fired. The fact of the Cuban situation is that neither President Eisenhower nor Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, knew anything about Cuba until after Castro was in absolute control. But the Fourth Floor knew as five ambassadors, Hill, Gardner, Smith, Braden and Pauley, have made clear beyond doubt.

This comes down to a matter of the organization of the transmission of material and the responsibility of the top men. This is probably true of most departments of the government. Dealing with more than 100 countries presents an almost impossible technical problem. Secretary of State Rusk, faced with tariffs and other economic problems and knew nothing of the negotiations which led to war and eventually to an alliance of the Western Powers. John Foster Dulles was interested in isolating Russia and paid little attention to anything else. Dean Rusk needs a good office manager.

The major problem today of the State Department is that decisions be made at the very summit, not by the experts.

Congressmen Discover Unique Way Of Financing Private Printing

By Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON — Among Congressmen who know how to squeeze the green ink out of a buck, payroll juggling has become a popular and profitable pastime.

Several have stretched their $22,500 annual salaries (plus another estimated $17,500 in fringe benefits) by putting relatives on the federal payroll.

At least 24 congressmen's wives are drawing generous government salaries, including Harlem Congressman Adam Clayton Powell's glamorous wife, Flores, who collected over $1,000 a month from the taxpayers while she waited out her pregnancy on a Puerto Rican beach.

But a few ingenious congressmen have come up with some refinements in payroll manipulations. The latest: They pay their private printing bills by putting the printer or one of his employes on government salary.

One who has discovered this unique method of financing his printing is Congressman Frank Osmers, New Jersey Republican, who ironically owns controlling interest in the Detroy-Bergen Printing Plant in Teterboro, N.J.

But rather than let his own shop do his printing, he finds it cheaper to give his business to Washington printer Tom Lankford, and to pay the bill by putting Lankford's office supervisor, Laura Sellner, on the federal payroll.

Taxpayers Are Stuck

Miss Sellner works full time for Lankford, but draws $301.51 a month from the taxpayers. Since this handy arrangement was made in 1960, she has collected $6,341.55 in government pay — all of it deducted from Congressman Osmers' account at the Lankford Print Shop.

Congressman William Cramer, Florida Republican, sends his printing to a commercial firm called Art Press. In 1958, he paid his bills by putting the owner's wife, Caroline Baron, on the government payroll for $1,174.24.

Then, in 1959, Cramer arranged for the owner himself, Carl Baron, to draw a government salary. To date, Baron has collected $2,972.40 from the taxpayers and applied it against Cramer's printing bills.

Hearing of this arrangement, Congressman E. Y. Berry, South Dakota Republican, cut himself in on the same deal. He likes to froth and fume about wasting the taxpayers' money, but he didn't mind soaking the taxpayers for his private printing. He quietly paid off Art Press by putting the owner's brother, Paul Baron, on the public payroll.

Congressman Victor Wickersham, Oklahoma Democrat, placed Jerolyn Kingery on the government payroll for $425 a month last October and November, $400 a month in December and January. Then he required her to turn over part of the money to printer Truman Ward to help pay Wickersham's printing bills.

Miss Kingery worked part time for Ward, but received a government paycheck as an employe of Wickersham's office. She kept part of the money, turned the rest over to Ward who credited it to Wickersham's account.

Another of Ward's employes, Glenna Cantrell, collected $745.73 from the taxpayers in 1959 to pay the printing bills of Congressman John Brademas, Indiana Democrat; received another $429.50 in government pay in 1960 to pay the printing bills of Congressman Frank Becker, New York Republican.

Yet this is only one way Congressmen have discovered to beat the cost of living.

'Til Death Us Part

Despite differences over an immediate tax cut and shorter work week, President Kennedy invited labor leaders to the White House the other day to ask their support in the coming congressional elections.

AFL-CIO Boss George Meany eyed Kennedy sternly.

"We disagree with you on many things, Mr. President," said Meany. "This is the American Way."

Then, chuckling, he added: "Of course, I also disagree with my wife quite frequently. Yet I have no intention of leaving her."

Mysterious Breakthrough

In one of the Pentagon's most secret rooms, Secretary of Defense Robert McNamara listened solemnly the other day to a briefing on research projects.

After a succession of briskly efficient aides had delivered their reports, an unimpressed subordinate broke in to announce an important breakthrough at Stanford.

"They've crossed a crocodile and an abalone," he reported dryly. "The result was a croc-o'-baloney."

Russian Beatniks

Dr. Homer A. Jack, who dared to denounce Soviet nuclear tests in front of a hostile Moscow multitude, wandered one day into the Moscow suburbs. He sought directions from two Russian youths who seemed to understand English.

They agreed to show him the way. For awhile, they walked in silence, then one broke the conversational ice.

"Do you dig Ginsberg?" he blurted.

Note — For the benefit of unenlightened readers who may not dig Ginsberg, he's a beatnik American poet whose most quoted work is "Howl!" His full name is Allen Ginsberg.

Two Versions Of Democracy: U. S. And British

NEW YORK

As Giotto said when he looked at modern painting, it's all a matter of perspective.

Live in London for three years, as this reporter has done, and it begins to look as though Presidents and Prime Ministers are pretty much the same, except maybe for drooping eyelids and boyish grins. Constitutional niceties aside, a democracy is a democracy and it's all a question of who has the votes.

But it isn't.

Even in the first few days of a visit to the Great PX Out Yonder, the differences point up the fact that for all his apparent power, Harold Macmillan lives in a pretty fragile political situation and although his party has a bigger majority than John F. Kennedy's, he is far more likely to sink without trace in the next year.

To the returned non-resident (who gets $10 duty-free exemption for gifts, which is like offering peanut butter to a thirsty man), this seems at first a country of great big cars, all of them dirty, damaged, and rusting, huge stores where nothing costs less than $1 but everything is available, and a certain lack of finesse about grubbing for tips.

It is also a country where the natives are worried about what the President is doing to the press, where a pride of Kennedys seems to have cast a collective spell over the national imagination, and where, even so, the Chief Executive of the United States couldn't get a stick of chewing gum out of Congress without promising someone a postmastership in Idaho.

(Furthermore, to put a whole paragraph in parentheses, most Europeans were astounded at the Administration's inability to get the medicare program passed after a public relations campaign by the American Medical Association that seemed deliberately calculated to rank doctors with the Gadarene swine.)

Still, Kennedy is the President and a strong one. He may yet increase his majority in Congress. The country has yet to feel the full force of his personality. Not even in the darkest recesses of the National Republican Club is there a wild-eyed fanatic who believes he is going to disappear from the political scene.

In Britain, on the other hand, the situation is almost exactly reversed. People become worried about what the press is doing to Mr. Macmillan, while, in his very definition as Prime Minister, he can get any program he wants through the House of Commons. When he wanted a solid showing on the last censure vote, the party whips went so far as to order home a Conservative member who had just arrived in the United States. The hapless wanderer forked out $2,000 of his own money to vote the way the Prime Minister wanted, and greater devotion hath no politician.

And when there was a suspicion that his government wasn't looking young enough or energetic enough, Mr. Macmillan sat down at the head of the long table in his ornate and empty cabinet room, looked at a list of his ministers on a big, cream-colored sheet of paper, and in two days worked out the largest peacetime change in government ordered by any Prime Minister this century.

This is the outward show. However, three weeks ago, at the close of the Parliamentary session, a private meeting of influential Conservative backbenchers was almost exclusively occupied over after-dinner drinks with Mr. Macmillan's successor and with the delicious thrill of wondering just how long the old boy could keep it up.

For a British Prime Minister does not depend on the country to keep him in power. He survives at the will of the party.

No one has yet told the story of what happened when Anthony Eden resigned in the hectic days that followed the invasion of Suez. But a powerful and energetic group of backbenchers united then to freeze R. A. Butler out of what looked to be a sure succession and installed Harold Macmillan. Since, with consummate political skill, he has given the party internal stability, votes in the country at large, and a comfortable sense of world importance.

But just as in those West African tribes where democracy consists of the right to depose the leader when he gets feeble or unpopular enough, democracy inside the Tory party consists of a quiet coup against the Prime Minister.

Mr. Macmillan is not a young man and at the drop of a hat he will explain what a killing physical pace is required of a government minister. He is leading a party that is seriously disaffected, reflecting an electorate that doesn't know exactly what it wants but seems sure it doesn't want what the Conservatives are offering today.

The chances are that if the Common Market negotiations go sour (especially following a commitment to join), so will Mr. Macmillan. He could hand over to someone else in the cabinet and allow a junior to lead the party into an uncertain future. If the economic situation sours, ditto. If the government makes any major internal mistakes, ditto.

Until the day he goes, Mr. Macmillan remains all-powerful within his own house, despite the talk of a veto power now vested in his three leading cabinet members. He could well hang on to see how the next election turns out. But when he goes, it will be with little warning and with complete finality. And it could well be within a year.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

WATER — Some sections of the United States are in the midst of a serious drought and other areas, while not suffering as acutely, are being urged to conserve water. A study by the National Geographic Society on water consumption, therefore, is timely and revealing.

The biggest consumer of water, and the fastest growing demand, lie with industry — not with the city dweller or the suburban gardener. More than half of the water consumed in the U.S. goes for industrial cooling processes, and a few figures tell why.

It takes 65,000 gallons of water to produce a ton of finished steel, 20,000 gallons for a ton of rayon and 600,000 gallons for a ton of synthetic rubber. These figures and similar ones will mount as industry brings newer and more complex processes into being for most of them rely on water as an indespensible part of the production process.

In the cities, the use of automatic laundries and dry cleaners accounts for a huge increase in water consumption. This together with mounting population concentrations strains most city water systems, even in normal rainfall years.

And, of course, sheer waste takes a heavy toll. In New York City, during a severe drought a decade ago, engineers estimated that 200 million gallons a day was lost from dripping faucets and leaky pipes.

The ultimate answer lies in developing an economic method of desalting sea water. The government is spending millions on such research at present. However, until that time comes, the only answer is public education and the exercise of a greater degree of self restraint by thirsty industry.

34 Easy Ways To Arouse Your Hay Fever

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Many people think of hay fever in terms of ragweed because the majority of victims are bothered by the pollen of this plant. But many persons are allergic to the pollen of trees and grasses. The difference lies in the timing. Ragweed usually pollinates at this time of the year in the midwest whereas other plants do their lovemaking in the spring and early summer.

The hay fever problem varies in different parts of the country because climate determines when our 34 major offending trees, grasses, and weeds undergo pollination. There is no area in the nation where all of them grow all the time. Grasses and trees grow in some regions, for example, but not ragweed.

This is important to know when the physician is asked by a sneezy person to find the cause of the hay fever. Texas heads the list with 27 culprits. In Florida and the Gulf states there are only 16 major pollens and the season ends in November.

This means a Florida physician need not test his hay fever patient for all 34 pollens; he can concentrate on the prevalent 16. The individual may even be sensitive to something that does not grow in that state but it is obvious there is no need for concern because it is not playing a role.

Furthermore, when sneezing continues into December, the allergen or a respiratory infection becomes more likely.

Most hay fever sufferers in this country can expect relief by September or October, when the pollination season is over. If there is a continuation of nasal congestion, sneezing, and red swollen eyelids—blame dust, the family cat or dog, or the common cold. A few months later, the cycle begins again with tree and grass pollen in the south, southwest, and southern California.

HUNGRY HUSBAND

Mrs. L. S. writes: My husband who weighed 190 pounds a few weeks ago, now weighs 170. He eats raw vegetables a lot and ransacks the refrigerator during the night. He has three meals a day besides but still feels weak. What should he do to regain this weight?

REPLY

We are so accustomed to thinking of weight loss in terms of diet we forget a person can lose weight because of a physical or an emotional disorder. Ask your husband to see his physician unless he knows why he dropped 20 pounds.

PENCIL MARK

R. K. writes: Our young grandson accidentally poked a lead pencil into his cheek several weeks ago. The black mark at the point of puncture remains. Can anything be done to eradicate it?

REPLY

Time will tell whether the pigment will remain in the skin as a tattoo. Removal is possible via surgery or a wire brush.

BORN WITH ASTHMA

M. B. writes: My 6 month old baby was born with bronchial asthma. I have seen older people suffer from this condition and am worried about what kind of life my child will lead. Is there any hope she will outgrow it?

REPLY

Time will tell but bronchial asthma at this age requires a thorough investigation of the breathing apparatus as well as allergy studies.

TOMORROW: New habits after a heart attack.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

There's a big ad agency on Madison Avenue whose quick-tempered boss fires about five employes a day. Anybody who lasts a full year is secretly awarded a medal by astounded colleagues. One of the v.p.'s of the agency was recalling the day he first worked there. "I didn't mind too much," he sighed, "that my name was printed on the door with chalk—but I did think the wet sponge hanging on the doorknob was rather disturbing."

"There," said a diner at Sardi's, "is an actor who is going places." "Have they given him featured billing?" asked a companion. "No, no," answered the diner impatiently. "I mean his wife is out of town."

It was Mark Twain who mused, "When anxious, uneasy, and bad thoughts come, I go to the sea, and the sea drowns them out with its great wise sounds, cleanses me with its noise and imposes a sooting rhythm upon everything in me that is bewildered and confused."

Returning by bus from a tour of Mt. Vernon, a stout lady turned to her daughter and enthused, "I hope you noticed, Ethel: every room in the house was furnished in Early American!"

Twilight Of Gypsies

CARTAMA, Spain

The gypsy was burnt wrinkled mahogany from working with the animals and he looked quite a lot like Anthony Quinn—powerful, watchful, mistrustful. We sat in a tiny bar in this lovely, white-washed Andalusian village (not a whit different from a thousand other white-washed Spanish villages except that its Virgin is dollsize and there's a story goes with it) and he talked of gypsy life in 1962.

The gypsies, those wanderers over the face of Europe, who will (the legends say and they're mostly right) steal your eyeballs if you blink, are finding life in the automobile age hostile. Gypsies do a lot of things. They weave baskets. They tell fortunes. They're still the world's best practitioners of the flamenco. Gypsies are the best tinkers in Spain. The man at the forge in any Spanish town is still most likely to be a gypsy. Gypsies fix the pots and mend the pipes.

But their real love was horses and mules. They know more about horses and mules than almost anyone else, including, of course, more ways to steal them. But the days of the horse and mule are as we all know, numbered. This is the day of the horse and tractor. Nowhere this side of the Iron Curtain is the tractor and the car coming in more slowly than in Spain. You can still drive a hundred miles in any direction in Spain on the back roads — which is to say any dirt road, which is 90 per cent of them—and never see a tractor and few cars.

Still, the gypsy said mournfully, the horse and mule are disappearing. In the old days, a gypsy could go to a fair (there's a fair somewhere in Spain practically every day of the year and some gypsies do nothing but travel from fair to fair) and there he'd find maybe 300 horses and mules. Any 10-year-old gypsy girl could make off with seven or eight horses and mules out of a herd like that without attracting too much attention.

Today, as few as 30 horses and mules will show up at a fair and it would be a genius gypsy indeed who could steal one without arousing an instant hullabaloo. Gypsies, said my burnt gypsy, are reduced to earning an honest living. Actually, he didn't say it like that. He rather implied that gypsies have always been wrongfully accused of stealing everything that turns up missing, from Goyas to that missile that disappeared without a trace in the general direction of the moon some time ago.

There's not the slightest doubt that a few of the objects that vanished in Spain in the last month disappeared into the pockets of gypsies, but not, for heaven's sake, everything. Still, just about everything is what the gypsies get blamed for. The Spanish police have a time-tested method of extracting confessions out of gypsies which dates clear back to the Inquisition. They just beat the whey out of them. If you beat him hard enough, and long enough, a gypsy will confess to stealing Elizabeth Taylor away from Eddie Fisher. Or even the Stone of Scone out of Westminster Abbey.

Not long ago in a little Spanish town near here, a saloon got heisted for 5,000 pesetas. Sure enough, the cops landed on a gypsy, but instead of beating him up, they beat up his kid brother until the older gypsy, not liking this much, confessed to stealing the dough which he didn't steal. My burnt gypsy told me mournfully that two Black Marias were cruising around Spain just picking up gypsies who are forced to confess to thefts they didn't commit.

This has made the life of the vagrant gypsy so hard that more and more they are settling down, alas, in the towns where they mend the pots, make the baskets, and trade. It's a commonplace that any gypsy woman is worth ten of the men. The burnt gypsy's wife, for example, buys cloth in Malaga and sells it for a profit in the little towns near Cartama. The burnt gypsy claims he pads out his wife's income by working with the animals in the fields. However, the talk around Cartama is that mostly he sits on his behind and lets his wife work, which is fairly common practice among gypsies and which be (I'm laying myself wide open for the Go Jump In The Lake department of the Union of World Women) more widespread everywhere.

Since they are the scapegoats of Spain, an honest gypsy must be more honest, reverent, truthful, than almost anyone to avoid being blamed for everything that happens in the town in which he settles. Consequently good gypsies are as trusted and trustworthy as the Bank of England. More and more, they marry outside gypsy ranks, alas, diluting their fiercely free personalities.

Town life is good for gypsies but cities—at least the village gypsies say this—corrupt them. "The Malaga gypsies sell their wives to the sailors," a village gypsy told me scornfully. As for the gypsies of Granada, who live in picturesque caves feeding on hordes of tourists, his language got sulphurous. Nobody can be harder on a gypsy than another gypsy.

And, in spite of the deplorable inroads of the automobile age and the pressure toward respectability and those Black Marias driving or urging the gypsy to disappear into the mass of civilians, it'll be a thousand or so years before the gypsies lose their wild, fierce, fresh, exuberant individuality. Just watch one dancing the flamenco, turning her body into a scorching flame—boneless, muscled, savage, and disciplined. Or watch a gypsy woman telling fortunes, telling her superb lies, while probing your soul to see how stupid (or intelligent), how weak-willed (or strong) you are, how desperate (or hopeful), how quickly, and with what method—she can separate you from your money. Or listen to a couple of gypsies talking Calo, the gypsy language in Spain, used largely as a thieves' language, so they can plan their confidence games right in front of their victim.

Neither the automobile nor the Spanish police will subdue them in our lifetime.

Treat Guests To Frozen Delight

Experimenting in the kitchen always is fun. Tere is a recipe for a delicious blue cheese cherry freeze, which is ideal for summertime entertaining.

The unusual salad can be served at a luncheon or dinner party. Since it is made in the refrigerator, the gelatin can be made well ahead of time and kept firm until it is time to serve.

Younger cooks looking for a warm weather specialty will appreciate this frozen treat, which will impress "friendly hubby," relatives and guests.

BLUE CHEESE-CHERRY FREEZE
(12-14 Servings)

1 package black cherry gelatin
2 tablespoons lemon juice
2 cups canned sweet pie
2 cherries, drained
¾ cup crumbled American blue cheese (about 4 ounces)
½ cup cream
1 cup whipping cream
¼ cup confectioners' sugar
½ cup coarsely chopped walnuts

Make gelatin according to package directions. Pour into large baking pan or two 9-inch square cake pans which have been rinsed with cold water. Chill until firm. Add lemon juice to canned cherries and set aside. Blend blue cheese and ½ cup cream; then add cherries. Whip cream until stiff; add sugar and walnuts. Fold blue cheese mixture into whipped cream, blending well. Place paper baking cups in muffin tin and fill with the cheese mixture. Freeze firm. When ready to serve, cut jellied black cherry gelatin into 3-inch circles with cookie cutter and place on greens. Unmold blue cheese freeze on cherry gelatin circles and garnish tops with fancy cutouts of remaining gelatin.

Cranberry Waldorf Mold

1 pint (2 cups) Cranberry Juice Cocktail
1 package lemon-flavored gelatin
¼ teaspoon salt
1 cup chopped, cored apple (unpared)
½ cup chopped celery
¼ cup broken walnut meats

Heat 1 cup of the cranberry juice to boiling point. Remove from heat and stir in gelatin until dissolved. Add remaining cranberry juice and salt. Chill until partially set. Stir in apple, celery and nuts. Pour into 6 individual molds or 1 large mold. Chill until firm. Makes 6 servings.

Apple-Cheese Bake For A Summer Evening Supper

Appetites droop in hot weather, yet the need for substantial food remains. So the trick is to serve dishes that seem light but which actually deliver a satisfying quota of nourishment. This Apple-Cheese Bake is an example.

Placed on the table fresh and warm, it looks innocently light. Forked into, the texture is soft with just a bit of crispness here and there. Yet for all that seeming lightness, the wallop is there . . . nourishing cheese, milk and eggs, bacon and tangy canned apple sauce. Best of all, the Bake is so downright good tasting, the members of the family will enjoy it no matter how warm the weather. They'll relish the overall tang of apple, the nip of sharp cheese, the crispness of crumbled bacon combined with the mild flavors of bread, milk and eggs. And a refreshing drink to serve with it would be chilled apple juice.

Looking for a zesty, bright dish to tempt languid appetities on a warm evening or Sunday brunch? This could be the one. Best of all for the cook, it can be made ahead, popped in the oven and served from the baking dish 50 minutes later.

APPLE-CHEESE CAKE

½ pound bacon
8 slices firm white bread
2 cups canned apple sauce
2 cups grated Cheddar cheese
6 eggs
2 cups milk
1 teaspoon celery salt
½ teaspoon dry mustard
Dash pepper
Crisp bacon strips for garnish

Cook bacon until crisp; drain and crumble. Trim bread crusts. Place half the bread in bottom of baking dish, about 8¼x8¼x2". Cover with apple sauce, cheese and bacon. Top with remaining bread. Beat eggs with rotary beater; stir in milk, celery salt, mustard and pepper. Pour over ingredients in baking dish. Let stand in refrigerator for at least one hour. Bake in slow oven, 325 degrees, about 50 to 55 minutes or until top is puffy and golden. Serve immediately. If desired, garnish with crisp bacon strips. Makes 4 servings.

Ham Kabobs With Savory Rice

1 large green pepper, cut into 1-inch squares
16 to 20 one-inch cubes canned ham
1 can (14 oz.) pineapple chunks, drained
1 can (4 oz.) button mushrooms, drained
¼ cup orange marmalade
2 tablespoons French dressing
2 cups water
2 chicken bouillon cubes
1 tablespoon instant minced onion
1 tablespoon butter or margarine
2 cups packaged pre-cooked rice

Parboil green pepper squares in boiling salted water 4 minutes; drain. Arrange ham, pineapple, mushrooms and green pepper on skewers. Combine marmalade and French dressing. Brush kabobs with half of dressing mixture. Broil kabobs 3 inches from source of heat until lightly browned. Turn kabobs; brush with remaining dressing mixture. Broil until lightly browned. Meanwhile, combine water, bouillon cubes, onion and butter or margarine; heat to boiling. Stir in rice. Cover and remove from heat; let stand 5 minutes. Fluff with fork. Serve kabobs with savory rice.

Makes 4 servings.

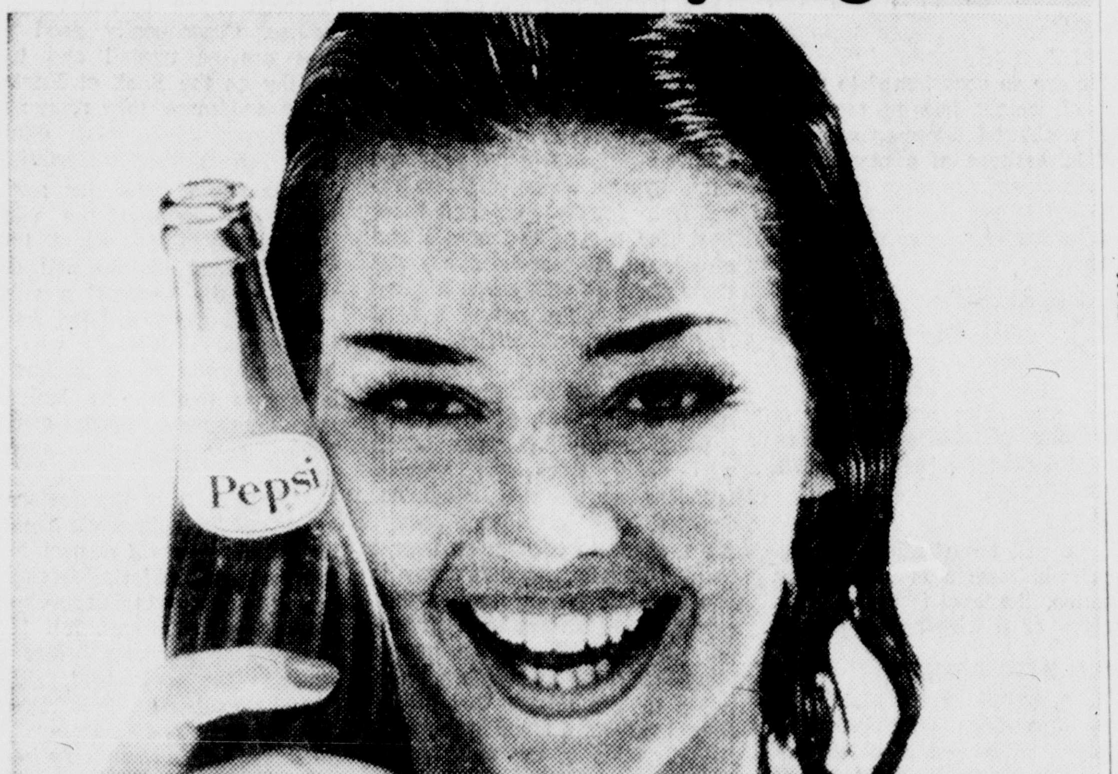
now it's Pepsi
for those who think young



Thinking young is a wholesome attitude, an enthusiastic outlook. It means getting the most out of life, and everyone is joining in. This is thinking young. And this is the life for Pepsi—light, bracing, clean-tasting Pepsi. So think young. In stores, buy an extra carton. At fountains, say "Pepsi, please!"

Peanut Butter Sandwich

Dates from desert palms, pineapple from tropical islands and smooth peanut butter combine to make refreshing Tropical Peanut Butter Sandwiches.

Serve these tempting sandwiches with a fresh fruit salad of sliced oranges and bananas and melon balls, milk and cookies for a summer luncheon. For cooler seasons accompany the sandwiches with bowls of hot soup.

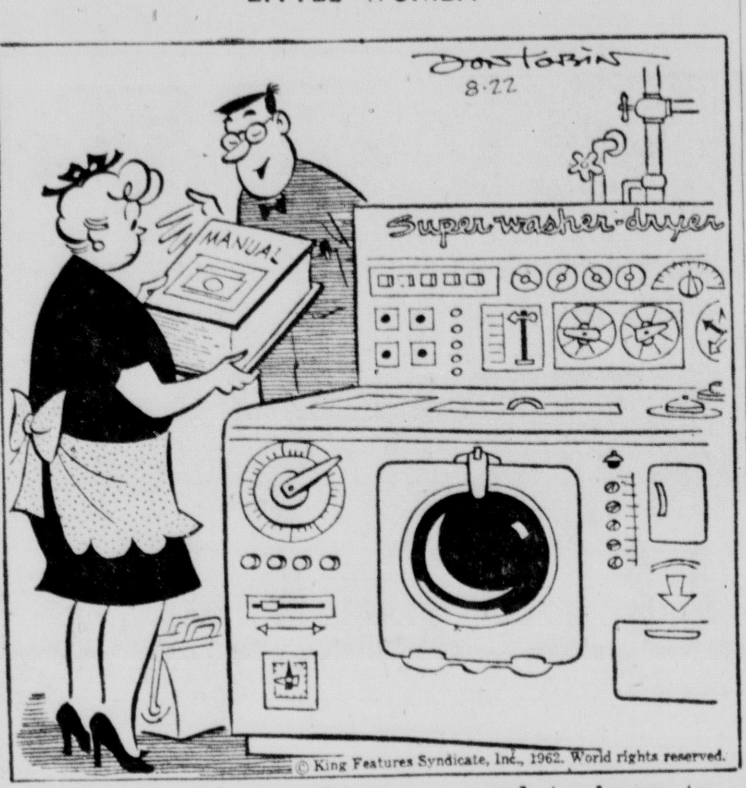
Tropical Peanut Butter Sandwiches are a delicious way of getting a number of essential vitamins and minerals needed daily for maintenance of good health. Enriched white bread — and all enriched breads—contain important amounts of thiamine, niacin, riboflavin, and food iron.

Tropical Peanut Butter Sandwich

- ¾ cup creamy peanut butter
- ½ cup chopped pitted dates
- ½ cup drained crushed pineapple (8-ounce can)
- 2 teaspoons lemon juice
- 12 slices enriched white bread
- Butter or margarine, softened
- 6 lettuce leaves, if desired

Mix together peanut butter, dates, pineapple and lemon juice. Spread bread with butter or margarine. Spread peanut butter mixture on 6 slices of bread and cover with lettuce, if desired. Close sandwiches with remaining bread. Cut diagonally into quarters.

LITTLE WOMEN



"Don't worry—everything you need to know to operate this machine is right here in this little book."

Week's Food Economies

Supplies of many fresh fruits and vegetables reach their peak in August. When local production adds to marketings from commercial areas consumers will note prices become more attractive and quality is generally high, says Virginia L. McLuckie, food economist in the Baltimore Office of the University of Maryland Department of Markets.

Just about every vegetable you want is available at the heavily laden produce counters. The best buys are found in sweet corn, cabbage, tomatoes and green peppers. Green pepper prices are low. They can be stuffed for baking, sliced or cut up in salads and chopped for use in sauces.

Eggplant from Maryland and New Jersey is being marketed at attractive prices. This vegetable lends itself to both bland and spicy cookery. Preparation of eggplant is not difficult. It may be boiled, baked, broiled or fried.

The supply of sweet potatoes is increasing as harvest gets under way in Maryland and Virginia.

Eastern lettuce from New Jersey and New York is iceberg type and quality is good. Endive and escarole are in good supply. The supply of salad bowl greens and other vegetables should make attractive, refreshing salads.

Peaches are at their peak; for the past week the supply has been very heavy. Now is the time to can, preserve and freeze peaches. Varieties you will find available are Sun High, Triogem, Elbertas and Halehavens. An anti-browning powder is almost necessary to preserve the bright color of peeled peaches.

Watermelons are in very heavy supply and prices are very low. Cantaloupe supplies are liberal. More early apples are being shipped to markets. Summer Rambos, and Northwest Greenings are the varieties in heaviest supply.

Now is the time for Bartlet pears. The 1962 California crop is unusually fine quality. In addition the crop from Pennsylvania and Maryland is at its peak. This pear is creamy yellow when ripe, and many have an attractive blush. If you want to hold pears for a few days, select firm fruit and allow pears to ripen at room temperature. Grapes are seasonal fruit and the varieties available are Thompson seedless, Red Malagas, and Eastern Concords.

The Sea Dyak tribesmen of Sarawak consider king cobra a delicacy. Cook, serve cold.

Cole Slaw

- ½ cup beer or ale
- 1 cup mayonnaise
- 1 teaspoon celery seed
- 2 teaspoons minced onion
- 1 teaspoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon Tabasco
- 6 cups shredded cabbage
- 1 green pepper, shredded

Gradually stir beer into mayonnaise, blending well. Add celery seed, minced onion, salt and Tabasco. Add mayonnaise to cabbage and green pepper. Toss lightly. Chill. YIELD: 8 to 10 servings.

Summer Sauce

This fruit sauce is easy to make. In a small saucepan, combine 2-3rds cup of apricot preserves with 2 tablespoons each of lemon and orange juice. Stir over low heat until smooth. Slice in 2 medium all yellow bananas. Serve over ice cream or cake. Makes about ½ cup.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD. — Good morning: So nice to be greeting you all again after these long months of my illness and recuperation. I'm much, much better and happy to be back at work even though I may not be able to wander too far from my desk for a week or two. I'll also have to give up twisting for awhile—but now let's get with the news.

Otto Preminger is in firing range again (just like when I left off). This time, it's not over "Advise and Consent." In Israeli Air Force Col. Benjamin Kagan's book, "Swifter than Eagles," he takes irate aim at Otto over his movie "Exodus." Claims Preminger completely ignored the non-Jewish populace of countries around the world who helped form the little nation of Israel.

James Garner and his partner Irving Leonard have bought "Swifter than Eagles" for a movie. And they'll make it when Garner completes "Wheeler Dealer" with Lee Remick.

My good friends singer Joni James and her conductor husband Tony Aquaviva called me to tell me that it is now set for them to adopt a baby they've so long desired in Rome.

"We had to give up in California because they're standing in line to adopt babies in this country and this state," Joni said, "but we have been informed that the way has been cleared for us to get a little boy in Rome. Our hearts are singing."

Joni and Tony leave for a state department tour of Europe early in September and they can hardly wait to get to Rome and pick up Michelangelo Aquaviva—yep, that's the name they've selected.

Sorry to learn that Charles Laughton is not sufficiently recovered to do "Irma la Douce" with Jack Lemmon and Shirley MacLaine. Taking his place is Lou Jacoby who, you'll recall, was wonderful as Shelley Winters' husband in "The Diary of Anne Frank." When Jacoby finishes "Irma" he has another good job waiting in "The greatest Story Ever Told" for George Stevens.

Currently, Jacoby has just wound up 78 weeks on Broadway in the hit show "Come Blow Your Horn" You can't say Lou is any part of an unemployment problem.

Seen chatting with writer-producer Charles Marquis Warren of "The Virginian" TV series, Barbara Luna was asked if she is up for a role.

"Could be, I'm having an affair with one of the stars," she cracked. That's her husband, Doug McClure. Fooled you.

Over the weekend, Doug drove Barbara to TiJuana to get a first-hand look at the stripteasers because she plays a stripper in her next, "Dame with a Halo."

"I took one look at those dames minus a halo—and got my husband out in a hurry," laughed la Luna.

Never was Groucho Marx more deflated. Slated to take over Tv's "Tonight" show for a week, producer Terry Cross thought it would be a nice surprise to book Groucho's teenage daughter Melinda on her old man's program.

"No," said Melinda, "I'm going camping with a girl friend and her family." Such is fame—within the family.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Edmund Purdom's ex-wife, Alicia Corning-Clark, who came into millions when her sewing machine millionaire husband died after just a few weeks of marriage, is thinking of marriage again. This time with Bernard Lanvin, scion of the French perfume family.

"Guess I don't have all that charm my mother told me I had," Dick Beymer laughed when I asked him why his dates with Ann-Margret had begun and ended after a couple of dinners. "I've tried to get her on the telephone several times — but she's just too busy, I guess."

I would like very much to thank Dorothy Manners, my assistant of many years, for the long pull of seven columns a week she's done for me during my time out. I'm most appreciative of her good job—thank you, ma'am.

Rhonda Fleming and Rod Taylor seem to have resumed — at least long enough to attend the posh Robert Stacks' party.

I hear Shirley Jones, new peacock hair-do attracted much attention at the same affair. What's a peacock hair-do?

Gloria Vanderbilt Lumet was escorted by family friend Enoch Ravello, and Gloria still insists there's no rift with Sidney Lumet.

How conservative can Brigitte Bardot get? Shopping in Paris the other day, she bought seven one-piece bathing suits instead of her usual bikinis.

Dean Martin's 17-year-old daughter, Gale, will take a bow in his act when he opens at the Sands Hotel in Las Vegas on Sept. 5. Asked what she's going to do, Gale quipped, "I'm going to walk on the stage with a glass of MILK in my hand?"

More than 70 languages and 200 dialects are spoken in Ethiopia.

The bidding:

West	North	East	South
Pass	Pass	1 ♠	1 NT
Pass

Opening lead: Seven of ♠

Whenever the combined assets do not leave the declarer much margin for error, he must exercise great care in the management of his resources. South in today's hand displayed foresight as well as a deft touch to earn his triumph.

The bidding was sound. Altho North lacks by one point the technical requirements for a jump raise to three no trump, he has adequate compensation in the form of a readily establishable five card suit.

West had no very attractive lead of his own, so he decided to open the seven of spades despite the fact that he held only a singleton in his partner's suit. South made a very shrewd play at trick one from the dummy, when he followed with the deuce instead of putting up an honor. If the jack of spades is played, East can eliminate any subsequent entry to the dummy in this suit by refusing to cover with his king.

East played a low spade on his partner's seven and declarer won the trick with the ten, in his hand. At trick two he made his next unusual play, the ten of hearts. When West played low, the ten was permitted to ride for a finesse. It held the trick and South followed up by cashing the king of hearts. A spade was led to dummy's jack to drive out the king and establish the queen of spades as an entry to run the dummy's good hearts. In all, declarer scored five heart tricks, three spades, and two aces to make four no trump.

It should be observed that declarer's first round finesse against the jack of hearts was merely a safety play to assure the success of his contract. If the finesse loses to the jack in East's hand, South wins the return in his own hand if either a diamond or a club is led. He next plays the king of hearts and overtakes in dummy to run the rest of the suit. The spade finesse may now be taken to give declarer three spade tricks which along with four hearts and two aces add up to the required nine.

Study Funds Are Available

ROMNEY—Jack W. Brady, superintendent of the West Virginia Schools for the Deaf and Blind, has announced that the Board of Public Works has released funds from surplus revenue for an architectural study of the proposed classroom building for the blind.

Total amount appropriated by the 1962 Legislature was $548,250. The board is releasing four per cent of the appropriation for the study.

Announcement of the fund release came Monday to Supt. Brady through State Sen. Clarence E. Martin Jr., of Martinsburg.

Pistol Is Taken

P. J. Coyne, Pittsburgh, told police Tuesday that a .22 caliber pistol and several other articles with a total value of $60 were taken from his bedroll in the gymnasium of Central YMCA. A member of the Camp Carson group, he said he placed the pistol in his bedroll before going to lunch and a movie and returned to find it missing. Capt. James E. Van and Detective Harry Iser are investigating.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY, MR. HOOVER! — Herbert Hoover, beloved former President, celebrated his eighty-eighth birthday by addressing a large gathering at the dedication of the Herbert Hoover Presidential Library in the village of his birth. Mr. Hoover has served his fellow man in many capacities. He was Woodrow Wilson's Food Administrator during World War I. Following that war, he received votes for the Presidential nomination in both Democratic and Republican National Conventions. He was Calvin Coolidge's Secretary of Commerce. He is now the active head of the Boy Scouts of America. Incidentially, Herbert Hoover has never accepted a penny of pay for a lifetime of public service.

In his address at West Branch, Iowa, last week, Mr. Hoover reviewed the changes in the world since his Iowa boyhood — changes in many of which he was a direct participant. Then, the former President looked ahead, urging safeguards to the peace which is imperiled by Communism. He closed his address with words about inner strength;

"The mightiest assurances of our future are the intangible spiritual and intellectual forces of our people . . . . That word 'America' carries meanings which lie deep in the soul of our people . . . . It springs from our religious faith, our ideals of individual freedom and equal opportunity . . . It rises from our pride in great accomplishments of our nation and from the sacrifices and devotion of those who have passed on. It lifts us above the ugliness of the day. It has guided us through even greater crises in our past. And from these sources, solutions will come again."

RUSSIAN SPACE ACHIEVEMENT — Capitol Hill, like the rest of the world, was agog over the Russian achievement of orbiting the earth 64 times with one space capsule and 48 times with another. The Russians deserve the wide acclaim accorded this giant step in space science. The putting of two manned capsules in orbit at the same time was spectacular, though its scientific advantage is not clear. It was thought by some that the Russians planned to rendezvous the two capsules in flight, but if this was the plan they failed. With all their strides in space, the Russians still are not sure enough of themselves to announce their plans in advance, — and so, we hear only about their successes. When Russian Cosmonaut Titov was interviewed on television in this country, he said there had been no failures in Russian space experiments, a statement which few believed.

This latest feat on the part of the Russians would indicate that they may be well ahead of us in this field, — but we've been behind before; Americans have a way of coming from behind to win.

"TELSTAR" FILIBUSTER ENDED — For the first time in 35 years, the Senate voted Tuesday to stop a filbuster. A small group of Senators who opposed the President's bill to set up a corporation to manage the communications satellite business, knowing that they were outnumbered, had attempted to talk the measure to death. The basic issue in the Senate fight was whether the communications system should be privately owned. Those opposed to the President's bill favor Government ownership.

The bill provides for the creation of a private corporation for profit which would not be an agency of the Government but which would be subject to specified Government regulation. The bill sets up a corporation in which 50% of the voting stock would be sold to communications companies and 50% to the general public. The shares of stock would be sold at a price not to exceed $100 per share so as to encourage the widest possible distribution to the American public. The new corporation would be run by a board of 15 directors: 6 elected by the general public stockholders, 6 elected by the communications companies, and 3 appointed by the President of the United States. To prevent domination by any one communications company, no company or its trustees could vote for more than 3 of the 6 company directors. In other words, the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, which paid nearly 50 million dollars for the Telstar communications satellite and then paid an additional $2,700,000 to the Space agency to launch it, would be limited to no more than 3 of the 15 directors.

The corporation would operate Telstar and other communications satellites as a transmission belt for all communications companies without discrimination.

Recognizing the need for Federal coordination, planning, and regulation, the bill delineates the powers and responsibilities devolving upon the President, the Space agency, and the Federal Communications Commission. The President would coordinate activities and supervise the relationship of the corporation with foreign agencies participating in the system. NASA (the Space agency) would cooperate in matters of research and development and furnish various specified services on a reimbursable basis. The FCC would be responsible for comprehensive regulation of all entities, including procurement and operation, and would grant licenses to ground stations to send and receive by way of satellites, on the basis of public convenience and necessity. All three agencies of the Government would report regularly to the Congress.

No bill has ever received more thorough study. Five Senate committees held hearings, and all approved the measure—with clarifying amendments. In my opinion, the President's plan, as provided in the bill, is a worthy experiment in the unique process of private enterprise helping government. This plan would make full use of the great research resources of numerous American firms in correlation with Government agencies. I voted for cloture, and will vote for the bill unless it's radically changed.

We are on the threshold of a new era in worldwide communication. The development of the communications satellite system is the first and foremost practical application of space technology for the benefit of all mankind.

TAX CUT IN JANUARY—President Kennedy told a nationwide television audience last Monday that no cut in taxes is to be requested by him now because he thinks the economic condition of the country is good and therefore a tax cut is not needed. But, he said, he will ask for a tax cut in January—presumably because the economic condition of the country will not be so good in January and a tax cut will then be needed to lift the United States out of economic sluggishness. Presidential Economic Adviser Heller calls present economic conditions "disappointing", and Secretary of Commerce Hodges describes the economy as "running sort of crabwise".

Taxes are supposed to pay the cost of government. Therefore, would not the most direct approach to the question be to find ways to relieve the people of the tremendous burden of Federal spending, of deficits and debts which cheapen our money, and of general waste which pervades the "big government" operation? Real tax reform could come easily if we would cut back government spending. This would do much to provide the conditions under which enterprise could flourish, providing more jobs and more goods for everyone.

Government spending could be slashed not only by blocking needless new spending programs but by reducing spending on old project. Defense Secretary McNamara said the other day that our defense costs could be slashed enough to save $3,000,000,000 over the next five years on just one item without endangering the nation's safety. What might happen if all the Department heads — the Secretary of Agriculture, the Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare, and all the others —were economy-minded? It staggers the imagination to think what could be saved! Without question, there is ample room for reduction in non-essential Federal expenditures without impairing any essential function of the government. In looking over a list of questionable items which the American taxpayers are called on to pay for, my colleague, Senator Harry F. Byrd of Virginia, discovered that the Federal government plans to spend $1,201,295 for a study of the "Affectional Relationship of An Infant Monkey and His Mother."

Cars outnumber trucks by about five to one on U.S. highways. The score in 1961 was 58,854,000 cars to 11,042,000 trucks.

Area Youths Winners In 4-H Roundup

Competition Held At Jackson's Mill

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. — A number of boys and girls were winners in competition at the annual State 4-H Roundup at Jackson's Mill.

Among the top 12 winners in the West Virginia 4-H Style Revue was Janet Sue Rexroad of Mineral County. The ultimate first place winner was Dorothea Dillon, 18-year-old Berkeley County girl.

Some 106 4-H boys and girls competed in the demonstration contests. Barbara See of Hardy County was the individual winner in poultry production. She will participate in the Northeastern Poultry Producers Council 4-H to be held during the council's exposition at Harrisburg, Pa., from October 1 to 4.

Other demonstration winners included Sue Baker, Mineral County, individual clothing care; Nancy Lee Rexrode, Pendleton County, individual bread; Doris Wratchford and Ellen Groves, Grant County, bread team competition, and Gary Spoonaugle, Pendleton County, individual vegetable production.

Among the eight girls in the top group in the 4-H wool outfit contest was Peggy Bailey of Hampshire County. The state winner was Nancy Harper, 15-year-old Pocahontas County girl.

The Preston County team finished second to Mingo County in the 4-H vegetable judging and identification contest with 3,895 points. Eloise Overfield of Preston County was fourth individually with 1,345 points. Members of the Preston County team, coached by County Agent Clifford Bucklew, besides Miss Overfield were Darrel Dean, 1,276 points, and Sally Peaslee, 1,274 points.

Ronald Gilkeson of Pendleton County was the boy winner in the state 4-H public speaking contest. He will receive a wrist watch. A blue ribbon winner in the girls' competition was Annette Shipe of Hardy County. The girl winner was Sally Howard of Webster County.

Man Testifies He Was 'Fence' For Policemen

PRINCETON, W. Va. (UPI) — Ira Matheny testified Wednesday that he acted as a "fence" for Bluefield police Lt. Charles Fox and patrolman Ted Land, disposing of stolen shotguns.

Matheny, a convicted burglar whose statements allegedly helped implicate Land in a series of burglaries and breaking and enterings, also admitted renting a garage for Land and Fox so they could store stolen goods.

Following Matheny's testimony, the state rested its case. Defense attorney Jerome Katz then called eight character witnesses in behalf of the 50-year-old patrolman.

Katz said Land and his wife would take the stand Thursday. The defense attorney said one or two other witnesses would be called and the defense is expected to rest its case some time Thursday.

Land is the first of seven Bluefield policemen indicted on burglary charges to stand trial. He is charged specifically with breaking and entering a Bluefield automobile agency in September, 1950.

Matheny testified that Land and Fox often ate in a restaurant he owned and he said he paid for many of their meals. Matheny is presently serving a prison term in Virginia on seven counts of breaking and entering.

Defense counsel W. W. Ross, under cross examination, questioned Matheny on his police record, showing about 20 breaking and entering convictions in the past 15 years.

State Police Sgt. Ed Guthrie also testified. He was asked why the lights in the courthouse were not turned on the night Land was questioned. Guthrie said he did not want to bring premature publicity to the case as the investigation was still being conducted. Guthrie headed the investigation.

Sgt. Robert L. Gibson testified early Wednesday that Land had aided him in breaking and enterings in 1954 and 1956.

Gibson said they broke into the Bluefield Hardware Co. and the Kammer Furniture Co.

Fox also testified Wednesday, his third day on the stand. The officer, under cross-examination by Katz, said he and Land "split 50-50" on their loot. However, he admitted that he received all 12 bundles of roofing shingles which he said he and Land stole from Citizens Coal and Supply Co.

Fox also admitted that Matheny stored their loot in the garage and said Matheny helped dispose of the shotguns.

Demo Women's Club To Resume Meetings

FROSTBURG — The Democratic Women's Club of Frostburg will resume meetings Monday at 8 p.m. in the American Legion Home, West Main Street. Mrs. Ann Kenney, who will preside, announced that plans for taking part in the coming Democratic campaign will be made. All members are urged to attend.

Little League Meets Today

FROSTBURG—Frostburg Little League will meet today in the scout room of First Methodist Church at 8 p. m. according to Russell Carder, president, and David J. Wilson, vice president.

Business to be discussed will include trophies for the winners and a financial report.

All patrons and supporters of the Little League are asked to be present to aid in the planning for grading and building a fence around the Little League diamond at City Park.

WSCS To Hold Social

FROSTBURG—The WSCS of Emmanuel Methodist Church, Route 40, west of Frostburg, will hold a social Saturday beginning at 5 p. m. featuring homemade refreshments. A bake sale will also be held. The affair is open to the public.

Men's Day Program Is Planned

FROSTBURG — Plans are being made by officers of the Men's Group of Dickerson AME Church for an annual Men's Day program September 30.

Rev. William Anderson, pastor of Eckhart Methodist Church, will be the principal speaker. He will be accompanied by the host church, choir and members.

In charge of the program are Lucius Harper, president; Sowers Jackson, vice president; Othellus Waites, secretary; Eugene Bush, treasurer, and Rev. E. H. Purnell.

Dentistry Class May Fall Short Of Full Strength

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. (UPI) —Lack of qualified applicants at the West Virginia School of Dentistry means that this year's class will probably be short of the 50 places open, Dean Kenneth V. Randolph said Wednesday.

The school has had 102 applicants for the class entering next month but only 42 have been accepted. Screening is still going on and a few more will probably be accepted, but Randolph said the entering class will probably still be short of full strength.

Randolph said that poor grades in such subjects as physics and organic chemistry ruled out many of the 60 persons turned down while others showed "improper effort and motivation in undergraduate school."

"Most all dental schools in the United States report an unsatisfactory number of qualified applicants," Randolph noted.

A class of 30, picked from 56 applicants, comprised the first class in the dental study program offered for the first time in 1957.

The school has graduated 47 dentists so far and 72 will enroll this fall as sophomores, juniors and seniors, in addition to the new class.

Annual Crowe Reunion Held

FROSTBURG — Approximately 100 persons attended the 20th annual Crowe reunion at Braddock Park Sunday.

After the picnic lunch, the following officers were elected: Archie Crowe, president; Paul Werner, vice-president; Delford Crowe, secretary-treasurer; and Eugene Crowe, historian.

Entertainment included selections by a male quartet composed of Delford Crowe, Willard Crowe, Victor Twigg, Sr., and Victor Twigg, Jr.

Mrs. Delford Crowe was in charge of games for the children.

Eugene I. Crowe, 87 of Meyersdale, Pa., was the oldest man present; Mrs. Mary Murphy, of Friendsville, the oldest woman; Julia Anna Crowe, seven weeks, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Crowe, youngest, and Rev. and Mrs. Raymond Crowe, of Ferndale, Md., traveled the greatest distance.

The next reunion will be held the third Sunday in August, 1963, at Braddock Park, according to Ralph Murphy, secretary.

Women Of Moose To Meet Today

FROSTBURG—Frostburg Chapter 221, Women of the Moose, will meet today at 7:30 p.m. in the Moose Home. Carrie Walboot, senior regent, will preside.

Plans for the annual dinner will be discussed and refreshments will follow. Reports of the publicity and senior regents committees will be given.

Lonaconing Band To March In Parade

LONACONING — Lonaconing City Band will have special practice today at 7 p.m. for all members planning to go to the Gaithersburg parade on Labor Day.

Members who are unable to participate in the parade are asked to bring their uniforms to tonight's meeting so a full band can be organized for the Gaithersburg trip.

Dance Is Planned

LONACONING — Lonaconing Republican Club will hold a dance on Labor Day night, September 3, with music by "Mr. and Mrs. Rhythm."

Randolph Hits U.S. Policy On Residual Oils

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Jennings Randolph, D-W. Va., attacked the federal government's policy on residual oils before the Senate Tuesday.

Randolph said the government is making "a dangerous mistake" by placing too much reliance on foreign supplies of residual oil.

"The existing program is disruptive of the coal and oil industries and does not take sufficiently into account the need to assure an adequate supply of fuels to meet any national emergency," he said.

The senator said there is still a pressing need for establishment of a more equitable system which would control imports of the crude and residual fuel oil.

The policy of allowing increased quantities of the foreign waste oil to come into this country as boiler fuel "certainly does nothing to restore economic strength to areas now suffering severe unemployment and business recession caused by loss of markets for their mineral-fuel products," he said.

15th Anniversary Marked By Keyser High Class

KEYSER—The Class of 1947 of Keyser High School held a reunion commemorating the 15th anniversary of graduation from KHS. Approximately 40 per cent of class members were present for the event in the Upper Potomac Shrine Club on Route 50. This marked the second reunion for the class, the first being staged in 1957.

A social hour preceded the dinner with Mesdames Treva Harold Clevenger and Janet Orndorff Harrison presiding at the refreshment counter. Attached to a bulletin board in the game room were letters from former classmates Edward Norwood, Suzanne Watson Coffman, Richard Cline, Mary Lynn Idleman Heyl, William Buckalew and Pauline Bane Shaffer who were unable to attend. Family pictures from some members were displayed.

A dinner and dance in the main ballroom followed with music by the Aristocrats. At the conclusion of the meal Roland Henderson, president, opened the program with a welcoming address and introduction of the class sponsors, E. Michael Welshonce, James W. Goldsworthy and Frederick T. Clark. Wives of each were also present.

The Senior Class song and the KHS song were led by Mrs. Treva Harold Clevenger and Mrs. Marjorie Sue Wilson Foster. Invocation was given by Mrs. Mary Day Householder and the introduction of classmates by Glenn Workman. Mrs. Norma Pennington Alt read the 23rd Psalm and lighted a candle for the one deceased member of the class, Harold Fanto.

Glenn Workman reported on the reunions and a financial report was given by Mrs. Harrison. Fred Blamer told of "That Wonderful Year—1947" and movies of the first reunion were shown by Donald Allamong.

During intermission at the dance, William Stewart announced winners of the various prizes. Bernard Warrenfeltz, who came from Germany for the reunion, won a toy car for having traveled the longest distance; Donald Horner, dish cloth and towel for being the most recently married; Helen Welling Doll, back plaster for being married the longest (17 years); Roland Henderson, bottle of Nervine for having the most children (six); Marjorie Sue Wilson Foster, youngest child (three months), and William Short, hair tonic, for the least hair. Ivan High relinquished the honor since he had won in 1957. William Stewart received a bottle of linament as winner of the "twist" contest.

Principal Goldsworthy, Coach Clark and Assistant Superintendent Welshonce gave brief talks concerning memories of the class and expressed their appreciation for having been invited. It was pointed out that 253 children have been born from the class of 120 people.

No formal plans were made for the next reunion, but those present expressed a desire to hold another get-together in 1967, marking the 20th anniversary.

District VFW Meeting Set

LONACONING — The Auxiliary to Alvin C. Neat Post No. 5280, Veterans of Foreign Wars, will be host to the District 3 Auxiliary meeting on Sunday, September 9, at 2 p.m. at the VFW home, Lonaconing.

Mrs. Helen Harris, Department of Maryland president, will make her official visit.

Westernport Delays Action On Carnivals

WESTERNPORT — Final action on the proposed ordinance pertaining to the banning of carnivals within the town limits was deferred until February 1, 1963 at a meeting of the Mayor and Commissioners Monday night.

The matter was taken under advisement following the presentation of a petition containing 500 signatures by a delegation from Potomac Fire Company 2.

The first reading of the ordinance was heard August 6 and town officials unanimously endorsed the regulation.

Paul Michael, chief of the fire unit, announced that the state representative of the fire protection underwriters inspected the equipment and found that the booster pump was not up to regulation standard.

A delegation appeared to complain of the condition of Wood Street Extended. Mayor Ray L. Wilt said the thoroughfare would be cleaned this week.

Louis Hicks, assistant clerk, advised council that there are approximately 1,300 water customers in the corporate limits and 150 water meters have been installed. The placing of meters throughout the town was discussed, but no action taken. It was decided to have the clerk write to Russell Routan, representative of the Neptune Meter Company, for a meeting with the group soon.

The first meeting in September will be postponed until September 10.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD. — Good morning: So nice to be greeting you all again after these long months of my illness and recuperation. I'm much, much better and happy to be back at work even though I may not be able to wander too far from my desk for a week or two. I'll also have to give up twisting for awhile—but now let's get with the news.

Otto Preminger is in firing range again (just like when I left off). This time, it's not over "Advise and Consent." In Israeli Air Force Col. Benjamin Kagan's book, "Swifter than Eagles," he takes irate aim at Otto over his movie "Exodus." Claims Preminger completely ignored the non-Jewish populace of countries around the world who helped form the little nation of Israel.

James Garner and his partner Irving Leonard have bought "Swifter than Eagles" for a movie. And they'll make it when Garner completes "Wheeler Dealer" with Lee Remick.

My good friends singer Joni James and her conductor husband Tony Aquaviva called me to tell me that it is now set for them to adopt a baby they've so long desired in Rome.

"We had to give up in California because they're standing in line to adopt babies in this country and this state," Joni said, "but we have been informed that the way has been cleared for us to get a little boy in Rome. Our hearts are singing."

Joni and Tony leave for a state department tour of Europe early in September and they can hardly wait to get to Rome and pick up Michelangelo Aquaviva—yep, that's the name they've selected.

Sorry to learn that Charles Laughton is not sufficiently recovered to do "Irma la Douce" with Jack Lemmon and Shirley MacLaine. Taking his place is Lou Jacoby who, you'll recall, was wonderful as Shelley Winters' husband in "The Diary of Anne Frank." When Jacoby finishes "Irma" he has another good job waiting in "The greatest Story Ever Told" for George Stevens.

Currently, Jacoby has just wound up 78 weeks on Broadway in the hit show "Come Blow Your Horn" You can't say Lou is any part of an unemployment problem.

Seen chatting with writer-producer Charles Marquis Warren of "The Virginian" TV series, Barbara Luna was asked if she is up for a role.

"Could be, I'm having an affair with one of the stars," she cracked. That's her husband, Doug McClure. Fooled you.

Over the weekend, Doug drove Barbara to TiJuana to get a first-hand look at the stripteasers because she plays a stripper in her next, "Dame with a Halo."

"I took one look at those dames minus a halo—and got my husband out in a hurry," laughed la Luna.

Never was Groucho Marx more deflated. Slated to take over Tv's "Tonight" show for a week, producer Terry Cross thought it would be a nice surprise to book Groucho's teenage daughter Melinda on her old man's program.

"No," said Melinda, "I'm going camping with a girl friend and her family." Such is fame—within the family.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Edmund Purdom's ex-wife, Alicia Corning-Clark, who came into millions when her sewing machine millionaire husband died after just a few weeks of marriage, is thinking of marriage again. This time with Bernard Lanvin, scion of the French perfume family.

"Guess I don't have all that charm my mother told me I had," Dick Beymer laughed when I asked him why his dates with Ann-Margret had begun and ended after a couple of dinners. "I've tried to get her on the telephone several times — but she's just too busy, I guess."

I would like very much to thank Dorothy Manners, my assistant of many years, for the long pull of seven columns a week she's done for me during my time out. I'm most appreciative of her good job—thank you, ma'am.

Rhonda Fleming and Rod Taylor seem to have resumed — at least long enough to attend the posh Robert Stacks' party.

I hear Shirley Jones, new peacock hair-do attracted much attention at the same affair. What's a peacock hair-do?

Gloria Vanderbilt Lumet was escorted by family friend Enoch Ravello, and Gloria still insists there's no rift with Sidney Lumet.

How conservative can Brigitte Bardot get? Shopping in Paris the other day, she bought seven one-piece bathing suits instead of her usual bikinis.

Dean Martin's 17-year-old daughter, Gale, will take a bow in his act when he opens at the Sands Hotel in Las Vegas on Sept. 5. Asked what she's going to do, Gale quipped, "I'm going to walk on the stage with a glass of MILK in my hand?"

More than 70 languages and 200 dialects are spoken in Ethiopia.

The bidding:

West	North	East	South
Pass	Pass	1 ♠	1 NT
Pass

Opening lead: Seven of ♠

Whenever the combined assets do not leave the declarer much margin for error, he must exercise great care in the management of his resources. South in today's hand displayed foresight as well as a deft touch to earn his triumph.

The bidding was sound. Altho North lacks by one point the technical requirements for a jump raise to three no trump, he has adequate compensation in the form of a readily establishable five card suit.

West had no very attractive lead of his own, so he decided to open the seven of spades despite the fact that he held only a singleton in his partner's suit. South made a very shrewd play at trick one from the dummy, when he followed with the deuce instead of putting up an honor. If the jack of spades is played, East can eliminate any subsequent entry to the dummy in this suit by refusing to cover with his king.

East played a low spade on his partner's seven and declarer won the trick with the ten, in his hand. At trick two he made his next unusual play, the ten of hearts. When West played low, the ten was permitted to ride for a finesse. It held the trick and South followed up by cashing the king of hearts. A spade was led to dummy's jack to drive out the king and establish the queen of spades as an entry to run the dummy's good hearts. In all, declarer scored five heart tricks, three spades, and two aces to make four no trump.

It should be observed that declarer's first round finesse against the jack of hearts was merely a safety play to assure the success of his contract. If the finesse loses to the jack in East's hand, South wins the return in his own hand if either a diamond or a club is led. He next plays the king of hearts and overtakes in dummy to run the rest of the suit. The spade finesse may now be taken to give declarer three spade tricks which along with four hearts and two aces add up to the required nine.

Study Funds Are Available

ROMNEY—Jack W. Brady, superintendent of the West Virginia Schools for the Deaf and Blind, has announced that the Board of Public Works has released funds from surplus revenue for an architectural study of the proposed classroom building for the blind.

Total amount appropriated by the 1962 Legislature was $548,250. The board is releasing four per cent of the appropriation for the study.

Announcement of the fund release came Monday to Supt. Brady through State Sen. Clarence E. Martin Jr., of Martinsburg.

Pistol Is Taken

P. J. Coyne, Pittsburgh, told police Tuesday that a .22 caliber pistol and several other articles with a total value of $60 were taken from his bedroll in the gymnasium of Central YMCA. A member of the Camp Carson group, he said he placed the pistol in his bedroll before going to lunch and a movie and returned to find it missing. Capt. James E. Van and Detective Harry Iser are investigating.

Senate Cloakroom

by Sen. J. Glenn Beall

HAPPY BIRTHDAY, MR. HOOVER! — Herbert Hoover, beloved former President, celebrated his eighty-eighth birthday by addressing a large gathering at the dedication of the Herbert Hoover Presidential Library in the village of his birth. Mr. Hoover has served his fellow man in many capacities. He was Woodrow Wilson's Food Administrator during World War I. Following that war, he received votes for the Presidential nomination in both Democratic and Republican National Conventions. He was Calvin Coolidge's Secretary of Commerce. He is now the active head of the Boy Scouts of America. Incidentially, Herbert Hoover has never accepted a penny of pay for a lifetime of public service.

In his address at West Branch, Iowa, last week, Mr. Hoover reviewed the changes in the world since his Iowa boyhood — changes in many of which he was a direct participant. Then, the former President looked ahead, urging safeguards to the peace which is imperiled by Communism. He closed his address with words about inner strength;

"The mightiest assurances of our future are the intangible spiritual and intellectual forces of our people . . . . That word 'America' carries meanings which lie deep in the soul of our people . . . . It springs from our religious faith, our ideals of individual freedom and equal opportunity . . . It rises from our pride in great accomplishments of our nation and from the sacrifices and devotion of those who have passed on. It lifts us above the ugliness of the day. It has guided us through even greater crises in our past. And from these sources, solutions will come again."

RUSSIAN SPACE ACHIEVEMENT — Capitol Hill, like the rest of the world, was agog over the Russian achievement of orbiting the earth 64 times with one space capsule and 48 times with another. The Russians deserve the wide acclaim accorded this giant step in space science. The putting of two manned capsules in orbit at the same time was spectacular, though its scientific advantage is not clear. It was thought by some that the Russians planned to rendezvous the two capsules in flight, but if this was the plan they failed. With all their strides in space, the Russians still are not sure enough of themselves to announce their plans in advance, — and so, we hear only about their successes. When Russian Cosmonaut Titov was interviewed on television in this country, he said there had been no failures in Russian space experiments, a statement which few believed.

This latest feat on the part of the Russians would indicate that they may be well ahead of us in this field, — but we've been behind before; Americans have a way of coming from behind to win.

"TELSTAR" FILIBUSTER ENDED — For the first time in 35 years, the Senate voted Tuesday to stop a filbuster. A small group of Senators who opposed the President's bill to set up a corporation to manage the communications satellite business, knowing that they were outnumbered, had attempted to talk the measure to death. The basic issue in the Senate fight was whether the communications system should be privately owned. Those opposed to the President's bill favor Government ownership.

The bill provides for the creation of a private corporation for profit which would not be an agency of the Government but which would be subject to specified Government regulation. The bill sets up a corporation in which 50% of the voting stock would be sold to communications companies and 50% to the general public. The shares of stock would be sold at a price not to exceed $100 per share so as to encourage the widest possible distribution to the American public. The new corporation would be run by a board of 15 directors: 6 elected by the general public stockholders, 6 elected by the communications companies, and 3 appointed by the President of the United States. To prevent domination by any one communications company, no company or its trustees could vote for more than 3 of the 6 company directors. In other words, the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, which paid nearly 50 million dollars for the Telstar communications satellite and then paid an additional $2,700,000 to the Space agency to launch it, would be limited to no more than 3 of the 15 directors.

The corporation would operate Telstar and other communications satellites as a transmission belt for all communications companies without discrimination.

Recognizing the need for Federal coordination, planning, and regulation, the bill delineates the powers and responsibilities devolving upon the President, the Space agency, and the Federal Communications Commission. The President would coordinate activities and supervise the relationship of the corporation with foreign agencies participating in the system. NASA (the Space agency) would cooperate in matters of research and development and furnish various specified services on a reimbursable basis. The FCC would be responsible for comprehensive regulation of all entities, including procurement and operation, and would grant licenses to ground stations to send and receive by way of satellites, on the basis of public convenience and necessity. All three agencies of the Government would report regularly to the Congress.

No bill has ever received more thorough study. Five Senate committees held hearings, and all approved the measure—with clarifying amendments. In my opinion, the President's plan, as provided in the bill, is a worthy experiment in the unique process of private enterprise helping government. This plan would make full use of the great research resources of numerous American firms in correlation with Government agencies. I voted for cloture, and will vote for the bill unless it's radically changed.

We are on the threshold of a new era in worldwide communication. The development of the communications satellite system is the first and foremost practical application of space technology for the benefit of all mankind.

TAX CUT IN JANUARY—President Kennedy told a nationwide television audience last Monday that no cut in taxes is to be requested by him now because he thinks the economic condition of the country is good and therefore a tax cut is not needed. But, he said, he will ask for a tax cut in January—presumably because the economic condition of the country will not be so good in January and a tax cut will then be needed to lift the United States out of economic sluggishness. Presidential Economic Adviser Heller calls present economic conditions "disappointing", and Secretary of Commerce Hodges describes the economy as "running sort of crabwise".

Taxes are supposed to pay the cost of government. Therefore, would not the most direct approach to the question be to find ways to relieve the people of the tremendous burden of Federal spending, of deficits and debts which cheapen our money, and of general waste which pervades the "big government" operation? Real tax reform could come easily if we would cut back government spending. This would do much to provide the conditions under which enterprise could flourish, providing more jobs and more goods for everyone.

Government spending could be slashed not only by blocking needless new spending programs but by reducing spending on old project. Defense Secretary McNamara said the other day that our defense costs could be slashed enough to save $3,000,000,000 over the next five years on just one item without endangering the nation's safety. What might happen if all the Department heads — the Secretary of Agriculture, the Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare, and all the others —were economy-minded? It staggers the imagination to think what could be saved! Without question, there is ample room for reduction in non-essential Federal expenditures without impairing any essential function of the government. In looking over a list of questionable items which the American taxpayers are called on to pay for, my colleague, Senator Harry F. Byrd of Virginia, discovered that the Federal government plans to spend $1,201,295 for a study of the "Affectional Relationship of An Infant Monkey and His Mother."

Cars outnumber trucks by about five to one on U.S. highways. The score in 1961 was 58,854,000 cars to 11,042,000 trucks.

Instructor Is Appointed For Keyser Kindergarten

MRS. DONALD HEARE

KEYSER — Mrs. Donald Heare has accepted a position as teacher of the afternoon class for the Keyser Kindergarten. She has a BS degree in elementary education and taught elementary grades in several schools of the area, plus giving music lessons in her home.

Mrs. Heare has taught the kindergarten class at Trinity Lutheran Sunday School the past five years. She and her husband are the parents of three children.

Mrs. John Droppleman has taught the morning class since the school opened.

August 29, the kindergarten will begin its third year of preparing children to enter the first grade. Officers pointed out that this is no nursery or play school as the teachers have a schedule of work units that fill an entire school year.

First, children complete a family unit and then follows study of a farm, Indian, children of other lands and nursery rhyme units. Through the studies the children are learning the alphabet, numbers, science activities and songs. Kindergarten officers, mothers, and teachers take short trips to acquaint pupils with various surroundings with which they are not familiar.

The last three months of the school year are devoted to teaching them reading readiness, and they are given a test to enable placement at the beginning of the first grade.

Open house will be held at the Lutheran parish house August 29. Parents and children in the morning class are requested to meet the teacher from 9 to 11 a. m. Parents and children in the afternoon class will meet Mrs. Heare from 1 to 3 p.m.

There are several openings remaining in the afternoon class. Any parent wishing to enroll a child may call Mrs. W. A. Jeffries at SU 8-1213.

Politics Thrust Upon Doctors, Speaker Says

Matter Of Survival, WVMA Is Told

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va. (UPI) — Politics has become a permanent part of the practice of medicine, the president of the West Virginia Medical Association said Wednesday.

In the annual presidential address at the opening session of the association's 95th annual convention here, Dr. D. E. Greeneltch of Wheeling said:

"It appears that the practice of medicine has been thrust irrevocably into the political picture. We must accept this as a fact of life.

"To aid the survival of medicine as we know it, like it, and as we have helped build it, we must exert our influence through our patients, through our professional organizations, through organized political action groups, and through our own political parties."

Greeneltch said doctors "have traditionally avoided active political participation," but that now the "necessity of becoming politically active has been thrust upon us."

"It is necessary, purely as a matter of survival, that we express ourselves and exercise the latent political influence which, even though unused, has always been recognized and respected by political office holders," he said.

The Wheeling physician centered his attack on the Kennedy administration's medical care for the aged bill, recently killed in the Senate, which would tie the program to Social Security.

"Regardless of statements to the contrary, we all know that the Administration's efforts to establish a compulsory hospital-nursing home program under social security for our senior citizens, regardless of need, is but an initial step toward complete socialization of medicine," he said.

"President Kennedy in his Madison Square Garden speech of May 20 stated his program was just a 'start.' This statement like former Rep. Forand's 'foot in the door' and Walter Reuther's initial piece of legislation' clearly indicates the adoption of such a program would be just a beginning," Greeneltch said.

Greeneltch said medicine will not survive "as an isolated example of free enterprise" — that its future is "bound to the politically conservative group in both parties."

"Fortunately, there are strong conservative forces in both major parties," he said. "We do not dare deny our support to these groups through the whole spectrum of political issues."

Greeneltch said the profession's main problem is not its continued ability to provide the best of medical care, but "that of deterring the social planners in Washington from influencing our citizens and through them our Congress to take precipitous action relative to the provision of medical services."

"Medical care can only be provided by physicians and I am sure the method by which these services become available should evolve from the same source," he said.

REA Misused, Vennard Says

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va. (UPI)—An executive of the Edison Electric Institute said Tuesday the Rural Electrification Administration is being used unnecessarily to promote government-financed projects.

Edwin Vennard, vice president and managing director of Edison, said the REA is being used to promote government ownership of the electric power business now that the agency has accomplished its original purpose of bringing electricity to American farmers.

Vennard told delegates to the conference of the Great Lakes Association of Railroad and Utilities Commissioners that 98 per cent of the nation's farms now have electricity and the nations' power facilities are more than ample to meet needs.

"REA's main efforts now are means of promoting unnecessary government - financed generating plants and transmission lines" backed by loans so the free market cannot compete, he said.

Five of every six new cooperative customers of the REA are non - farm customers, Vennard said.

Garbage Fee System Set In Frostburg

FROSTBURG — The Mayor and City Council of Frostburg announced Tuesday that effective October 1 it will be necessary to make an annual charge for trash and garbage collections within the city limits.

Council pointed out that it is now necessary to build an incinerator to dispose of trash and garbage, a new truck must be purchased which will pack the refuse in tightly, cutting down on the number of trips, additional help will have to be employed to operate the incinerator and other expenses.

For many years the city has collected both the garbage and trash at no additional cost to the property owner. The charge has now been set at $10 per year per family, and must be paid in advance.

A permit and a tag to be attached to containers will be issued. Local commercial haulers will have a $25 annual charge for the use of the dumping facilities. For truckers outside city limits and residents also outside city limits a rate will be set at a later date.

Council also explained that with this additional charge and proposed changes in work schedules better service will be given and at less inconvenience to the property owners. They also said that they regretted taking such action and pointed out that neighboring communities have charged for these services for years.

Area Youths Winners In 4-H Roundup

Competition Held At Jackson's Mill

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. — A number of boys and girls were winners in competition at the annual State 4-H Roundup at Jackson's Mill.

Among the top 12 winners in the West Virginia 4-H Style Revue was Janet Sue Rexroad of Mineral County. The ultimate first place winner was Dorothea Dillon, 18-year-old Berkeley County girl.

Some 106 4-H boys and girls competed in the demonstration contests. Barbara See of Hardy County was the individual winner in poultry production. She will participate in the Northeastern Poultry Producers Council 4-H to be held during the council's exposition at Harrisburg, Pa., from October 1 to 4.

Other demonstration winners included Sue Baker, Mineral County, individual clothing care; Nancy Lee Rexrode, Pendleton County, individual bread; Doris Wratchford and Ellen Groves, Grant County, bread team competition, and Gary Spoonaugle, Pendleton County, individual vegetable production.

Among the eight girls in the top group in the 4-H wool outfit contest was Peggy Bailey of Hampshire County. The state winner was Nancy Harper, 15-year-old Pocahontas County girl.

The Preston County team finished second to Mingo County in the 4-H vegetable judging and identification contest with 3,895 points. Eloise Overfield of Preston County was fourth individually with 1,345 points. Members of the Preston County team, coached by County Agent Clifford Bucklew, besides Miss Overfield were Darrel Dean, 1,276 points, and Sally Peaslee, 1,274 points.

Ronald Gilkeson of Pendleton County was the boy winner in the state 4-H public speaking contest. He will receive a wrist watch. A blue ribbon winner in the girls' competition was Annette Shipe of Hardy County. The girl winner was Sally Howard of Webster County.

Man Testifies He Was 'Fence' For Policemen

PRINCETON, W. Va. (UPI) — Ira Matheny testified Wednesday that he acted as a "fence" for Bluefield police Lt. Charles Fox and patrolman Ted Land, disposing of stolen shotguns.

Matheny, a convicted burglar whose statements allegedly helped implicate Land in a series of burglaries and breaking and enterings, also admitted renting a garage for Land and Fox so they could store stolen goods.

Following Matheny's testimony, the state rested its case. Defense attorney Jerome Katz then called eight character witnesses in behalf of the 50-year-old patrolman.

Katz said Land and his wife would take the stand Thursday. The defense attorney said one or two other witnesses would be called and the defense is expected to rest its case some time Thursday.

Land is the first of seven Bluefield policemen indicted on burglary charges to stand trial. He is charged specifically with breaking and entering a Bluefield automobile agency in September, 1950.

Matheny testified that Land and Fox often ate in a restaurant he owned and he said he paid for many of their meals. Matheny is presently serving a prison term in Virginia on seven counts of breaking and entering.

Defense counsel W. W. Ross, under cross examination, questioned Matheny on his police record, showing about 20 breaking and entering convictions in the past 15 years.

State Police Sgt. Ed Guthrie also testified. He was asked why the lights in the courthouse were not turned on the night Land was questioned. Guthrie said he did not want to bring premature publicity to the case as the investigation was still being conducted. Guthrie headed the investigation.

Sgt. Robert L. Gibson testified early Wednesday that Land had aided him in breaking and enterings in 1954 and 1956.

Gibson said they broke into the Bluefield Hardware Co. and the Kammer Furniture Co.

Fox also testified Wednesday, his third day on the stand. The officer, under cross-examination by Katz, said he and Land "split 50-50" on their loot. However, he admitted that he received all 12 bundles of roofing shingles which he said he and Land stole from Citizens Coal and Supply Co.

Fox also admitted that Matheny stored their loot in the garage and said Matheny helped dispose of the shotguns.

Dentistry Class May Fall Short Of Full Strength

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. (UPI) —Lack of qualified applicants at the West Virginia School of Dentistry means that this year's class will probably be short of the 50 places open, Dean Kenneth V. Randolph said Wednesday.

The school has had 102 applicants for the class entering next month but only 42 have been accepted. Screening is still going on and a few more will probably be accepted, but Randolph said the entering class will probably still be short of full strength.

Randolph said that poor grades in such subjects as physics and organic chemistry ruled out many of the 60 persons turned down while others showed "improper effort and motivation in undergraduate school."

"Most all dental schools in the United States report an unsatisfactory number of qualified applicants," Randolph noted.

A class of 30, picked from 56 applicants, comprised the first class in the dental study program offered for the first time in 1957.

The school has graduated 47 dentists so far and 72 will enroll this fall as sophomores, juniors and seniors, in addition to the new class.

Randolph Hits U.S. Policy On Residual Oils

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Jennings Randolph, D-W. Va., attacked the federal government's policy on residual oils before the Senate Tuesday.

Randolph said the government is making "a dangerous mistake" by placing too much reliance on foreign supplies of residual oil.

"The existing program is disruptive of the coal and oil industries and does not take sufficiently into account the need to assure an adequate supply of fuels to meet any national emergency," he said.

The senator said there is still a pressing need for establishment of a more equitable system which would control imports of the crude and residual fuel oil.

The policy of allowing increased quantities of the foreign waste oil to come into this country as boiler fuel "certainly does nothing to restore economic strength to areas now suffering severe unemployment and business recession caused by loss of markets for their mineral-fuel products," he said.

15th Anniversary Marked By Keyser High Class

KEYSER—The Class of 1947 of Keyser High School held a reunion commemorating the 15th anniversary of graduation from KHS. Approximately 40 per cent of class members were present for the event in the Upper Potomac Shrine Club on Route 50. This marked the second reunion for the class, the first being staged in 1957.

A social hour preceded the dinner with Mesdames Treva Harold Clevenger and Janet Orndorff Harrison presiding at the refreshment counter. Attached to a bulletin board in the game room were letters from former classmates Edward Norwood, Suzanne Watson Coffman, Richard Cline, Mary Lynn Idleman Heyl, William Buckalew and Pauline Bane Shaffer who were unable to attend. Family pictures from some members were displayed.

A dinner and dance in the main ballroom followed with music by the Aristocrats. At the conclusion of the meal Roland Henderson, president, opened the program with a welcoming address and introduction of the class sponsors, E. Michael Welshonce, James W. Goldsworthy and Frederick T. Clark. Wives of each were also present.

The Senior Class song and the KHS song were led by Mrs. Treva Harold Clevenger and Mrs. Marjorie Sue Wilson Foster. Invocation was given by Mrs. Mary Day Householder and the introduction of classmates by Glenn Workman. Mrs. Norma Pennington Alt read the 23rd Psalm and lighted a candle for the one deceased member of the class, Harold Fanto.

Glenn Workman reported on the reunions and a financial report was given by Mrs. Harrison. Fred Blamer told of "That Wonderful Year—1947" and movies of the first reunion were shown by Donald Allamong.

During intermission at the dance, William Stewart announced winners of the various prizes. Bernard Warrenfeltz, who came from Germany for the reunion, won a toy car for having traveled the longest distance; Donald Horner, dish cloth and towel for being the most recently married; Helen Welling Doll, back plaster for being married the longest (17 years); Roland Henderson, bottle of Nervine for having the most children (six); Marjorie Sue Wilson Foster, youngest child (three months), and William Short, hair tonic, for the least hair. Ivan High relinquished the honor since he had won in 1957. William Stewart received a bottle of linament as winner of the "twist" contest.

Principal Goldsworthy, Coach Clark and Assistant Superintendent Welshonce gave brief talks concerning memories of the class and expressed their appreciation for having been invited. It was pointed out that 253 children have been born from the class of 120 people.

No formal plans were made for the next reunion, but those present expressed a desire to hold another get-together in 1967, marking the 20th anniversary.

District VFW Meeting Set

LONACONING — The Auxiliary to Alvin C. Neat Post No. 5280, Veterans of Foreign Wars, will be host to the District 3 Auxiliary meeting on Sunday, September 9, at 2 p.m. at the VFW home, Lonaconing.

Westernport Delays Action On Carnivals

WESTERNPORT — Final action on the proposed ordinance pertaining to the banning of carnivals within the town limits was deferred until February 1, 1963 at a meeting of the Mayor and Commissioners Monday night.

The matter was taken under advisement following the presentation of a petition containing 500 signatures by a delegation from Potomac Fire Company 2.

The first reading of the ordinance was heard August 6 and town officials unanimously endorsed the regulation.

Paul Michael, chief of the fire unit, announced that the state representative of the fire protection underwriters inspected the equipment and found that the booster pump was not up to regulation standard.

A delegation appeared to complain of the condition of Wood Street Extended. Mayor Ray L. Wilt said the thoroughfare would be cleaned this week.

Louis Hicks, assistant clerk, advised council that there are approximately 1,300 water customers in the corporate limits and 150 water meters have been installed. The placing of meters throughout the town was discussed, but no action taken. It was decided to have the clerk write to Russell Routan, representative of the Neptune Meter Company, for a meeting with the group soon.

The first meeting in September will be postponed until September 10.

Instructor Is Appointed For Keyser Kindergarten

MRS. DONALD HEARE

KEYSER — Mrs. Donald Heare has accepted a position as teacher of the afternoon class for the Keyser Kindergarten. She has a BS degree in elementary education and taught elementary grades in several schools of the area, plus giving music lessons in her home.

Mrs. Heare has taught the kindergarten class at Trinity Lutheran Sunday School the past five years. She and her husband are the parents of three children.

Mrs. John Droppleman has taught the morning class since the school opened.

August 29, the kindergarten will begin its third year of preparing children to enter the first grade. Officers pointed out that this is no nursery or play school as the teachers have a schedule of work units that fill an entire school year.

First, children complete a family unit and then follows study of a farm, Indian, children of other lands and nursery rhyme units. Through the studies the children are learning the alphabet, numbers, science activities and songs. Kindergarten officers, mothers, and teachers take short trips to acquaint pupils with various surroundings with which they are not familiar.

The last three months of the school year are devoted to teaching them reading readiness, and they are given a test to enable placement at the beginning of the first grade.

Open house will be held at the Lutheran parish house August 29. Parents and children in the morning class are requested to meet the teacher from 9 to 11 a. m. Parents and children in the afternoon class will meet Mrs. Heare from 1 to 3 p.m.

There are several openings remaining in the afternoon class. Any parent wishing to enroll a child may call Mrs. W. A. Jeffries at SU 8-1213.

Brethren Youth Attending Conference

WESTERNPORT — Miss Mary League and William Magruder are attending the third National Youth Conference of the Church of the Brethren being held at Estes Park, Colo., August 20-24.

Politics Thrust Upon Doctors, Speaker Says

Matter Of Survival, WVMA Is Told

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va. (UPI) — Politics has become a permanent part of the practice of medicine, the president of the West Virginia Medical Association said Wednesday.

In the annual presidential address at the opening session of the association's 95th annual convention here, Dr. D. E. Greeneltch of Wheeling said:

"It appears that the practice of medicine has been thrust irrevocably into the political picture. We must accept this as a fact of life.

"To aid the survival of medicine as we know it, like it, and as we have helped build it, we must exert our influence through our patients, through our professional organizations, through organized political action groups, and through our own political parties."

Greeneltch said doctors "have traditionally avoided active political participation," but that now the "necessity of becoming politically active has been thrust upon us."

"It is necessary, purely as a matter of survival, that we express ourselves and exercise the latent political influence which, even though unused, has always been recognized and respected by political office holders," he said.

The Wheeling physician centered his attack on the Kennedy administration's medical care for the aged bill, recently killed in the Senate, which would tie the program to Social Security.

"Regardless of statements to the contrary, we all know that the Administration's efforts to establish a compulsory hospital-nursing home program under social security for our senior citizens, regardless of need, is but an initial step toward complete socialization of medicine," he said.

"President Kennedy in his Madison Square Garden speech of May 20 stated his program was just a 'start.' This statement like former Rep. Forand's 'foot in the door' and Walter Reuther's initial piece of legislation' clearly indicates the adoption of such a program would be just a beginning," Greeneltch said.

Greeneltch said medicine will not survive "as an isolated example of free enterprise" — that its future is "bound to the politically conservative group in both parties."

"Fortunately, there are strong conservative forces in both major parties," he said. "We do not dare deny our support to these groups through the whole spectrum of political issues."

Greeneltch said the profession's main problem is not its continued ability to provide the best of medical care, but "that of deterring the social planners in Washington from influencing our citizens and through them our Congress to take precipitous action relative to the provision of medical services."

"Medical care can only be provided by physicians and I am sure the method by which these services become available should evolve from the same source," he said.

Swanton Personals

Piedmont Pool Will End Season September 3

PIEDMONT — The Piedmont Municipal swimming pool will close for the season Monday evening, September 3.

This was decided at the meeting of the town council Tuesday.

A list of items, amounting to $652.20 was received from the Tri-Towns Fire Company 1. Included in the list were 12 pairs of boots and 12 coats, which are needed for the firemen.

Action on the items was tabled until tthe next meeting.

It was announced that W. Hampshire and Fisher Streets will be blacktopped soon and Woodlawn Avenue will be oiled.

REA Misused, Vennard Says

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va. (UPI)—An executive of the Edison Electric Institute said Tuesday the Rural Electrification Administration is being used unnecessarily to promote government-financed projects.

Edwin Vennard, vice president and managing director of Edison, said the REA is being used to promote government ownership of the electric power business now that the agency has accomplished its original purpose of bringing electricity to American farmers.

Vennard told delegates to the conference of the Great Lakes Association of Railroad and Utilities Commissioners that 98 per cent of the nation's farms now have electricity and the nations' power facilities are more than ample to meet needs.

"REA's main efforts now are means of promoting unnecessary government - financed generating plants and transmission lines" backed by loans so the free market cannot compete, he said.

Five of every six new cooperative customers of the REA are non - farm customers, Vennard said.

Garbage Fee System Set In Frostburg

FROSTBURG — The Mayor and City Council of Frostburg announced Tuesday that effective October 1 it will be necessary to make an annual charge for trash and garbage collections within the city limits.

Council pointed out that it is now necessary to build an incinerator to dispose of trash and garbage, a new truck must be purchased which will pack the refuse in tightly, cutting down on the number of trips, additional help will have to be employed to operate the incinerator and other expenses.

For many years the city has collected both the garbage and trash at no additional cost to the property owner. The charge has now been set at $10 per year per family, and must be paid in advance.

A permit and a tag to be attached to containers will be issued. Local commercial haulers will have a $25 annual charge for the use of the dumping facilities. For truckers outside city limits and residents also outside city limits a rate will be set at a later date.

Council also explained that with this additional charge and proposed changes in work schedules better service will be given and at less inconvenience to the property owners. They also said that they regretted taking such action and pointed out that neighboring communities have charged for these services for years.

McDonough Heads Demo Delegation

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)— Democratic State Chairman Robert P. McDonough will head a seven-member delegation representing West Virginia at a Democratic Midwest Conference opening Thursday at French Lick, Indiana.

The group includes associate chairman Mrs. Thelma Hall of Madison, who will take part Friday in a panel discussion on "polling, registration and getting out the vote."

Speakers at the four-day meeting will include Democratic National Chairman John Bailey, Larry O'Brien of President Kennedy's staff, and Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield.

FFA Judging Winners Listed

Winners in the 19th annual Future Farmers of America livestock judging contest held yesterday at the Cumberland Fair were anounced by Robert G. Saville, vo-ag teacher at Flintstone High School, and Richard Bishoff, vo-ag teacher at Southern High in Garrett County, who directed the contest.

Allegany County winners were Larry Clingerman, Flintstone; George Mullenax, Oldtown; Dale Burgess, Wesley Gordon, and Junior Teeter, all of Flintstone; and Larry Haines, RD 1, Oldtown.

Garrett County winners were Wayne Shillinburg, Dennis Riley, Larry Canor and Reece Riley, who tied for third place, James Schlosnagle, and Loyal Yoder.

The Flintstone and Oldtown boys competed among themselves and the Garrett County youths among themselves in judging a group of Hampshire sows of the FFA Chapter in Flintstone and a group of Hereford heifers and bulls of the Hetzer farms of Washington County.

Judges who determined the youths "know how" in judging on their own were Mr. Bishoff and Carlton Erst, livestock breeder of Clear Spring.

Lifesaving Class Starts

A combined junior and senior lifesaving course will be offered starting today at the Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club pool, according to Floyd G. Harper, pool chairman.

This course is open to Shriners, Masons, their families and guests. Those interested may register today at 10 a.m. at the pool. The age limit for senior lifesaving is 16 years and over. The junior lifesaving course is for youngsters 12 to 15 years of age.

Classes will meet from 10 a.m. until noon each day except Saturdays, Sundays and holidays.

American Red Cross certificates will be awarded upon completion of the 20-hour course under the instruction of Michael Wanda. This will be the last water course to be offered at the Ali Ghan swimming pool this season.

There will be no charge for instruction but the regular pool admission will be charged those who do not have a family membership card, Mr. Harper said.

South End Brush Fire Breaks Out

South Cumberland Fire Company was called out early yesterday morning after a stubborn brush fire in the Kentucky-White avenue area broke out again. Firemen worked for almost three hours wetting down the area.

East Side Fire Company went to the rear of the 700 block of Bedford Street early last evening after smoke was reported seen on the hill. Firemen found no trace of the blaze.

Corporation Tax Bills Will Be Mailed Today

The Finance Department of the City of Cumberland expects to place about 200 corporation tax bills in the mails today, according to Frederick J. Hill, finance commissioner.

Payments made on the statements are expected to help the city meet its expenses until the bulk of the tax funds begin rolling in late next month.

Bills for real estate taxes and for individual personal property taxes will not go out until about September 20.

Early billing of corporation taxes is generally welcome, since many firms have set funds aside for the purpose and are anxious to close their books.

for the Celanese Corporation of America. He will be located in New York and will coordinate labor relations activities at all domestic plants of the division companies of Celanese.

A native of Georgia, where he was employed at the company's Rome plant for 22 years, Nix transferred to Cumberland in April, 1955, as assistant personnel manager and was promoted to his present position in May, 1956. During his tenure at Amcelle, the plant's technical recruiting, training and personnel development programs have been extremely active. This has enabled the plant to effect promotions to other Celanese locations for more than 40 Amcelle staff members.

Among employe activities Mr. Nix has assisted in organizing are the Amcelle Employes Charity Fund, the Amcelle Employes Credit Union and a plant Red Cross blood program. Jointly sponsored by the company and Local 1874, TWUA, these groups have enjoyed active support by Amcelle employes since their inception.

Through the Charity Fund, employes have contributed over $100,000 since 1958 to Cumberland and area charitable, health and welfare organizations.

Active In Community

Mr. Nix also has been active in community and civic affairs since coming to Cumberland. He has served as advisory board member of the Salvation Army, member of the legislative committee of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce, member of the board of directors of County United Fund, and the board of directors of the Cancer Society. He is a member of First Presbyterian Church and has served as member and secretary of its board of trustees.

Mr. Nix and his wife expect to move to the New York area in early October. Their daughter, Mary Edwina, will enroll at Sullins College, Bristol, Va., next month.

Steve Johnson's 73 Trails By Four Strokes In Jaycee Tourney

Californian Leads With 69 At Huntington

Maryland Champion Kent Kittle Comes In Second With 71

Stephen L. "Steve" Johnson, youthful golf star of the Cumberland Country Club, posted a 33-39—73 to finish only four strokes behind the leader at the end of the first 18 holes of the International Jaycee Junior Golf Tournament yesterday at the Spring Valley Country Club course at Huntington, W. Va.

Kent Kittle, Maryland champion, came in second to James Weichers, of California, the first day's leader, by carding a 71.

HUNTINGTON, W. Va. (UPI)—James Weichers, Atherton, Calif., continued his domination of the tight and tricky Spring Valley Country Club course Wednesday as he shot a one-under par 69 to take the first round lead in the International Jaycee Junior golf tournament.

Weichers, 17, was the only one of the 103 entries to break par as the fast greens and easy rolling fairways provided for some tricky going.

The youngsters displayed a little bit of everything in the opening round marathon, including a hole-in-one and one golfer took a 19 on one hole.

Mike Bush of Missouri shot the ace, canning a nine iron shot off the tee on the par-3, 123 yard 14th hole. He finished with an 82.

Kent Kittle of Maryland followed Weichers with a 71 and six players shot 72s.

They are Harry Heard, California, Wayne Downey, Alabama, John Hogden, Wisconsin, William Raings, Illinois, Dick Orr, Oklahoma and David Holcomb of Texas.

A total of 203 golfers from 48 states, the District of Columbia, Panama, Japan and Puerto Rico are entered in the tournament which was won last year by Jay Sigel of Narbeth, Pa.

After the first 36 holes, the field will be trimmed to the low 100 with the rest of the golfers competing in a "class B" tournament at the nearby Riviera Country club.

Midland Belts Zihlman, 24-3

Westernport Downs Lonaconing, 3-1

Midland broke the tie for first place with Keyser in the Twilight Baseball League by clobbering Zihlman yesterday by the score of 24-3 at Midland in a game shortened to five innings by mutual agreement.

The win gave the Old Exports a 20-7 record. Keyser has won 19 and lost 7.

Fay Often sparked the Midland swatsmiths with five hits in six trips, including a three-base wallop. "Moose" Arnone hit a grand slam homer and two singles and Bobby Mundeno garnered four safeties in five times at bat.

Paul "Bubbles" Thompson was the winning pitcher, scattering six hits.

"Butch" Smith had three hits for Zihlman, including a round-tripper. Deffenbaugh also homered.

Joe Niland turned in a 2-hit performance as Westernport downed Lonaconing at Westernport by the score of 3-1.

Billy "Gas House" Johnson and Dick Wilson collected two hits each for Manager John "Lefty" Martin's team which posted its 15th win against 10 losses and clung to fourth place. 'Coney was limited to four singles.

Scores:

AT MIDLAND:

Sports Shoppe Evens Series

Tops Old Exports In Second Game, 8-5

Rallying for six runs in the fifth inning, the Sports Shoppe came from behind to defeat the Old Exports yesterday at Post Field by the score of 8-5 and evened up their Rec Softball League semi-final playoff series at one win each.

Six walks coupled with three hits, a sacrifice fly, hit batsman and fielder's choice produced the Sports Shoppe's six tallies in the big fifth frame.

Tom McLuckie went all the way for the winning team and yielded six hits. Gene Hess, who relieved Neil Toey in the fifth inning, was tagged with the loss.

The Old Exports outhit the opposition, 10 to 6. Dick Peck rapped a double and single and "Dump" Younger and Jimmie Seeders also had two blows each. Manager Bill Briner and Smith obtained two hits each for the Sports Shoppe while Jimmie Hamilton sparkled in right field with several nice running catches.

Final game of the best-of-three series will be staged Friday at 6 p.m., at Naval Reserve Field.

Score:

Sports Shoppe	002 060 0—8	6	2
Old Exports	011 200 1—5	10	1

Tom McLuckie and Bob Russell. Neil Toey, Gene Hess (5) and Bobby Page.

Mexico, California Teams Are Little League Winners

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa. (UPI)—San Jose, Calif., setting one slugging record and tying another, and Monterrey, Mexico, nosing out a Japanese team, gained victories Wednesday to reach the semifinals of the Little League World Series.

San Jose, blasting four homers among its 19 hits, trampled Poitiers, France, 22-2, in the opening game. The display of power established a new mark for total runs in the 16-year history of the classic and tied the homer output of Camp Hill, Pa., against little Rock, Ark., in 1953.

During the first half National League pennant race, the Los Angeles Dodgers enjoyed the best winning streak—13 games.

Pete Ladygo Named Bruce Grid Coach

Starred As Lineman With Terps, Steelers

Peter Glenn "Pete" Ladygo, 32, former Potomac State College, University of Maryland and Pittsburgh Steelers player, has been named head football coach at Bruce High School, it was announced yesterday by Ralph R. Webster, superintendent of Allegany county schools.

Bruce High School is making its football debut this fall and will open its season Saturday, September 15, with North High School of Accident at Westernport.

A native of Brownsville, Pa., Ladygo played under Coach Dana "Horse" Lough at Potomac State and under the late Jim Tatum at the University of Maryland.

The Bruce mentor has been employed at the Luke plant of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company. He attended the University of Maryland this summer to complete requirements for his degree. During his career he was a standout lineman in college and pro lineman.

Tom Harmon and Richard Householder, former Keyser High School gridders, are assisting Ladygo conduct the workouts of the Bruce squad.

In addition to coaching, Ladygo will teach industrial arts at the Westernport school.

Dave Joy Twirls Cards To 7-2 Win, Squaring Series

Dave Joy tossed a 4-hitter and struck out ten in pitching Cardinals to a 7-2 victory over the Indians yesterday at Constitution Park in the second game of the best-of-three series for the Dapper Dan Little League championship.

The victory enabled Manager Jim Ellsworth's Redbirds to square the series at one-all after the Indians had copped the opener on Monday by the score of 4-2.

Today the "rubber" game of the title series is set for 4 p. m., at Constitution Park.

In making his record 7-0 for the season, Joy failed to issue a base on balls.

Ed Hollen of the Cardinals blasted a two-run homer over the fence in right-center in the third inning when the Dapper League champs rallied for four runs to put the game on ice. Dave Coffman rapped a triple and double, Pat Adams collected a three-bagger and single and Walter Davis had a two-bagger.

Ralph Leasure hammered a homer over the right-center fence and also collected a double and single to account for three of the Indians' four safeties.

Manger "Ozzie" Leasure of the Indians was ejected in the 6th inning by the umpire following an argument over an interference play.

Score:

Cardinals	104 110—7	10	2
Indians	101 000—2	4	2

Dave Joy and Walter Davis. Mike Shepherd and C. Rice.
HR—Hollen (Cardinals); R. Leasure (Indians).

Chisox Edge Orioles, 7-6

Mike Hershberger's Homer Wins Game

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Rookie outfielder Mike Hershberger, a defensive replacement in the seventh inning, homered off Hoyt Wilhelm with two out in the ninth inning to break a tie and give the Chicago White Sox a 7-6 victory over the Baltimore Orioles Wednesday night.

Wilhelm was the sixth Orioles' pitcher in a game that saw both managers employ a total of 33 players. Frank Baumann, the fifth White Sox pitcher, received credit for the victory.

In the last of the ninth, Jim Gentile opened with a double and Brooks Robinson got his fourth consecutive hit, a single off Baumann's glove, to advance Gentile to third base. Baumann got Boog Powell to hit into a force out, holding Dave Nicholson, running for Gentile, at third base. Gus Triandos then hit into a game-ending double play, the third Chicago twin-killing started by Luis Aparicio.

The White Sox had taken a 5-1 lead against Baltimore starter Milt Pappas and the Orioles tied it with a run in the fifth inning and three in the sixth, with Triandos' two-run double the big blow.

Phillies Top Los Angeles Dodgers, 5-1

Short Holds League Leaders To 3 Blows

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Southpaw Chris Short pitched a three-hitter as the Philadelphia Phillies beat the National League-leading Los Angeles Dodgers, 5-1 Wednesday night.

The only Dodger run came on a tremendous home run in the seventh by Frank Howard over the left field roof which tied the score at 1-1.

The Phillies broke the tie with a tally in the seventh and then clinched the game with three runs on homers by Johnny Callison and Don Demeter in the eighth.

The loss was the eighth in their last 11 games for the Dodgers, and the win was the 11th in 13 for the seventh-place Phillies.

Orioles And Yankees To Play Five Games

BALTIMORE, Aug. 22 — The Orioles and New York Yankees will meet for the last time this season over the weekend in a big five game series at Memorial Stadium. The set will commence with a twi-night doubleheader Friday, single games Saturday afternoon, Saturday night and Sunday afternoon.

Oriole fans will get an extra opportunity to see the league leading Yankees this season because of the fact that the rained out game in New York on August 9 had to be re-scheduled in Baltimore. This necessitated the doubleheader on Friday, originally a single game date.

The Birds are 6-7 against the Bombers, and have won five of their last seven against them. They will have a good chance to capture the season series. Last year the Birds were the only club that didn't lose the series that won against New York . . . The two teams broke even in 18 decisions.

Seven of the starting players in the Washington All-Star game played American Legion baseball.

FFA Judging Winners Listed

Winners in the 19th annual Future Farmers of America livestock judging contest held yesterday at the Cumberland Fair were anounced by Robert G. Saville, vo-ag teacher at Flintstone High School, and Richard Bishoff, vo-ag teacher at Southern High in Garrett County, who directed the contest.

Allegany County winners were Larry Clingerman, Flintstone; George Mullenax, Oldtown; Dale Burgess, Wesley Gordon, and Junior Teeter, all of Flintstone; and Larry Haines, RD 1, Oldtown.

Garrett County winners were Wayne Shillinburg, Dennis Riley, Larry Canor and Reece Riley, who tied for third place, James Schlosnagle, and Loyal Yoder.

The Flintstone and Oldtown boys competed among themselves and the Garrett County youths among themselves in judging a group of Hampshire sows of the FFA Chapter in Flintstone and a group of Hereford heifers and bulls of the Hetzer farms of Washington County.

Judges who determined the youths "know how" in judging on their own were Mr. Bishoff and Carlton Erst, livestock breeder of Clear Spring.

Lifesaving Class Starts

A combined junior and senior lifesaving course will be offered starting today at the Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club pool, according to Floyd G. Harper, pool chairman.

This course is open to Shriners, Masons, their families and guests. Those interested may register today at 10 a.m. at the pool. The age limit for senior lifesaving is 16 years and over. The junior lifesaving course is for youngsters 12 to 15 years of age.

Classes will meet from 10 a.m. until noon each day except Saturdays, Sundays and holidays.

American Red Cross certificates will be awarded upon completion of the 20-hour course under the instruction of Michael Wanda. This will be the last water course to be offered at the Ali Ghan swimming pool this season.

There will be no charge for instruction but the regular pool admission will be charged those who do not have a family membership card, Mr. Harper said.

The family requests that expressions of sympathy take the form of donations to the Garrett County Memorial Hospital Memorial Fund.

South End Brush Fire Breaks Out

South Cumberland Fire Company was called out early yesterday morning after a stubborn brush fire in the Kentucky-White avenue area broke out again. Firemen worked for almost three hours wetting down the area.

East Side Fire Company went to the rear of the 700 block of Bedford Street early last evening after smoke was reported seen on the hill. Firemen found no trace of the blaze.

Corporation Tax Bills Will Be Mailed Today

The Finance Department of the City of Cumberland expects to place about 200 corporation tax bills in the mails today, according to Frederick J. Hill, finance commissioner.

Payments made on the statements are expected to help the city meet its expenses until the bulk of the tax funds begin rolling in late next month.

Bills for real estate taxes and for individual personal property taxes will not go out until about September 20.

Early billing of corporation taxes is generally welcome, since many firms have set funds aside for the purpose and are anxious to close their books.

orial's patients come from out of state, the hospital for the past five years has charged $1 a day extra for these patients. The money has gone into a reserve fund, $100,000 of which the hospital plans to put into the modernization program.

The hospital plans to spend a total of $111,403 from its capital reserves, and will ask the city and the county each to contribute $500,000. The remaining $555,701 is to come from federal Hill-Burton Act funds.

Yesterday's visitors were divided into three tour groups, conducted by Misses Jo Ann Hafer, Shirley Simmons and Jean Miller, graduate nurses.

Top Winners Announced In Fair's Flower Show

Top winners in the annual flower show now in progress in the Jockey Club at the Cumberland Fair were announced yesterday afternoon by Mrs. Martin M. Gordon, chief clerk of the Cumberland Fair Association.

They include Mrs. Guy Bradour, 1414 Bedford Street; Mrs. Robert Hortsman, RD 4, city; Mrs. Bernard E. Sitter, 832 Columbia Avenue; Mrs. Lewis Connor, Eckhart; Mr. and Mrs. Ray Lakin, LaVale; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Gaglian, of LaVale; Mrs. E. G. Heavner, 449 McMullen Highway; and Helen Urbas, Frostburg.

In flower arrangements, Mrs. Bradour was named first place winner in the dining table arrangement. Mrs. Robert L. Ebert, city, was second place winner and Mrs. Hortsman, third.

In the junior class toy arrangements, Virginia Ewing, Frostburg, and Connie Kamp, Grantsville, placed first and second.

In the junior class song title arrangement, Andrew Bowden, Lonaconing, Linda Bower, Ridgeley, and Barbara Greise, Valley Road, placed first, second and third respectively.

Linda Bower, Ridgeley, and Marianna Wollard, RD 3, Keyser, placed first and second in the junior class dish garden competition.

Nix Promoted

for the Celanese Corporation of America. He will be located in New York and will coordinate labor relations activities at all domestic plants of the division companies of Celanese.

A native of Georgia, where he was employed at the company's Rome plant for 22 years, Nix transferred to Cumberland in April, 1955, as assistant personnel manager and was promoted to his present position in May, 1956. During his tenure at Amcelle, the plant's technical recruiting, training and personnel development programs have been extremely active. This has enabled the plant to effect promotions to other Celanese locations for more than 40 Amcelle staff members.

Among employe activities Mr. Nix has assisted in organizing are the Amcelle Employes Charity Fund, the Amcelle Employes Credit Union and a plant Red Cross blood program. Jointly sponsored by the company and Local 1874, TWUA, these groups have enjoyed active support by Amcelle employes since their inception.

Through the Charity Fund, employes have contributed over $100,000 since 1958 to Cumberland and area charitable, health and welfare organizations.

Active In Community

Mr. Nix also has been active in community and civic affairs since coming to Cumberland. He has served as advisory board member of the Salvation Army, member of the legislative committee of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce, member of the board of directors of County United Fund, and the board of directors of the Cancer Society. He is a member of First Presbyterian Church and has served as member and secretary of its board of trustees.

Mr. Nix and his wife expect to move to the New York area in early October. Their daughter, Mary Edwina, will enroll at Sullins College, Bristol, Va., next month.

Kasko's Grand Slammer In Tenth Wins For Cincinnati, 9-5

Jay Cops 19th Over Cubs On Eddie's Belt

Foiles Hits 3-Run Homer In 7th; 42 Players Are Used

CHICAGO (UPI)—Eddie Kasko powered the Cincinnati Reds to a 9-5 victory over the Chicago Cubs Wednesday with a grand slam home run in the 10th inning to climax a game in which 42 players were used.

Kasko's blow, his second home run of the season, broke a 5-5 tie existing since the Reds' seventh. It came off rookie reliever Dave Gerard, fifth Cub pitcher, after the Reds had loaded the bases on Bob Anderson with Vada Pinson's single, and consecutive walks to Frank Robinson and Jerry Lynch.

Kasko's drive landed in the left field bleachers and gave the pitching victory to Joey Jay, last of six Cincinnati pitchers, who worked only two innings to boost his record to 19-10.

The Reds used 22 players, including five pinchhitters and two sub-runners in addition to five relief pitchers. Twenty Cubs saw action in the 4 hour 25 minute game.

The Cubs jumped on Jim O'Toole for two runs in the first inning and three more in the sixth when the Red starter needed help from Bill Henry and Jim Brosnan.

The Reds created the deadlock in the seventh inning when pinch-hitter Hank Foiles touched off a four-run rally with a three-run homer.

DEAN OF GRID COACHES — Frederick "Tack" Clark is shown as he begins his 24th year as football coach. The one-time Allegany High School athlete is starting his 20th season as grid mentor at Keyser High School where his teams have won 137, lost 55 and played five ties over 19 seasons. Prior to taking over the reins at Keyser, Clark coached at Moorefield High School where his Yellowjackets won 29, lost 8 and played two ties in four seasons. "Tack's" overall record for 23 years is 166-63-7.

John Havlicek Hopes To Play With Celtics

Cleveland Browns Drop Buckeye Star

By BARRY DAVIS

HIRAM, Ohio (AP)—John Havlicek, dropped by the Cleveland Browns of the National Football League, plans to return to the sport that made him an Ohio State hero—probably with Boston of the National Basketball Association.

The 6-foot-5, 210-pound former forward, who with Jerry Lucas helped Ohio State reach basketball heights the past three years, was cut from the Browns' roster Wednesday. He hadn't played football since high school, when he was a star quarterback. The Browns had hoped he could make it as a flanker.

The Browns also cut rookie tackle Ed Stute of Ohio U. and end Ron Myers of Villanova.

The Browns' seventh draft choice this year, Havlicek also was drafted by Boston of the NBA and Cleveland of the rival American Basketball League, and he had baseball offers from the Cleveland Indians, New York Yankees, Pittsburgh and Philadelphia.

"I consider Boston the New York Yankees of basketball," said Havlicek, who was the Celtics' No. 1 draft choice. He said he would have liked to play with Lucas professionally but "wasn't too sure of the American Basketball League."

Dick Donovan Chalks Up 16th Victory Of Season

Cleveland Hurler Beats Tigers, 7-3

DETROIT (UPI) — Al Luplow's two-run triple in the eighth inning Wednesday helped make Dick Donovan a 16-game winner as the Cleveland Indians whipped Detroit, 7-3.

Donovan broke a 3-3 tie and scored the winning run after collecting his third single of the game. He was followed home by Willie Tasby on Luplow's clout between the outfielders. Dick McAuliffe's bobble of Tasby's apparent double-play bouncer with one out in the inning set up the side's winning rally off loser Don Mossi, the third of six Tiger pitchers.

The Indians added two insurance runs in the ninth off reliefer Paul Foytack. Bubba Phillips doubled, Gary Bell singled him home and Jerry Kindall scored on Al Kaline's throwing error.

Donovan ran his record to 16-7 to equal his major league victory high, although he tired in the eighth and needed help from Sam McDowell and Bell.

Vic Wertz' third pinch homer of the season had tied the score at 3-3 for Detroit.

Hubbs Signs 1963 Pact

Infielder Breaks Two N.L. Records

CHICAGO (UPI)—Ken Hubbs, rookie second baseman, who has broken two National League fielding records, has signed his 1963 contract at a "nice increase" in salary, the Chicago Cubs said Wednesday.

Hubbs also signed a new contract for the remainder of the current season. This also included a pay boost, a Cubs spokesman said.

Hubbs, 20, Colton, Calif., has played in 64 consecutive games without an error. During the span, he has handled 349 chances. Both are league records for second basemen formerly held by Al Schoendienst.

The major league record is 73 games and 414 consecutive chances, both established by Bobby Doerr of the Boston Red Sox in 1948.

Tom Sturdivant Pitches Buccos To 3-0 Victory

Skinner's Two Run Triple Beats Colts

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Bob Skinner's two-run triple backed a 3-hitter by knuckleballer Tom Sturdivant Wednesday night as the Pittsburgh Pirates eliminated the Houston Colts from the National League pennant race with a 3-0 victory.

The loss was the 81st of the year—and sixth in a row—for the Colts. They have won 45.

Sturdivant won his sixth game against three losses and had a no-hitter for 4 1-3 innings before Hal Smith singled to left. Al Spangler's two-out single in the sixth and Bob Lillis' leadoff double in the ninth were the only other blows off the one-time New York Yankee star.

Skinner's triple in the third inning came after Don Hoak and Dick Groat singled. Bob Clemente followed with a sacrifice fly to score Skinner.

Brelsford Wins, 7-0

Posts 12th Shutout Over Corriganville

Hyndman took a 2-0 lead in the County Softball League's best-of-five final playoff series by blanking Corriganville yesterday at the latter place by the score of 7-0 on a four hitter by Junior Brelsford, who recorded his twelfth shutout of the season and his 28th victory.

"Pep" May and Harry Widdows sparked the Stahlman Texaco sponsored Hyndman team at the plate with three hits each. May smashed a homer, triple and double while Widdows garnered a three-bagger and two singles. Dick Emerick collected two safeties.

Corriganville, which lost the opener of the series by the score of 1-0 on Monday, was held to four singles.

The third game of the series is scheduled for Friday at 6 p.m., at Hyndman.

Tom Gracie Wins Maplehurst Event

Tom Gracie won the Throw Out Tournament held yesterday by the Men's Golf Association at the Maplehurst Country Club with a score of 27-5—22.

Golfers threw out their three worst holes in the nine-hole test. Four players tied for second place, namely, Al Via 29-6—23, Joe Bolt 28-5—23, Paul Moulden 29-6—23, and H. V. King 43-20—23.

Paul Molden was closest to the pin on No. 4 and Jake Michaels was closest to the pin on No. 7.

Thirty-five members participated.

Members planning to play in the annual fall championship tournament are requested to register at the pro shop. The tourney will get under way about September 1.

Kiwanis, Outdoor Club Reach Hot Stove Finals

B'nai B'rith Loses, 6-3, Salvation Army Is Nosed Out, 2-1

The Kiwanis Club and the Outdoor Club marched in the playoff finals of the Hot Stove League by eliminating B'nai B'rith and the Salvation Army in a doubleheader Wednesday at Penn Avenue Field.

In the first game, Bert Lawler's Kiwanians made it two straight over B'nai B'rith to the tune of 6-3 while in the nightcap Ray Goodrich's Outdoor Club tossers extended their victory string to ten games by copping their second in a row from the Salvation Army, 2-1.

Outdoor Club and Kiwanis will meet in the first game of the final playoff series Monday at 6 p. m. at Penn Avenue Field.

Ronnie Klingler was the pitching and batting star in the Kiwanis Club's triumph. He fired a two-hitter at B'nai B'rith, whiffed 11 to make his season record 5-0 and contributed to key blows to the winning cause. In the 4th inning his circuit belt climaxed a 3-run rally that knotted the score at 3-3 and in the 6th frame his triple broke a 3-3 deadlock and started the Kiwanians on the way to another 3-run splurge. Jerry Becker also had two hits for the victors.

Mike Wilt, losing pitcher, who was supplanted by Bill Reed in the 6th, struck out eight.

Fred Barbero, B'nai B'rith second sacker, accounted for his team's two hits. He smacked a first inning single and belted a two-run homer in the second frame.

Gus Caporale's two run wallop in the first inning was all that the Outdoor Club needed to win the nightcap affair. Gus' blow proved to be the winning one but he was called out for failing to touch second base.

One of the three hits yielded by Ralph Miller, Outdoor Club pitcher, was a three-base belt by "Rip" Coulehan. Miller struck out eight in recording his fifth win of the season. Lefty Larry Wolfe went the distance for the Salvation Army, gave up four hits and whiffed a total of ten.

Woody Dodrill, Outdoor's second sacker, and Terry Deremer, Salvation Army's shortstop, were the fielding stars.

Giants Lose To Mets, 5-4

Single By Neal In 8th Decides

NEW YORK (UPI) — Charlie Neal singled off $150,000 bonus pitcher Bob Garibaldi to drive in an eighth inning unearned run Wednesday night and give the New York Mets a 5-4 victory over the San Francisco Giants.

Despite the loss, the second-place Giants remained 3½ games behind the league - leading Los Angeles Dodgers and six ahead of the Philadelphia Phillies.

Garibaldi, who had retired 13 consecutive Mets in his previous appearances against them, was brought out of the bullpen after second baseman Chuck Hiller's error and a walk to Richie Ashburn put New York players on first and second with none out.

Neal promptly drilled a line single to center that delivered pinch runner Joe Christopher with the decisive run and tagged Don Larsen with his fourth loss. Larsen faced only two batters in the eighth inning after replacing Jack Sanford.

Lonaconing Pirates Cop Title In Little Loop, Post 14-0 Mark

The Pirates, managed by Scotty Orr and "Jumbo" Moffatt, won the championship of the Lonaconing Little League yesterday by scoring their second straight victory over the Dodgers in the playoffs by the score of 7-0.

The Pirates won the opener on Monday by the score of 12-1.

Jimmie Love and Jimmie Crawford limited the Dodgers to four hits in yesterday's game. Love hurled five innings, fanned eight, received credit for the win, his 10th of the season, collected three hits in four official trips and sparkled in the field. "Butch" Rankin collected two hits for the victors.

Wayne Shockey had a perfect day at the plate for the Dodgers with three-for-three.

Buffalo Appeals Prexy's Decision

NEW YORK (AP)—The Buffalo Bisons of the International Baseball League appealed Wednesday against a decision of the loop's president in forfeiting three Buffalo games for use of an ineligible player. The appeal will be heard next Monday.

Thomas H. Richardson, league president, awarded two victories to the Richmond Vees and one to the Columbus Jets Tuesday, and added three defeats to the Buffalo record.

The Columbus club protested that Lee Elia, Bisons infielder, had played in violation of the league's player limit regulation.

Minoso Has Cracked Bone In His Forearm

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — Cardinal outfielder Minnie Minoso is out of action, probably for the remainder of the season, with a cracked bone in his left forearm, Cardinal officials announced Wednesday.

Minoso was injured Sunday when he was hit by a pitched ball in a game with the New York Mets.

Minoso returned to action July 28, after suffering a skull fracture and a broken wrist in a game with the Los Angeles Dodgers here May 11.

In that accident, he was trying to pick up a line drive off the bat of Duke Snyder when he crashed into the outfield fence.

SPORTS SPUTTERINGS

By Walter L. Johns, Central Press Sports Editor

QUICK AS YOU CAN SAY "Frank Robinson," the Reds are back in the N.L. pennant fight.

It was just a year ago, in mid-August, that the Redlegs went into a Los Angeles series, trailing the Dodgers by two games in a see-saw N.L. race.

The Reds knocked off the Dodgers in the first game of the Series and then took the league lead when they dumped the Los Angeles club in a doubleheader, shutting out the Dodgers in both games.

By September 26 is was all over. The Reds had cinched the pennant.

THIS SEASON the Reds floundered for months but with Frank Robinson leading the way they have started to move again. At this writing they are still several lengths behind but there are still three dozen games to go.

It could be done, with Robbie leading the way with his terrific blasting which now has shoved him into the top rung in all offense departments. Robinson has a chance to win the batting title, the RBI crown, home run honors and could repeat as the Most Valuable Player in the N.L.

The Reds have nine games still to be played against the Dodgers and Giants, and wind up activities against Pittsburgh and Philadelphia. The Dodgers finish with the Cards, who always are a tough team in late season. The Giants finish the schedule with the Cards and Houston.

FOR SEVERAL YEARS the National League has provided most of the late season fireworks as the battle for the title generally went down to the last games of the season.

It appeared that the American League would steal some of that thunder this year but the Yanks moved out a bit and while they haven't been able to make a run-away they hold a comfortable enough lead—for the Yanks—with five weeks to go.

Actually, all three contending clubs in the senior circuit, the Dodgers, Giants and Reds, are playing better ball than the Yanks, percentage-wise, but the payoff is the same.

The Reds won their flag last year with a .604 percentage and the current club is playing ball at a better rate than that.

BACK IN 1939 the Reds won the pennant and repeated the next year, 1940. The club had to wait until last year for the next flag and it could be they'll come through again.

Steve Johnson's 73 Trails By Four Strokes In Jaycee Tourney

Californian Leads With 69 At Huntington

Maryland Champion Kent Kittle Comes In Second With 71

Stephen L. "Steve" Johnson, youthful golf star of the Cumberland Country Club, posted a 33-39—73 to finish only four strokes behind the leader at the end of the first 18 holes of the International Jaycee Junior Golf Tournament yesterday at the Spring Valley Country Club course at Huntington, W. Va.

Kent Kittle, Maryland champion, came in second to James Wiechers, of California, the first day's leader, by carding a 71.

HUNTINGTON, W. Va. (UPI)—James Weichers, Atherton, Calif., continued his domination of the tight and tricky Spring Valley Country Club course Wednesday as he shot a one-under par 69 to take the first round lead in the International Jaycee Junior golf tournament.

Weichers, 17, was the only one of the 103 entries to break par as the fast greens and easy rolling fairways provided for some tricky going.

The youngsters displayed a little bit of everything in the opening round marathon, including a hole-in-one and one golfer took a 19 on one hole.

Mike Bush of Missouri shot the ace, canning a nine iron shot off the tee on the par-3, 123 yard 14th hole. He finished with an 82.

Kent Kittle of Maryland followed Weichers with a 71 and six players shot 72s.

They are Harry Heard, California, Wayne Downey, Alabama, John Hogden, Wisconsin, William Raings, Illinois, Dick Orr, Oklahoma and David Holcomb of Texas.

A total of 203 golfers from 48 states, the District of Columbia, Panama, Japan and Puerto Rico are entered in the tournament which was won last year by Jay Sigel of Narbeth, Pa.

After the first 36 holes, the field will be trimmed to the low 100 with the rest of the golfers competing in a "class B" tournament at the nearby Riviera Country club.

Midland Belts Zihlman, 24-3

Westernport Downs Lonaconing, 3-1

Midland broke the tie for first place with Keyser in the Twilight Baseball League by clobbering Zihlman yesterday by the score of 24-3 at Midland in a game shortened to five innings by mutual agreement.

The win gave the Old Exports a 20-7 record. Keyser has won 19 and lost 7.

Fay Often sparked the Midland swatsmiths with five hits in six trips, including a three-base wallop. "Moose" Arnone hit a grand slam homer and two singles and Bobby Mundeno garnered four safeties in five times at bat.

Paul "Bubbles" Thompson was the winning pitcher, scattering six hits.

"Butch" Smith had three hits for Zihlman, including a round-tripper. Deffenbaugh also homered.

Joe Niland turned in a 2-hit performance as Westernport downed Lonaconing at Westernport by the score of 3-1.

Billy "Gas House" Johnson and Dick Wilson collected two hits each for Manager John "Lefty" Martin's team which posted its 15th win against 10 losses and clung to fourth place. 'Coney was limited to four singles.

Sports Shoppe Evens Series

Tops Old Exports In Second Game, 8-5

Rallying for six runs in the fifth inning, the Sports Shoppe came from behind to defeat the Old Exports yesterday at Post Field by the score of 8-5 and evened up their Rec Softball League semi-final playoff series at one win each.

Six walks coupled with three hits, a sacrifice fly, hit batsman and fielder's choice produced the Sports Shoppe's six tallies in the big fifth frame.

Tom McLuckie went all the way for the winning team and yielded six hits. Gene Hess, who relieved Neil Toey in the fifth inning, was tagged with the loss. The Old Exports outhit the opposition, 10 to 6. Dick Peck rapped a double and single and "Dump" Younger and Jimmie Seeders also had two blows each. Manager Bill Briner and Smith obtained two hits each for the Sports Shoppe while Jimmie Hamilton sparkled in right field with several nice running catches.

Final game of the best-of-three series will be staged Friday at 6 p.m., at Naval Reserve Field.

Mexico, California Teams Are Little League Winners

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa. (UPI) — San Jose, Calif., setting one slugging record and tying another, and Monterrey, Mexico, nosing out a Japanese team, gained victories Wednesday to reach the semifinals of the Little League World Series.

San Jose, blasting four homers among its 19 hits, trampled Poitiers, France, 22-2, in the opening game. The display of power established a new mark for total runs in the 16-year history of the classic and tied the homer output of Camp Hill, Pa., against little Rock, Ark., in 1953.

During the first half National League pennant race, the Los Angeles Dodgers enjoyed the best winning streak—13 games.

Pete Ladygo Named Bruce Grid Coach

Starred As Lineman With Terps, Steelers

Peter Glenn "Pete" Ladygo, 32, former Potomac State College, University of Maryland and Pittsburgh Steelers player, has been named head football coach at Bruce High School, it was announced yesterday by Ralph R. Webster, superintendent of Allegany county schools.

Bruce High School is making its football debut this fall and will open its season Saturday, September 15, with North High School of Accident at Westernport.

A native of Brownsville, Pa., Ladygo played under Coach Dana "Horse" Lough at Potomac State and under the late Jim Tatum at the University of Maryland.

The Bruce mentor has been employed at the Luke plant of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company. He attended the University of Maryland this summer to complete requirements for his degree. During his career he was a standout lineman in college and pro lineman.

Tom Harmon and Richard Householder, former Keyser High School gridders, are assisting Ladygo conduct the workouts of the Bruce squad.

In addition to coaching, Ladygo will teach industrial arts at the Westernport school.

Dave Joy Twirls Cards To 7-2 Win, Squaring Series

Dave Joy tossed a 4-hitter and struck out ten in pitching Cardinals to a 7-2 victory over the Indians yesterday at Constitution Park in the second game of the best-of-three series for the Dapper Dan Little League championship.

The victory enabled Manager Jim Ellsworth's Redbirds to square the series at one-all after the Indians had copped the opener on Monday by the score of 4-2.

Today the "rubber" game of the title series is set for 4 p. m., at Constitution Park.

In making his record 7-0 for the season, Joy failed to issue a base on balls.

Ed Hollen of the Cardinals blasted a two-run homer over the fence in right-center in the third inning when the Dapper League champs rallied for four runs to put the game on ice. Dave Coffman rapped a triple and double, Pat Adams collected a three-bagger and single and Walter Davis had a two-bagger.

Ralph Leasure hammered a homer over the right-center fence and also collected a double and single to account for three of the Indians' four safeties.

Manger "Ozzie" Leasure of the Indians was ejected in the 6th inning by the umpire following an argument over an interference play.

Mike Hershberger's Homer Wins Game

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Rookie outfielder Mike Hershberger, a defensive replacement in the seventh inning, homered off Hoyt Wilhelm with two out in the ninth inning to break a tie and give the Chicago White Sox a 7-6 victory over the Baltimore Orioles Wednesday night.

Wilhelm was the sixth Orioles' pitcher in a game that saw both managers employ a total of 33 players. Frank Baumann, the fifth White Sox pitcher, received credit for the victory.

In the last of the ninth, Jim Gentile opened with a double and Brooks Robinson got his fourth consecutive hit, a single off Baumann's glove, to advance Gentile to third base. Baumann got Boog Powell to hit into a force out, holding Dave Nicholson, running for Gentile, at third base. Gus Triandos then hit into a game-ending double play, the third Chicago twin-killing started by Luis Aparicio.

The White Sox had taken a 5-1 lead against Baltimore starter Milt Pappas and the Orioles tied it with a run in the fifth inning and three in the sixth, with Triandos' two-run double the big blow.

Phillies Top Los Angeles Dodgers, 5-1

Short Holds League Leaders To 3 Blows

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Southpaw Chris Short pitched a three-hitter as the Philadelphia Phillies beat the National League-leading Los Angeles Dodgers, 5-1 Wednesday night.

The only Dodger run came on a tremendous home run in the seventh by Frank Howard over the left field roof which tied the score at 1-1.

The Phillies broke the tie with a tally in the seventh and then clinched the game with three runs on homers by Johnny Callison and Don Demeter in the eighth.

The loss was the eighth in their last 11 games for the Dodgers, and the win was the 11th in 13 for the seventh-place Phillies.

Orioles And Yankees To Play Five Games

BALTIMORE, Aug. 22 — The Orioles and New York Yankees will meet for the last time this season over the weekend in a big five game series at Memorial Stadium. The set will commence with a twi-night doubleheader Friday, single games Saturday afternoon, Saturday night and Sunday afternoon.

Oriole fans will get an extra opportunity to see the league leading Yankees this season because of the fact that the rained out game in New York on August 9 had to be re-scheduled in Baltimore. This necessitated the doubleheader on Friday, originally a single game date.

The Birds are 6-7 against the Bombers, and have won five of their last seven against them. They will have a good chance to capture the season series. Last year the Birds were the only club that didn't lose more than they won against New York . . . The two teams broke even in 18 decisions.

Seven of the starting players in the Washington All-Star game played American Legion baseball.

Affectionately And Kelso Win Saratoga Races

Former Beats 35-1 Shot In Spinaway

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Aug. 22 — Ethel D. Jacobs' Affectionately, undisputed 2-year-old filly queen, and Bohemia Stable's Kelso, horse of the year in 1960-'61, shared the honors before a crowd of 14,804 in delightful weather today. Both odds-on choices ran fully to expectations, as Affectionately accounted for the 71st running of the $50,000 added Spinaway and Kelso celebrated his comeback with a victory in an overnight event on the grass course.

Affectionately, leading all the way, was under extreme pressure to beat Nalee, a 35 to 1 shot, by a length and a quarter in 1:10 2/5 for the 6 furlongs, a stakes record at the Spa. Third in the field of nine was Rare Exchange, 2½ lengths farther away. Fashion Verdict was fourth.

Affectionately, winner of 9 of 10 races, earned $51,821 from the gross purse of $79,725. It increased her total to $194,231. She paid $2.60. Kelso paid $2.50, shortest price at the meeting. Ismael Valenzuela rode both, and had two other winners early in the day. Willie Shoemaker was unavailable for Kelso. Valenzuela won the 1961 Spinaway on Cicada.

Nalee, winner of Delaware's Blue Hen, gave chase to Affectionately all the way. She loomed a threat from the eighth pole home, only to weaken in the closing strides. Affectionately was whipped by Valenzuela several times.

Kelso's victory was achieved with decisiveness although Valenzuela went from a pull to a drive on him in the last sixteenth. He then prevailed by a length and a half from Call The Witness in 1:41 4/5, only 3/5 of a second slower than the track record for a mile and a sixteenth on turf. Fountain Hill was third in the field of seven.

Kelso is pointing for another meeting with Carry Back and Beau Purple in the Aqueduct on Labor Day. He has won 2 of 5 starts this year, No stakes.

Three Jockeys Are Suspended At Timonium

Set Down Ten Days, Weakley Fined $25

TIMONIUM, Md. (AP) — Three jockeys were handed 10-day suspensions Wednesday after the stewards of Timonium Race Track viewed the films of Tuesday's and Wednesday's races.

A fourth jockey, Linwood Weakley, was fined $25 for failing to fulfill a riding engagement on today's program.

Weakley was scheduled to ride Sugar Loch in the fifth race but called and notified track officials he could not fulfill the assignment. The stewards said Weakley had a weak excuse for not being present.

Jockeys Carlos Gonzalez, Emanuel Addesa and Mason Gordon received the suspensions.

Gonzalez was disciplined for allowing his mount, Sagitate, to impede several other horses in Tuesday's seventh race.

Addesa, who won three races Wednesday, was suspended for careless riding in Tuesday's second race. His mount was Dexalert.

Gordon was accused of abusing his mount, Another Char, prior to the running of Tuesday's seventh race. The stewards said Gordon had been warned and fined on the same charge several times in the past.

The suspensions begin with Thursday's program.

Jaipur Tops 3-Year-Olds

NEW YORK (UPI) —Jaipur, victor over Ridan by a nose in last Saturday's Travers Stakes at Saratoga, continued to enjoy a much more comfortable margin Wednesday over his rival in the race for this year's 3-year-old honors.

The latest weekly poll conducted by the Thoroughbred Racing Association among its racing secretaries showed Jaipur with 339 points to 231 for Ridan. Admiral's Voyage was third in the voting announced Wednesday with 71 points.

Kelso, the 1960 and 1961 "horse of the year," was still on top among the older male horses although he has yet to win a stakes race in 1962. The gelding received 307 votes to remain ahead of Carry Back, with 280, and Prove It, with 39.

Kasko's Grand Slammer In Tenth Wins For Cincinnati, 9-5

Foiles Hits 3-Run Homer In 7th; 42 Players Are Used

CHICAGO (UPI) —Eddie Kasko powered the Cincinnati Reds to a 9-5 victory over the Chicago Cubs Wednesday with a grand slam home run in the 10th inning to climax a game in which 42 players were used.

Kasko's blow, his second home run of the season, broke a 5-5 tie existing since the Reds' seventh. It came off rookie reliever Dave Gerard, fifth Cub pitcher, after the Reds had loaded the bases on Bob Anderson with Vada Pinson's single, and consecutive walks to Frank Robinson and Jerry Lynch.

Kasko's drive landed in the left field bleachers and gave the pitching victory to Joey Jay, last of six Cincinnati pitchers, who worked only two innings to boost his record to 19-10.

The Reds used 22 players, including five pinchhitters and two sub-runners in addition to five relief pitchers. Twenty Cubs saw action in the 4 hour 25 minute game.

The Cubs jumped on Jim O'Toole for two runs in the first inning and three more in the sixth when the Red starter needed help from Bill Henry and Jim Brosnan.

The Reds created the deadlock in the seventh inning when pinch-hitter Hank Foiles touched off a four-run rally with a three-run homer.

Shuffleboard League To Elect Officers

FROSTBURG —Frostburg City Shuffleboard League will meet Friday at 8:30 p.m. in the American Legion Home.

An election of officers will be held. Any new team desiring to affiliate with the local group is asked to have representatives at this meeting.

Kiwanis, Outdoor Club Reach Hot Stove Finals

B'nai B'rith Loses, 6-3, Salvation Army Is Nosed Out, 2-1

The Kiwanis Club and the Outdoor Club marched in the playoff finals of the Hot Stove League by eliminating B'nai B'rith and the Salvation Army in a doubleheader Wednesday at Penn Avenue Field.

In the first game, Bert Lawler's Kiwanians made it two straight over B'nai B'rith to the tune of 6-3 while in the nightcap Ray Goodrich's Outdoor Club tossers extended their victory string to ten games by copping their second in a row from the Salvation Army, 2-1.

Outdoor Club and Kiwanis will meet in the first game of the final playoff series Monday at 6 p. m., at Penn Avenue Field.

Ronnie Klingler was the pitching and batting star in the Kiwanis Club's triumph. He fired a two-hitter at B'nai B'rith, whiffed 11 to make his season record 5-0 and contributed to key blows to the winning cause. In the 4th inning his circuit belt climaxed a 3-run rally that knotted the score at 3-3 and in the 6th frame his triple broke a 3-3 deadlock and started the Kiwanians on the way to another 3-run splurge. Jerry Becker also had two hits for the victors.

Mike Wilt, losing pitcher, who was supplanted by Bill Reed in the 6th, struck out eight.

Fred Barbero, B'nai B'rith second sacker, accounted for his team's two hits. He smacked a first inning single and belted a two-run homer in the second frame.

Gus Caporale's two run wallop in the first inning was all that the Outdoor Club needed to win the nightcap affair. Gus' blow proved to be the winning one but he was called out for failing to touch second base.

One of the three hits yielded by Ralph Miller, Outdoor Club pitcher, was a three-base belt by "Rip" Coulehan. Miller struck out eight in recording his fifth win of the season. Lefty Larry Wolfe went the distance for the Salvation Army, gave up four hits and whiffed a total of ten.

Woody Dodrill, Outdoor's second sacker, and Terry Deremer, Salvation Army's shortstop, were the fielding stars.

Minoso Has Cracked Bone In His Forearm

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — Cardinal outfielder Minnie Minoso is out of action, probably for the remainder of the season, with a cracked bone in his left forearm, Cardinal officials announced Wednesday.

Minoso was injured Sunday when he was hit by a pitched ball in a game with the New York Mets.

Minoso returned to action July 28, after suffering a skull fracture and a broken wrist in a game with the Los Angeles Dodgers here May 11.

In that accident, he was trying to pick up a line drive off the bat of Duke Snyder when he crashed into the outfield fence.

SPORTS SPUTTERINGS

By Walter L. Johns, Central Press Sports Editor

QUICK AS YOU CAN SAY "Frank Robinson," the Reds are back in the N. L. pennant fight.

It was just a year ago, in mid-August, that the Redlegs went into a Los Angeles series, trailing the Dodgers by two games in a see-saw N. L. race.

The Reds knocked off the Dodgers in the first game of the Series and then took the league lead when they dumped the Los Angeles club in a doubleheader, shutting out the Dodgers in both games.

By September 26 is was all over. The Reds had cinched the pennant.

THIS SEASON the Reds floundered for months but with Frank Robinson leading the way they have started to move again. At this writing they are still several lengths behind but there are still three dozen games to play.

It could be done, with Robbie leading the way with his terrific blasting which now has shoved him into the top rung in all offense departments. Robinson has a chance to win the batting title, the RBI crown, home run honors and could repeat as the Most Valuable Player in the N. L.

The Reds have nine games still to be played against the Dodgers and Giants, and wind up activities against Pittsburgh and Philadelphia. The Dodgers finish with the Cards, who always are rough in late season. The Giants finish the schedule with the Cards and Houston.

FOR SEVERAL YEARS the National League has provided most of the late season fireworks as the battle for the title generally went down to the last games of the season.

It appeared that the American League would steal some of that thunder this year but the Yanks moved out a bit and while they haven't done any run-away they hold a comfortable enough lead—for the Yanks—with five weeks to go.

Actually, all three contending clubs in the senior circuit, the Dodgers, Giants and Reds, are playing better ball than the Yanks, percentage-wise, but the payoff is the same.

The Reds won their flag last year with a .604 percentage, and the current club is playing ball at a better rate than that.

John Havlicek Hopes To Play With Celtics

Cleveland Browns Drop Buckeye Star

By BARRY DAVIS

HIRAM, Ohio (AP)—John Havlicek, dropped by the Cleveland Browns of the National Football League, plans to return to the sport that made him an Ohio State hero—probably with Boston of the National Basketball Association.

The 6-foot-5, 210-pound former forward, who with Jerry Lucas helped Ohio State reach basketball heights the past three years, was cut from the Browns' roster Wednesday. He hadn't played football since high school, when he was a star quarterback. The Browns had hoped he could make it as a flanker.

The Browns also cut rookie tackle Ed Stute of Ohio U. and end Ron Myers of Villanova.

The Browns' seventh draft choice this year, Havlicek also was drafted by Boston of the NBA and Cleveland of the rival American Basketball League, and had baseball offers from the Cleveland Indians, New York Yankees, Pittsburgh and Philadelphia.

"I consider Boston the New York Yankees of basketball," said Havlicek, who was the Celtics' No. 1 draft choice. He said he would have liked to play with Lucas professionally but "wasn't too sure of the American Basketball League."

Giants Lose To Mets, 5-4

Single By Neal In 8th Decides

NEW YORK (UPI) — Charlie Neal singled off $150,000 bonus pitcher Bob Garibaldi to drive in an eighth inning unearned run Wednesday night and give the New York Mets a 5-4 victory over the San Francisco Giants.

Despite the loss, the second-place Giants remained 3½ games behind the league-leading Los Angeles Dodgers, who lost to the Philadelphia Phillies.

Garibaldi, who had retired 13 consecutive Mets in his previous appearances against them, was brought out of the bullpen after second baseman Chuck Hiller's error and a walk to Richie Ashburn put New York players on first and second with none out.

Neal promptly drilled a line single to center that delivered pinch runner Joe Christopher with the decisive run and tagged Don Larsen with his fourth loss. Larsen faced only two batters in the eighth inning after replacing Jack Sanford.

Dick Donovan Chalks Up 16th Victory Of Season

Cleveland Hurler Beats Tigers, 7-3

DETROIT (UPI) — Al Luplow's two-run triple in the eighth inning Wednesday helped make Dick Donovan a 16-game winner as the Cleveland Indians whipped Detroit, 7-3.

Donovan broke a 3-3 tie and scored the winning run after collecting his third single of the game. He was followed home by Willie Tasby on Luplow's clout between the outfielders. Dick McAuliffe's bobble of Tasby's apparent double-play bouncer with one out in the inning set up the side's winning rally off loser Don Mossi, the third of six Tiger pitchers.

The Indians added two insurance runs in the ninth off reliefer Paul Foytack. Bubba Phillips doubled, Gary Bell singled him home and Jerry Kindall scored on Al Kaline's throwing error.

Donovan ran his record to 16-7 to equal his major league victory high, although he tired in the eighth and needed help from Sam McDowell and Bell.

Vic Wertz' third pinch homer of the season had tied the score at 3-3 for Detroit.

Hubbs Signs 1963 Pact

Infielder Breaks Two N.L. Records

CHICAGO (UPI)—Ken Hubbs, rookie second baseman, who has broken two National League fielding records, has signed his 1963 contract at a "nice increase" in salary, the Chicago Cubs said Wednesday.

Hubbs also signed a new contract for the remainder of the current season. This also included a pay boost, a Cubs spokesman said.

Hubbs, 20, Colton, Calif., has played in 64 consecutive games without an error. During the span, he has handled 349 chances. Both are league records for second basemen formerly held by Al Schoendienst.

The major league record is 73 games and 414 consecutive chances, both established by Bobby Doerr of the Boston Red Sox in 1948.

East Edges West In Kelly League All-Star Tilt, 6-5

The East defeated the West by the score of 6-5 yesterday at East Side Field in the Kelly-Springfield Softball League's all-star game, limited to eight innings on account of darkness.

The winners were outhit 16 to 8. Jack Ritchie of Shipping was the winning pitcher and Ben Miller of the Tire Room took the loss.

For the East, Ed Weaver, of Shipping socked a homer, Todd Cuthbertson of Curing Room and Kallmeyer of Receiving had two hits each. Charley Crabtree of 51-A and John Chaney of the Office paced the West with three blows each. One of Chaney's blows was a homer while Crabtree smacked a two-bagger. Steckman of 51-A and Schwab of the Office collected two hits each.

The East team was composed of players from the Curing Room, Shipping and Receiving. The West team comprised tossers of 51-A, the Office and Tire Room.

Office and 51-A will launch the league's playoffs Monday at 6 p. m., at Greenpoint Field.

The score:

East .... 311 000 10—6 8 1

East—Jack Ritchie, Shipping, and Bob Horn (Shipping). West—Ben Miller, Tire Room; John Horn, Office (6) and Campbell, Tire Room; Don Decker, 51-A (6).
Loser—Miller.

Lonaconing Pirates Cop Title In Little Loop, Post 14-0 Mark

The Pirates, managed by Scotty Orr and "Jumbo" Moffatt, won the championship of the Lonaconing Little League yesterday by scoring their second straight victory over the Dodgers in the playoffs by the score of 7-0.

The Pirates won the opener on Monday by the score of 12-1.

Jimmie Love and Jimmie Crawford limited the Dodgers to four hits in yesterday's game. Love hurled five innings, fanned eight, received credit for the win, his 10th of the season, collected three hits in four official trips and sparkled in the field. "Butch" Rankin collected two hits for the victors.

Wayne Shockey had a perfect day at the plate for the Dodgers with three-for-three.

Score:

Tom Sturdivant Pitches Buccos To 3-0 Victory

Skinner's Two Run Triple Beats Colts

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Bob Skinner's two-run triple backed a 3-hitter by knuckleballer Tom Sturdivant Wednesday night as the Pittsburgh Pirates eliminated the Houston Colts from the National League pennant race with a 3-0 victory.

The loss was the 81st of the year—and sixth in a row—for the Colts. They have won 45.

Sturdivant won his sixth game against three losses and had a no-hitter for 4 1-3 innings before Hal Smith singled to left. Al Spangler's two-out single in the sixth and Bob Lillis' leadoff double in the ninth were the only other blows off the one-time New York Yankee star.

Skinner's triple in the third inning came after Don Hoak and Dick Groat singled. Bob Clemente followed with a sacrifice fly to score Skinner.

Buffalo Appeals Prexy's Decision

NEW YORK (AP)—The Buffalo Bisons of the International Baseball League appealed Wednesday against a decision of the loop's president in forfeiting three Buffalo games for use of an ineligible player. The appeal will be heard next Monday.

Thomas H. Richardson, league president, awarded two victories to the Richmond Vees and one to the Columbus Jets Tuesday, and added three defeats to the Buffalo record.

The Columbus club protested that Lee Elia, Bisons infielder, had played in violation of the league's player limit regulation.

Brelsford Wins, 7-0

Posts 12th Shutout Over Corriganville

Hyndman took a 2-0 lead in the County Softball League's best-of-five final playoff series by blanking Corriganville yesterday at the latter place by the score of 7-0 on a four hitter by Junior Brelsford, who recorded his twelfth shutout of the season and his 28th victory.

"Pep" May and Harry Widdows sparked the Stahlman Texaco sponsored Hyndman team at the plate with three hits each. May smashed a homer, triple and double while Widdows garnered a three-bagger and two singles. Dick Emerick collected two safeties.

Corriganville, which lost the opener of the series by the score of 1-0 on Monday, was held to four singles.

The third game of the series is scheduled for Friday at 6 p.m., at Hyndman.

Tom Gracie Wins Maplehurst Event

Tom Gracie won the Throw Out Tournament held yesterday by the Men's Golf Association at the Maplehurst Country Club with a score of 27-5—22.

Golfers threw out their two worst holes in the nine-hole test.

Four players tied for second place, namely, Al Via 29-6—23, Joe Bolt 28-5—23, Paul Moulden 29-6—23, and H. V. King 43-20—23.

Paul Molden was closest to the pin on No. 4 and Jake Michaels was closest to the pin on No. 7.

Thirty-five members participated.

Members planning to play in the annual fall championship tournament are requested to register at the pro shop. The tourney will get under way about September 1.

pedwin deadeye
This Pedwin is fast becoming a classic in its own right. Little wonder! The low-riding front seam is handsewn (like higher priced styles) to give this shoe a clean, lean look, plus a new kind of foot-hugging fit. Bag this handsome trophy for your wardrobe—soon.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Affectionately And Kelso Win Saratoga Races

Former Beats 35-1 Shot In Spinaway

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Aug. 22 — Ethel D. Jacobs' Affectionately, undisputed 2-year-old filly queen, and Bohemia Stable's Kelso, horse of the year in 1960-'61, shared the honors before a crowd of 14,804 in delightful weather today. Both odds-on choices ran fully to expectations, as Affectionately accounted for the 71st running of the $50,000 added Spinaway and Kelso celebrated his comeback with a victory in an overnight event on the grass course.

Affectionately, leading all the way, was under extreme pressure to beat Nalee, a 35 to 1 shot, by a length and a quarter in 1:10 2/5 for the 6 furlongs, a stakes record at the Spa. Third in the field of nine was Rare Exchange, 2½ lengths farther away. Fashion Verdict was fourth.

Affectionately, winner of 9 of 10 races, earned $51,821 from the gross purse of $79,725. It increased her total to $194,231. She paid $2.60. Kelso paid $2.50, shortest price at the meeting. Ismael Valenzuela rode both, and two other winners early in the day. Willie Shoemaker was unavailable for Kelso. Valenzuela won the 1961 Spinaway on Cicada.

Nalee, winner of Delaware's Blue Hen, gave chase to Affectionately all the way. She loomed a threat from the eighth pole home, only to weaken in the closing strides. Affectionately was whipped by Valenzuela several times.

Kelso's victory was achieved with decisiveness although Valenzuela went from a pull to a drive on him in the last sixteenth. He then prevailed by a length and a half from Call The Witness in 1:41 4/5, only 3/5 of a second slower than the track record for a mile and a sixteenth on turf. Fountain Hill was a third in the field of seven.

Kelso is pointing for another meeting with Carry Back and Beau Purple in the Aqueduct on Labor Day. He has won 2 of 5 starts this year. No stakes.

Three Jockeys Are Suspended At Timonium

Set Down Ten Days, Weakley Fined $25

TIMONIUM, Md. (AP) — Three jockeys were handed 10-day suspensions Wednesday after the stewards of Timonium Race Track viewed the films of Tuesday's and Wednesday's races.

A fourth jockey, Linwood Weakley, was fined $25 for failing to fulfill a riding engagement on today's program.

Weakley was scheduled to ride Sugar Loch in the fifth race but called and notified track officials he could not fulfill the assignment. The stewards said Weakley had a weak excuse for not being present.

Jockeys Carlos Gonzalez, Emanuel Addesa and Mason Gordon received the suspensions.

Gonzalez was disciplined for allowing his mount, Sagitate, to impede several other horses in Tuesday's seventh race.

Addesa, who won three races Wednesday, was suspended for careless riding in Tuesday's second race. His mount was Dexalei.

Gordon was accused of abusing his mount, Another Char, prior to the running of Tuesday's seventh race. The stewards said Gordon had been warned and fined on the same charge several times in the past.

The suspensions begin with Thursday's program.

Jaipur Tops 3-Year-Olds

NEW YORK (UPI) — Jaipur, victor over Ridan by a nose in last Saturday's Travers Stakes at Saratoga, continued to enjoy a much more comfortable margin Wednesday over his rival in the race for this year's 3-year-old honors.

The latest weekly poll conducted by the Thoroughbred Racing Association among its racing secretaries showed Jaipur with 339 points to 231 for Ridan. Admiral's Voyage was third in the voting announced Wednesday with 71 points.

Kelso, the 1960 and 1961 "horse of the year," was still on top among the older male horses although he has yet to win a stakes race in 1962. The gelding received 307 votes to remain ahead of Carry Back, with 280, and Prove It, with 39.

In Memoriam

GEORGE W. CONRAD, Age 77 last Dec. 20, departed this life Aug. 5, 1962.
God saw that he was suffering
The hills were hard to climb,
He gently closed his weary eyes
And whispered, "Peace be thine."
Not dead to us who loved him,
Not lost, just gone before,
He said goodbye to none
The gates were opened, a voice said "Come."
His Sister, ELSIE C. ROBEY

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

In Memoriam

GEORGE W. CONRAD, Age 77 last Dec. 20, departed this life Aug. 5, 1962.
God saw that he was suffering
The hills were hard to climb,
He gently closed his weary eyes
And whispered, "Peace be thine."
Not dead to us who loved him,
Not lost, just gone before,
He said goodbye to none
The gates were opened, a voice said "Come."
His Sister, ELSIE C. ROBEY

Memorial To Improve Facilities

Hospital Outlines $1,677,104 Plan For Modernization

Memorial Hospital's board of governors unveiled plans yesterday for a $1,667,104 modernization program and told city and county officials they will be asked to float two half-million-dollar bond issues to help finance it.

The plan, explained at a meeting of public officials, civic leaders and professional people, involves construction of a new wing and modernization of existing facilities in the present east wing.

Allegany County's board of commissioners and the Mayor and Council of Cumberland each will be asked to provide $500,000. Federal money available from Hill-Burton Act funds would come to $555,701, and the hospital would furnish the remaining $111,403 from its capital reserve fund.

The Problem

George B. Newman, president of the board of governors, and John A. Moberly, administrator, documented their case with figures, charts and diagrams that showed:

— Memorial is the busiest hospital in the state in relation to its capacity, having a higher percentage of occupancy than any other Maryland hospital.

— The hospital is operating with 252 beds, while licensed for only 234.

— The maternity section, where 90 per cent of all Allegany county babies are born, is always crowded.

— Pediatrics is only half as adequate a department as it should be.

— Last year Memorial's caseload was the highest in its 33 years, at 88,334 patient-days.

In 1961 the board of governors employed Norby, Hatfield Associates, hospital consultants, to make a complete survey of facilities and to recommend a modernization plan that would solve the daily operational problem.

The Needs

The consultants answered with a voluminous report containing these basic recommendations:

— Relocate and enlarge the pediatric department, the operating room facilities and the maternity department.

— Relocate the cystoscopic department.

— Provide adequate medical staff lounge and library, and additional administrative and business office space.

— Supply more space for preventive medicine service expansion.

To fulfill these recommendations, the hospital now plans a modernization program that calls for building a new north wing at the rear of and parallel to the front section of the hospital, along with modernization of the present east wing.

The Solution

The present four-story hospital building looks like the letter T, with the east wing extending back from the middle of the main section. A new north wing would change its shape into that of an H.

Planned construction includes:

— A new four-story wing with a ground floor for storage, library and doctors' lounge; second floor for a new pediatric department; third floor for operating and recovery rooms and surgical nursing rooms; and fourth floor for maternity department.

— A two-story building north of the present dining-dishwashing area, with storage and employe locker room on the ground floor and an enlarged, consolidated hospital dining room on the second floor.

Strictly speaking, this will not be an expansion program as such, because only 10 beds will be added to present capacity.

Hearing Is Set

The Board of Zoning Appeals has scheduled a hearing today at 8 p. m. in City Hall on the application of Mary Margaret Vocke, 318 Cumberland Street, to build an addition to the rear of the home and use it as a kindergarten.

COLLECTION DAY TODAY

Hallway Dining Room

Miss Jean Miller, R. N., shows a group of public officials and civic leaders the main hallway in Memorial Hospital's pediatrics department, where children must be fed because there is no dining area in the small department. The hospital conducted the tour yesterday in connection with its announcement of a major modernization program.

Visitors See Memorial's Needs, Accomplishments

About 35 visitors toured Memorial Hospital from basement to top floor yesterday to see the hospital's problems and needs, along with some of its important but little-known accomplishments.

From beginning to end, the tour was a study in contrasts. It displayed overcrowded floors where patients often must be put in beds in the halls. But it also showed off the most complete and modern laboratory facilities in the area.

The hospital conducted the tour for a group of public officials, civic leaders and representatives of press and radio, by way of explaining a $1,677,104 modernization program unveiled yesterday.

Most pervasive of a long list of problems is lack of space and privacy.

The tour group saw the feeding area in pediatrics — the hallway, with high chairs and tables along one wall. It's also the play area. The medicine dispensing area in pediatrics is crowded and affords no privacy. Some treatments are provided in a utility room, which also is crowded. There is no waiting room in the department.

Similar conditions prevail in many other sections of the hospital. Surgery, for example, is unhandily located in the middle of a floor containing two bed sections. The operating rooms are modern and well equipped, but during an operation the door is partly blocked by anethesia equipment.

First-Rate Facilities

By contrast, Dr. Lester Kiefer, the hospital's fulltime pathologist, and Raymond E. Vanderlinde, Ph. D., the biochemist, rather proudly showed off laboratories full of new equipment, much of it automated. A physician said the labs could serve a hospital twice the size of Memorial.

The hospital also displayed its recently acquired electroencephalograph, which records "brain waves," something that until this spring meant a trip to Baltimore for the patient whose doctor wanted him to have an "EEG."

Visitors also learned that the hospital's school of nursing, the only one in the county, has about 100 young women enrolled. Plans are now being discussed for adding a school to train registered laboratory technicians, of whom there is a national shortage.

Needs, Solution Outlined

After lunch in the student nurses' dining room, the hospital staff and governors conducted an 80-minute program of talks and color slide projections pointing up the institution's problems and its plans for solving them.

The hospital wants to modernize and rearrange its existing facilities. This involves two new buildings and will cost $1,677,104.

The program also included the background of the hospital's growth and financing, plus a raft of little-known facts. (Sample little-known fact: Memorial, with 432 employes and an annual payroll of $1,549,959, is the county's seventh largest employer).

Memorial was built in 1929, and since then $2,060,395 has been spent for capital improvements and equipment. A third of this, $690,895, has come from actual earnings of the hospital. Cumberland has furnished $922,000, Allegany Conuty $447,500.

Since 1929, the city's contribution for capital improvements has totaled $397,000, and the county's $347,500. This amounts to 25 cents per patient day per year.

L. EDWARD WITT

Witt Accepts Teaching Post At Suitland

L. Edward Witt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis E. Witt, 306 Helen Street, has accepted a position at Suitland Junior High School, Suitland, as a ninth grade general science teacher.

Mr. Witt, who graduated in 1958 from LaSalle High School, received his bachelor of science degree this year at Frostburg State Teachers College, where he majored in biology.

While at college he was active in the college marching band, the Newman Club, Sigma Tau Gamma national social fraternity and intramural sports, and was a member of the basketball team.

At Suitland he will help coach the basketball team.

He has been an employe of the Times and Alleganian Company for the past three years.

Bus Stop Moved During Convention

The bus stop in front of the Elks Home will be moved about 100 feet forward to B'er Chayim Temple during the annual convention of the Maryland-Delaware -District of Columbia Elks Association, according to Police Commissioner William V. Keegan.

He said the bus stop sign will be moved today at 9 a. m. when the convention opens, and will be in effect for the rest of the week.

Board Advises Against Action On Interim Plan

The Municipal Planning and Zoning Commission has advised against a proposal for an interim subdivision ordinance, it was learned yesterday.

George O. Hollar, commission chairman, advised Mayor Earl D. Chaney yesterday that the action was taken at an executive session of the commission Tuesday night, when the following motion was made and duly passed:

"In view of the fact that the contract with Blair and Stein Associates requires that a subdivision ordinance be prepared by them as of January 1963, we forego any attempt to provide an interim subdivision ordinance for such a brief period of time."

Mayor Chaney last week asked the commission to express its views on a proposed subdivision ordinance, saying it will be several months before the city can expect enactment of new regulations.

The adoption of a subdivision ordinance, which would be effective until the passage of an ordinance slated during the city's planning program, was suggested last week by Street Commissioner Lucile Roeder during budget talks.

It was conservatively estimated yesterday that it will take several months after the submission of the document to bring about enactment of an ordinance which would set up ground rules requiring subdividers to provide minimum facilities, such as streets and sewers, before a subdivision would be accepted by the city.

Public Hearing Today

A public hearing on a proposed Master Highway Plan for Allegany County will be held this evening at 7:30 in the Court House by the County Planning and Zoning Commission.

Man Found Dead In B&O Keyser Yard

Charles T. James Killed; Inquest Set Tomorrow

Charles Thornton James, 44, of Cumberland was decapitated by a Baltimore & Ohio Railroad train in Keyser yesterday.

His body was found on the westbound track of the Keyser yards at 5:15 p.m. by a railroad shop engine crew. His head and left shoulder had been severed.

Police Chief Ralph Marsh said James had been in Keyser at about 1:30 p.m. to leave two radios at the Davis radio and TV repair shop. He may have been walking toward his mother's house on Front Street when he was run over.

Chief Marsh said a westbound coal train had left Keyser at 4:40 p.m. using the track on which the body later was found.

He also said James was not a railroad employe, and that he was married and the father of three children.

Justice of the Peace Madalyn Bazzle, acting coroner, has scheduled an inquest for 10:30 a.m. tomorrow, at her office in Keyser.

The body was taken to the Rogers Funeral Home, where Chief Marsh, Miss Bazzle and Prosecuting Attorney C. Reeves Taylor began their investigation.

Police said James was the son of Charles T. and Lavena J. James. His billfold carried identification cards listing several Cumberland street addresses, most of which had been scratched out.

B&O Crane Knocks Out PE Power

Electrical power in the Bedford Road-Baltimore Pike area was disrupted for 14 minutes yesterday afternoon after a railroad crane boom hit a Potomac Edison line.

The crane, working on construction of a spur line for the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad from the Rolling Mill yard toward Oldtown Road, was pushing a railroad car along a track when the long boom of the crane went into the lines.

The boom hit a 34.5 kilovolt transmission line and a 12 kv. distribution line. The transmission line serves the B&O reclamation plant and Queen City Station, and the distribution line serves the Bedford Road - Baltimore Pike area.

No one was injured and the lines apparently were not damaged. The accident happened at 2:02 p. m. and service was restored at 2:16.

Fire Prevention Queen Contest Judges Named

Three judges have been named to select the Allegany County Forest Fire Prevention queen Friday night at 7:30 o'clock at the Cumberland Fair.

Ten girls, 16 to 18 years old, who submitted the best essays on forest fire prevention have been designated as finalists. They will appear in party frocks on the stage in front of the grandstand.

Judges will be County Commissioner John J. Rowan, F. Patrick Allender and Woodward D. Pealer.

HUDSON NIX

JOHN C. AGATHON

Nix Promoted, Agathon Succeeds Him At Amcelle

John C. Agathon has been appointed industrial relations manager at the Amcelle plant of Celanese Fibers Company to succeed Hudson Nix, who is being promoted to director of labor relations for the Celanese Corporation of America.

The announcements were made yesterday by W. E. Crooks, Amcelle plant manager.

Mr. Agathon is a native of Syracuse, N.Y. He and his wife and four children have been living in Paramus, N.J., and will be moving to the area soon.

A graduate of Cornell University School of Industrial and Labor Relations in 1948, he was on the dean's list two years and was a member of Phi Kappa Tau fraternity. After attending Columbia University, he was a member of the Evening College staff at Rutgers University, where he taught undergraduate courses in industrial relations for two years.

Broad Background

His experience in industry began at Botany Mills, Inc., where for several years he was responsible for union relations at the division level for the company. He left to broaden his experience in personnel, and joined the Grand Union Company, a retail food chain with over 500 stores in the East, as division personnel manager, responsible for establishing and supervising a complete program for all truck operations, warehouses and food manufacturing locations. He has also been employed as personnel manager at Daitch-Shopwell, Inc., and corporate director of personnel and labor relations for Stahl-Meyer, Inc., food processors with plants in the East and Midwest and sales in domestic and international markets.

His professional activities and associations include being chapter president of Cornell Industrial Relations Alumni, member of American Society for Personnel Administration, New York Personnel Association, American Management Association, Commerce and Industry Association of New York, and the Social Action Forum of Manhattan College.

Air Force Veteran

A veteran of World War II, he enlisted as an Air Force private, and was discharged in 1945 as a first lieutenant, having served in the Mediterranean Theatre as squadron radar observer and aerial navigator. He completed a 50-mission tour which included being shot down and parachuting behind enemy lines, was missing in action for two months, and returned to his squadron to fly 15 additional missions. He holds the Distinguished Flying Cross, Air Medal with four oak leaf clusters, and Purple Heart.

He and his family are members of the Episcopal Church, where he has served as vice president of the Men's Club, and his wife as member of the choir and secretary of the Ladies' Club. His other interests include memberships in the Elks and Tuscan Lodge, A.F.&A.M., and golfing and bowling.

$2,269,500 Requested For Teacher College

BALTIMORE (AP) — State educators asked Wednesday for $9,756,000 to enlarge facilities at Maryland's five teacher-training colleges during the fiscal year beginning next July 1.

The funds, requested at a hearing of state planners, are part of a $27,065,000 five-year master plan for expanding and modernizing teacher college campuses under the State Department of Education's jurisdiction.

The superintendent of schools, Dr. Thomas G. Pullen, told the planners more space and buildings are needed to meet higher enrollments in coming years, and called many of the 40 projects proposed for fiscal 1964 urgent.

The construction funds must first be approved by Gov. Tawes and then appropriated by the General Assembly.

Building requests presented for the five campuses were:

Towson, $5,159,000, as part of a $10,235,000 five - year program; Frostburg, $2,269,500, against projected expenditures of $8,058,300; Salisbury, $1,028,000, as part of $2,806,000; Coppin, $686,000 of $3,104,000 long range funds; Bowie, $613,000 of $2,861,000.

Woman Routs Attacker

Garrett County authorities are investigating the attempted rape of an Oakland housewife early Saturday morning at her home on Liberty Street.

Mrs. Elsie Good, whose husband was away at the time of the incident, told Sheriff James Frantz an intruder entered her home about 1 a.m. Saturday through the rear door, which was unlocked.

He went into her bedroom, pulled her out of bed and took her down a flight of steps to the living room, where the scuffle continued.

Then he pulled her out through the rear of the house into the yard. During the scuffle, the woman said, she was cut on the hand and chest by a hunting knife wielded by the intruder.

Mrs. Good said she screamed but nobody came to help her.

The knife was found near the home. Mrs. Good went to the hospital for treatment later that day.

Two suspects were picked up, questioned and released, according to Sheriff Frantz who is being assisted by police of Oakland.

Man Killed As Big Truck Overturns

Tractor-Trailer Crash Kills Ohio Truck Driver

A 43-year-old Youngstown, Ohio, tractor-trailer driver was killed instantly yesterday when the rig he was operating on West Virginia Route 42 in Grant County went out of control, turned over, slid along the highway and pinned him under the wreckage.

Angelo C. Knapp, father of four children, died of a fractured skull and crushed chest. The accident happened about a mile north of Scherr, W. Va.

Trooper C. W. Chapman of the Petersburg detachment of State Police said the brakes of the tractor-trailer failed as the rig was descending Allegheny Front toward Scherr with a load of eight-inch pipe.

The rig failed to round a curve, hit an embankment, jackknifed and turned over, sliding about 75 feet down the highway before coming to a stop.

Pinned In Cab

The victim was pinned under the cab, and a wrecker from Petersburg was needed to lift the wreckage from the man's body. It took four or five hours to clear the wreckage from the highway, authorities said.

The man's body was taken to the Schaeffer Funeral Home in Petersburg where it was examined by Dr. Lysle T. Veach, who said death was due to the fractured skull and crushed chest.

Also investigating the accident were James P. Geary, prosecuting attorney of Grant County, and J. L. Boor, acting coroner.

On Way To Needmore

The victim, who owned the tractor-trailer, was hauling pipe for the Youngstown Cartridge Company and was en route to the Needmore, W. Va., area, where a natural gas operation is in progress.

Knapp, a veteran of World War II, was born in Youngstown on October 5, 1918.

Besides his mother, Mrs. Margaret (Pratt) Knapp, he is survived by his wife, Mrs. Rose Mary (Martin), two sons, two daughters, three sisters and two brothers.

His body was taken to the Willer Funeral Home in Youngstown.

Administrator Of Garrett Co. Hospital Dies

Henry Wheeler McComas Jr., administrator for Garrett County Memorial Hospital the past seven years, died yesterday afternoon at the hospital, where he was admitted on Sunday following a heart attack. He was 55.

Mr. McComas was instrumental in obtaining the newest facilities and equipment at the hospital.

A native of Oakland, he was a graduate of Oakland High School, where he was active in sports; of Catherman's Business School, and Maryland State Police School in 1942.

Prior to becoming administrator for the Oakland hospital he had worked as a teller at Garrett National Bank and as an insulin therapist at Tidewater Hospitals Inc., Beaufort, S. C. He also served as a chief boatswain's mate in the Coast Guard stationed at Bethlehem Steel Yards during World War II and was a director of social service division of Baltimore City Hospital.

Mr. McComas had served as a city councilman in Oakland and was chairman of Allegany-Garrett County Heart Association 1959-1961. He was a member of St. Paul's Methodist Church, Oakland; the American Academy of Medical Administrators; Oakland-Mt. Lake Park Lions Club; Knights of Pythias; Woodmen of the World and other Oakland organizations.

He was born in Oakland November 29, 1906, a son of the late Dr. Henry W. McComas Sr., and Sarah Ann (West) McComas.

Livestock Judging At Fair

Memorial To Improve Facilities

Hospital Outlines $1,677,104 Plan For Modernization

Memorial Hospital's board of governors unveiled plans yesterday for a $1,667,104 modernization program and told city and county officials they will be asked to float two half-million-dollar bond issues to help finance it.

The plan, explained at a meeting of public officials, civic leaders and professional people, involves construction of a new wing and modernization of existing facilities in the present east wing.

Allegany County's board of commissioners and the Mayor and Council of Cumberland each will be asked to provide $500,000. Federal money available from Hill-Burton Act funds would come to $555,701, and the hospital would furnish the remaining $111,403 from its capital reserve fund.

The Problem

George B. Newman, president of the board of governors, and John A. Moberly, administrator, documented their case with figures, charts and diagrams that showed:

— Memorial is the busiest hospital in the state in relation to its capacity, having a higher percentage of occupancy than any other Maryland hospital.

— The hospital is operating with 252 beds, while licensed for only 234.

— The maternity section, where 90 per cent of all Allegany county babies are born, is always crowded.

— Pediatrics is only half as adequate a department as it should be.

— Surgery is located between two bed areas.

— Last year Memorial's caseload was the highest in its 33 years, at 88,334 patient-days.

In 1961 the board of governors employed Norby, Hatfield Associates, hospital consultants, to make a complete survey of facilities and to recommend a modernization plan that would solve the daily operational problem.

The Needs

The consultants answered with a voluminous report containing these basic recommendations:

— Relocate and enlarge the pediatric department, the operating room facilities and the maternity department.

— Relocate the cystoscopic department.

— Provide adequate medical staff lounge and library, and additional administrative and business office space.

— Supply more space for preventive medicine service expansion.

To fulfill these recommendations, the hospital now plans a modernization program that calls for building a new north wing at the rear of and parallel to the front section of the hospital, along with modernization of the present east wing.

The Solution

The present four-story hospital building looks like the letter T, with the east wing extending back from the middle of the main section. A new north wing would change its shape into that of an H.

Planned construction includes:

— A new four-story wing with a ground floor for storage, library and doctors' lounge; second floor for a new pediatric department; third floor for operating and recovery rooms and surgical nursing rooms; and fourth floor for maternity department.

— A two-story building north of the present dining-dishwashing area, with storage and employe locker room on the ground floor and an enlarged, consolidated hospital dining room on the second floor.

Strictly speaking, this will not be an expansion program as such, because only 10 beds will be added to present capacity.

Hearing Is Set

The Board of Zoning Appeals has scheduled a hearing today at 8 p. m. in City Hall on the application of Mary Margaret Vocke, 318 Cumberland Street, to build an addition to the rear of the home and use it as a kindergarten.

COLLECTION DAY TODAY

Hallway Dining Room

Miss Jean Miller, R. N., shows a group of public officials and civic leaders the main hallway in Memorial Hospital's pediatrics department, where children must be fed because there is no dining area in the small department. The hospital conducted the tour yesterday in connection with its announcement of a major modernization program.

Visitors See Memorial's Needs, Accomplishments

About 35 visitors toured Memorial Hospital from basement to top floor yesterday to see the hospital's problems and needs, along with some of its important but little-known accomplishments.

From beginning to end, the tour was a study in contrasts. It displayed overcrowded floors where patients often must be put in beds in the halls. But it also showed off the most complete and modern laboratory facilities in the area.

The hospital conducted the tour for a group of public officials, civic leaders and representatives of press and radio, by way of explaining a $1,677,104 modernization program unveiled yesterday.

Most pervasive of a long list of problems is lack of space and privacy.

The tour group saw the feeding area in pediatrics — the hallway, with high chairs and tables along one wall. It's also the play area. The medicine dispensing area in pediatrics is crowded and affords no privacy. Some treatments are provided in a utility room, which also is crowded. There is no waiting room in the department.

Similar conditions prevail in many other sections of the hospital. Surgery, for example, is unhandily located in the middle of a floor containing two bed sections. The operating rooms are modern and well equipped, but during an operation the door is partly blocked by anethesia equipment.

First-Rate Facilities

By contrast, Dr. Lester Kiefer, the hospital's fulltime pathologist, and Raymond E. Vanderlinde, Ph. D., the biochemist, rather proudly showed off laboratories full of new equipment, much of it automated. A physician said the labs could serve a hospital twice the size of Memorial.

The hospital also displayed its recently acquired electroencephalograph, which records "brain waves," something that until this spring meant a trip to Baltimore for the patient whose doctor wanted him to have an "EEG."

Visitors also learned that the hospital's school of nursing, the only one in the county, has about 100 young women enrolled. Plans are now being discussed for adding a school to train registered laboratory technicians, of whom there is a national shortage.

Needs, Solution Outlined

After lunch in the student nurses' dining room, the hospital staff and governors conducted an 80-minute program of talks and color slide projections pointing up the institution's problems and its plans for solving them.

The hospital wants to modernize and rearrange its existing facilities. This involves two new buildings and will cost $1,677,104.

The program also included the background of the hospital's growth and financing, plus a raft of little-known facts. (Sample little-known fact: Memorial, with 432 employes and an annual payroll of $1,549,959, is the county's seventh largest employer).

Memorial was built in 1929, and since then $2,060,395 has been spent for capital improvements and equipment. A third of this, $690,895, has come from actual earnings of the hospital. Cumberland has furnished $922,000, Allegany Conuty $447,500.

Since 1929, the city's contribution for capital improvements has totaled $397,000, and the county's $347,500. This amounts to 25 cents per patient day per year.

L. EDWARD WITT

Witt Accepts Teaching Post At Suitland

L. Edward Witt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis E. Witt, 306 Helen Street, has accepted a position at Suitland Junior High School, Suitland, as a ninth grade general science teacher.

Mr. Witt, who graduated in 1958 from LaSalle High School, received his bachelor of science degree this year at Frostburg State Teachers College, where he majored in biology.

While at college he was active in the college marching band, the Newman Club, Sigma Tau Gamma national social fraternity and intramural sports, and was a member of the basketball team.

At Suitland he will help coach the basketball team.

He has been an employe of the Times and Alleganian Company for the past three years.

Bus Stop Moved During Convention

The bus stop in front of the Elks Home will be moved about 100 feet forward to B'er Chayim Temple during the annual convention of the Maryland-Delaware-District of Columbia Elks Association, according to Police Commissioner William V. Keegan.

He said the bus stop sign will be moved today at 9 a. m. when the convention opens, and will be in effect for the rest of the week.

Board Advises Against Action On Interim Plan

The Municipal Planning and Zoning Commission has advised against a proposal for an interim subdivision ordinance, it was learned yesterday.

George O. Hollar, commission chairman, advised Mayor Earl D. Chaney yesterday that the action was taken at an executive session of the commission Tuesday night, when the following motion was made and duly passed:

"In view of the fact that the contract with Blair and Stein Associates requires that a subdivision ordinance be prepared by them as of January 1963, we forego any attempt to provide an interim subdivision ordinance for such a brief period of time."

Mayor Chaney last week asked the commission to express its views on a proposed subdivision ordinance, saying it will be several months before the city can expect enactment of new regulations.

The adoption of a subdivision ordinance, which would be effective until the passage of an ordinance slated during the city's planning program, was suggested last week by Street Commissioner Lucile Roeder during budget talks.

It was conservatively estimated yesterday that it will take several months after the submission of the document to bring about enactment of an ordinance which would set up ground rules requiring subdividers to provide minimum facilities, such as streets and sewers, before a subdivision would be accepted by the city.

Public Hearing Today

A public hearing on a proposed Master Highway Plan for Allegany County will be held this evening at 7:30 in the Court House by the County Planning and Zoning Commission.

Man Found Dead In B&O Keyser Yard

Charles T. James Killed; Inquest Set Tomorrow

Charles Thornton James, 44, of Cumberland was decapitated by a Baltimore & Ohio Railroad train in Keyser yesterday.

His body was found on the westbound track of the Keyser yards at 5:15 p.m. by a railroad shop engine crew. His head and left shoulder had been severed.

Police Chief Ralph Marsh said James had been in Keyser at about 1:30 p.m. to leave two radios at the Davis radio and TV repair shop. He may have been walking toward his mother's house on Front Street when he was run over.

Chief Marsh said a westbound coal train had left Keyser at 4:40 p.m. using the track on which the body later was found.

He also said James was not a railroad employe, and that he was married and the father of three children.

Justice of the Peace Madalyn Bazzle, acting coroner, has scheduled an inquest for 10:30 a.m. tomorrow, at her office in Keyser.

The body was taken to the Rogers Funeral Home, where Chief Marsh, Miss Bazzle and Prosecuting Attorney C. Reeves Taylor began their investigation.

Police said James was the son of Charles T. and Lavena J. James. His billfold carried identification cards listing several Cumberland street addresses, most of which had been scratched out.

B&O Crane Knocks Out PE Power

Electrical power in the Bedford Road-Baltimore Pike area was disrupted for 14 minutes yesterday afternoon after a railroad crane boom hit a Potomac Edison line.

The crane, working on construction of a spur line for the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad from the Rolling Mill yard toward Oldtown Road, was pushing a railroad car along a track when the long boom of the crane went into the lines.

The boom hit a 34.5 kilovolt transmission line and a 12 kv. distribution line. The transmission line serves the B&O reclamation plant and Queen City Station, and the distribution line serves the Bedford Road - Baltimore Pike area.

No one was injured and the lines apparently were not damaged. The accident happened at 2:02 p. m. and service was restored at 2:16.

Fire Prevention Queen Contest Judges Named

Three judges have been named to select the Allegany County Forest Fire Prevention queen Friday night at 7:30 o'clock at the Cumberland Fair.

Ten girls, 16 to 18 years old, who submitted the best essays on forest fire prevention have been designated as finalists. They will appear in party frocks on the stage in front of the grandstand.

Judges will be County Commissioner John J. Rowan, F. Patrick Allender and Woodward D. Pealer.

JOHN C. AGATHON

Nix Promoted, Agathon Succeeds Him At Amcelle

John C. Agathon has been appointed industrial relations manager at the Amcelle plant of Celanese Fibers Company to succeed Hudson Nix, who is being promoted to director of labor relations for the Celanese Corporation of America.

The announcements were made yesterday by W. E. Crooks, Amcelle plant manager.

Mr. Agathon is a native of Syracuse, N.Y. He and his wife and four children have been living in Paramus, N.J., and will be moving to the area soon.

A graduate of Cornell University School of Industrial and Labor Relations in 1948, he was on the dean's list two years and was a member of Phi Kappa Tau fraternity. After attending Columbia University, he was a member of the Evening College staff at Rutgers University, where he taught undergraduate courses in industrial relations for two years.

Broad Background

His experience in industry began at Botany Mills, Inc., where for several years he was responsible for union relations at the division level for the company. He left to broaden his experience in personnel, and joined the Grand Union Company, a retail food chain with over 500 stores in the East, as division personnel manager, responsible for establishing and supervising a complete program for all truck operations, warehouses and food manufacturing locations. He has also been employed as personnel manager at Daitch-Shopwell, Inc., and corporate director of personnel and labor relations for Stahl-Meyer, Inc., food processors with plants in the East and Midwest and sales in domestic and international markets.

His professional activities and associations include being chapter president of Cornell Industrial Relations Alumni, member of American Society for Personnel Administration, New York Personnel Association, American Management Association, Commerce and Industry Association of New York, and the Social Action Forum of Manhattan College.

Air Force Veteran

A veteran of World War II, he enlisted as an Air Force private, and was discharged in 1945 as a first lieutenant, having served in the Mediterranean Theatre as squadron radar observer and aerial navigator. He completed a 50-mission tour which included being shot down and parachuting behind enemy lines, was missing in action for two months, and returned to his squadron to fly 15 additional missions. He holds the Distinguished Flying Cross, Air Medal with four oak leaf clusters, and Purple Heart.

He and his family are members of the Episcopal Church, where he has served as vice president of the Men's Club, and his wife as member of the choir and secretary of the Ladies' Club. His other interests include memberships in the Elks and Tuscan Lodge, A.F.&A.M., and golfing and bowling.

$2,269,500 Requested For Teacher College

BALTIMORE (AP) — State educators asked Wednesday for $9,756,000 to enlarge facilities at Maryland's five teacher-training colleges during the fiscal year beginning next July 1.

The funds, requested at a hearing of state planners, are part of a $27,065,000 five-year master plan for expanding and modernizing teacher college campuses under the State Department of Education's jurisdiction.

The superintendent of schools, Dr. Thomas G. Pullen, told the planners more space and buildings are needed to meet higher enrollments in coming years, and called many of the 40 projects proposed for fiscal 1964 urgent.

The construction funds must first be approved by Gov. Tawes and then appropriated by the General Assembly.

Building requests presented for the five campuses were:

Towson, $5,159,000, as part of a $10,235,000 five - year program; Frostburg, $2,269,500, against projected expenditures of $8,058,300; Salisbury, $1,028,000, as part of $2,806,000; Coppin, $686,000 of $3,104,000 long range funds; Bowie, $613,000 of $2,861,000.

Woman Routs Attacker

Garrett County authorities are investigating the attempted rape of an Oakland housewife early Saturday morning at her home on Liberty Street.

Mrs. Elsie Good, whose husband was away at the time of the incident, told Sheriff James Frantz an intruder entered her home about 1 a.m. Saturday through the rear door, which was unlocked.

He went into her bedroom, pulled her out of bed and took her down a flight of steps to the living room, where the scuffle continued.

Then he pulled her out through the rear of the house into the yard. During the scuffle, the woman said, she was cut on the hand and chest by a hunting knife wielded by the intruder.

Mrs. Good said she screamed but nobody came to help her.

The knife was found near the home. Mrs. Good went to the hospital for treatment later that day.

Two suspects were picked up, questioned and released, according to Sheriff Frantz who is being assisted by police of Oakland.

Tractor-Trailer Crash Kills Ohio Truck Driver

A 43-year-old Youngstown, Ohio, tractor-trailer driver was killed instantly yesterday when the rig he was operating on West Virginia Route 42 in Grant County went out of control, turned over, slid along the highway and pinned him under the wreckage.

Angelo C. Knapp, father of four children, died of a fractured skull and crushed chest. The accident happened about a mile north of Scherr, W. Va.

Trooper C. W. Chapman of the Petersburg detachment of State Police said the brakes of the tractor-trailer failed as the rig was descending Allegheny Front toward Scherr with a load of eight-inch pipe.

The rig failed to round a curve, hit an embankment, jackknifed and turned over, sliding about 75 feet down the highway before coming to a stop.

Pinned In Cab

The victim was pinned under the cab, and a wrecker from Petersburg was needed to lift the wreckage from the man's body. It took four or five hours to clear the wreckage from the highway, authorities said.

The man's body was taken to the Schaeffer Funeral Home in Petersburg where it was examined by Dr. Lysle T. Veach, who said death was due to the fractured skull and crushed chest.

Also investigating the accident were James P. Geary, prosecuting attorney of Grant County, and J. L. Boor, acting coroner.

On Way To Needmore

The victim, who owned the tractor-trailer, was hauling pipe for the Youngstown Cartridge Company and was en route to the Needmore, W. Va., area, where a natural gas operation is in progress.

Knapp, a veteran of World War II, was born in Youngstown on October 5, 1918.

Besides his mother, Mrs. Margaret (Pratt) Knapp, he is survived by his wife, Mrs. Rose Mary (Martin), two sons, two daughters, three sisters and two brothers.

His body was taken to the Willer Funeral Home in Youngstown.

Administrator Of Garrett Co. Hospital Dies

Henry Wheeler McComas Jr., administrator for Garrett County Memorial Hospital the past seven years, died yesterday afternoon at the hospital, where he was admitted on Sunday following a heart attack. He was 55.

Mr. McComas was instrumental in obtaining the newest facilities and equipment at the hospital.

A native of Oakland, he was a graduate of Oakland High School, where he was active in sports; of Catherman's Business School, and Maryland State Police School in 1942.
